CONTRACT GIVEN TO RE-LOCATE ROCHELLE-SELMA HIGHWAY ROUTE

PROJECT WILL ABOLISH 2 DANGEROUS CROSSINGS

Commissioner Pleased With Progress Made On Cypress Street Thoroughfare

Announcement of the letting of the first of two contracts for re-locating portions of the highway between Grayson and Urania and eliminating grade crossings on that thoroughfare was made by L. P. Abernathy, chairman of the Louisiana Highway commission, during a visit to Monroe Saturday.

The first contract, which has already been awarded, calls for the re-location of the road between Rochelle and Selma. The road, which has been generally acknowledged to be one of the most hazardous sections of the highway between Monroe and Alexandria, will be shifted to the east side of the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks, and will do away with two dangerous grade crossings.

Within the next 60 days, Commissioner Abernathy announced, a contract for the re-location of the section between Standard and Urania will be awarded. Award of contracts for the concrete paving of the two sections will be made later, Mr. Abernathy said.

These plans mark the beginning of a long-projected program for standardizing the entire highway from the end of the present concrete road at Grayson to Pineville, one of the most heavily traveled roads in north Louisiana.

During Mr. Abernathy's visit to Monroe he expressed his gratification over the progress of the work on the Cypress street thoroughfare from the West Monroe approach to the Ouachita river bridge westward. The new

HARRISON THINKS PRESIDENT WRONG

Believes Roosevelt Made Mistake In Criticizing New Tax Law

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—An old line southern Democrat—Senator Harrison of Mississippi—told the senate today that President Roosevelt was all wrong when he criticized the new tax law.

Harrison, chairman of the senate committee which helped write the tax revision measure, replied to the criticisms voiced by the president in a speech yesterday at Arthurdale, W. Va.

Raising his long arms to emphasize his words, he said:

"Congress framed this tax legislation to help business. I only hope that what we had expected will not be dampened or thrown away by this speech the president made yesterday."

Mr. Roosevelt permitted the $5,000,000,000 revenue measure to become law last night without his signature, declaring he did not want to seem

'SPY SCARE' ENDS AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—(AP)—The "spy scare" in the arrest of Miss Sylvia May Bradshaw, 23, of London, England, ended today.

"As far as I can see," said H. Stanford London, British consul general here, "the only case against her is a charge that she entered the United States on a visitor's passport and violated terms of the passport by securing employment while she has been in this country."

She was arrested last Thursday in Shreveport, when an unnamed informant complained she was taking photographs of the Barksdale army air field there and sending air-mail letters to Germany.

Immigration authorities, meanwhile, held her pending a hearing next Tuesday on charges that she worked as a governess in Hollywood and as a waitress in Shreveport.

The young woman, herself, apparently was unperturbed. She was quoted as saying:

"I came to America to get local color and see things. I'm a writer."

She said she is the daughter of George Bradshaw of Wayside, Hove, Sussex, England, manufacturer of motor wagons and bicycles.

The most legendary and powerful political figure in New York, James J. Hines, who was released on $20,000 bond, is pictured leaving police headquarters. The county grand jury will be asked to indict him for "influencing and intimidating judicial officers."

HIGH COURT TO ADJOURN TUESDAY

Only Few Cases To Await Action As Tribunal's Vacation Begins

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The supreme court will adjourn for the summer next Tuesday after an eight-month term that produced a series of opinions sustaining Roosevelt administration laws and activities.

Only a few cases await action before the nine justices scatter for their vacations in various parts of the United States, Canada and abroad.

These include a test of whether the national labor relation board can withdraw litigation from federal circuit courts in order to adopt new procedure in line with supreme court views.

During the year two new jurists were appointed. Senator Hugo L. Black of Alabama succeeded Willis Van Devanter of Wyoming and Solicitor General Stanley Reed of Kentucky took the seat of George Sutherland of Utah.

High on the list of New Deal victories during the last eight months were decisions upholding government interpretation of the national labor relations act.

In decisions involving the labor board, the tribunal:

1. Held unanimously that men who strike during negotiations over wages and working conditions are protected by the labor act against discrimination by the employer in determining who shall continue work.

2. Upheld unanimously a labor board order directing the Pennsylvania Greyhound Lines, Inc., and the Pacific Greyhound Lines, Inc., to withdraw recognition for collective bargaining purposes from labor organizations they were alleged to have formed and dominated.

3. Decided unanimously that a federal district court could not enjoin the labor board from conducting a hearing to determine whether a company had engaged in unfair labor practices.

4. Ruled five to two that a company which ships less than 40 per cent of its product in interstate commerce is subject to the labor relations act.

In important tax decisions, the tribunal ruled:

1. The federal government could impose an income tax on the salary of employes of the New York port authority, organized by an interstate compact to operate bridges and tun-

Secretary Hull Calls Press Conference To Exert Moral Influence

DECLARES ANY OUTBREAK DISTURBS ALL COUNTRIES

Number Of Signatories Of Pact Failing To Meet Its Obligations

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The United States government tried to keep central European powers from each others' throats today by reminding them that they had given their solemn word nearly ten years ago to refrain from war.

While Europe awaited anxiously the outcome of Sudeten Germans' demands for autonomous powers in Czechoslovakia, Secretary of State Hull called a special press conference to exert this government's moral influence for a peaceful settlement.

He said:

"With reference to the critical situation involving countries in central Europe, I desire to say that the government of the United States has been following recent developments with close and anxious attention.

"Nearly 10 years ago the government of the United States signed at Paris a treaty (the Kellogg-Briand pact) providing for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy.

"There are now parties to that treaty no less than 63 countries. In that treaty the contracting parties agree that 'the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means.' That pledge is no less binding now than when it was entered into. It is binding upon all of the parties.

"We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that any outbreak of hostilities anywhere in the world injects into world affairs a factor of general disturbance the ultimate consequence of which no man can foresee and is liable

ANNUAL COOKING SCHOOL PLANNED

Mrs. Ida Chitwood Will Conduct New-Star—World Exposition In June

The Morning World and News-Star's eighth annual cooking school and home-making exposition will open this year on Wednesday, June 15, and continue through Friday night, June 17, according to announcement made last night.

The cooking school will be held in Neville High school auditorium, as heretofore, and will be in charge of Mrs. Ida Chitwood, eminent authority in the culinary field and owner and operator of the famous "Chitwood Schools of Cookery," Dallas, Tex.

The event will conform to the high standards which have previously been set for this annual gathering of housewives from all sections of northeast Louisiana, who have learned to regard the occasion as one of the most outstanding schools of its kind in the state.

A[illegible]oon cooking classes and lectures will be held at 2:15 each afternoon of the three-day school, and on the night of Friday, June 17, a closing session will be held when valuable awards, given by contributing merchants, will be made. The list of awards each day, as well as those of the closing night, will be larger and more important than on any previous occasion since the News-Star—World cooking school was established.

The announcement that Mrs. Chitwood will have personal charge of the sessions is especially important, because of the prominence she holds in the culinary world of the south.

Mrs. Chitwood is probably the nation's outstanding lecturer and demonstrator in cookery schools. Year after year she personally completes a swing around a circuit of the nation's largest cities and conducts schools for the country's biggest newspapers. Her annual audience undoubtedly exceeds a quarter million women.

Year after year Mrs. Chitwood returns to Chicago to conduct the truly huge conferences of women who gather in three successive weeks for cooking schools presented by the Chicago Tribune in the Aragon ballroom, the Trianon ballroom and Guyon's Paradise ballroom.

INSURGENTS TAKE PUERTO ESCANDON

Loyalists Press Assault In Lerida Province At Heavy Cost Of Lives

HENDAYE, France, (At The Spanish Frontier) May 28.—(AP)—Insurgent troops fighting down the highway from Teruel to Sagunto today reported the capture of Puerto Escandon, key to the Valencia coast.

Insurgent advices said the troops pushed forward four miles to take the position where strong government forces had previously checked their drive from the northwest.

Puerto Escandon is 11 miles southeast of Teruel and 50 miles northwest of Sagunto, junction point on the vital Valencia coastal highway.

The insurgent dispatches said the advancing fighters moved on to encircle the nearby Escandon and Apatico hills after taking the key point.

Puerto Escandon was described as "the last important government defense" on the Teruel-Sagunto-Valencia highway.

Meanwhile, the government force pressed its assault today against the insurgent front in Lerida province at a heavy cost of lives.

Insurgents reported only one company out of a government division escaped death when wave after wave of infantrymen sought to storm the defenses of Tremp, hydro-electric power center 42 miles north of the provincial capital of Lerida.

To the south of Tremp, tanks and war planes were thrown into attacks on bridgeheads guarding crossings of the Segre river to Balaguer, 16 miles northeast of Lerida, and Seros, 16 miles southwest of Lerida.

The insurgents were reported to have given ground in the Vallfogona zone three miles south of Balaguer.

EARLY CLOSING TIME TO BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Summer closing hours for retail stores of Monroe will go into effect Wednesday, June 1, it was announced Saturday by officers of the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Under agreement reached by the members of the division early in the year, the stores will open each morning during the summer season, beginning June 1 and ending Labor day, at 8:30 o'clock, closing at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, except Saturday, when the closing hour will be 9 p.m.

600 KILLED AND 900 INJURED IN CANTON RAIDS, RESCUERS STATE

SHELLS DIRECTED CHIEFLY AT RAILWAY STATION AREA

Invaders Admit Defenders Counter Attacking Heavily In Lanfeng Sector

SHANGHAI, May 29 (Sunday)—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese continued their desperate struggle around Lanfeng today while Canton rescue workers counted 1,500 casualties in south China's most severe air bombardment.

The Chinese reiterated that they had recaptured Lanfeng, key to China's ancient capital, Kaifeng, on the Lunghai railway, and reported they had taken Lowang, eight miles west of Lanfeng.

These claims were denied by the Japanese, who countered with assertions that they had captured the important Lunghai city of Kweiteh, thereby acquiring a new base for intensification of their drive westward to Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways.

Reports from Canton said the dead in yesterday's air raids were estimated officially at 600 and the injured at 900.

The intensity of the raid was regarded as further evidence the Japanese were embarking on a large scale campaign to stop the movement of munitions through south China.

The Chinese press earlier had reported the arrival of 6,000 Japanese troops at Amoy, off the Fukien province coast, and the basing of a squadron of Japanese planes on Quemoy island, near Amoy.

The Canton raids were directed chiefly at the Wongsha railway station district, through which men and munitions have been moving to central China.

Although admitting the Chinese were counter attacking heavily in the Lanfeng area, the Japanese asserted enemy casualties already totaled 20,000

SHIP GOES DOWN AFTER COLLISION

Other Vessel Reports All Passengers Taken From Sunken Craft

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The steamship Mandalay, a pleasure boat, sank in the narrows of the lower New York bay tonight after a collision with the steamship Acadia, the coast guard said. The Acadia reported all passengers of the Mandalay were rescued.

The Mandalay was entering the harbor on its way from Atlantic Highlands to the Battery. The Acadia, owned by the Eastern Steamship company, was outward bound for Bermuda.

Officials of the line operating the Mandalay said 480 passengers were aboard outbound to Atlantic Highlands but said they presumed the number on the return was less.

Four coast guard boats and several police launches went to the scene.

Convention At Edgewater Park Expected To Attract More Than 300 Members

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., May 28.—(AP) Publishers of the state's newspapers trickled into Edgewater Park today to hold their round tables for opening the 36th annual meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association here Monday.

The convention, expected to attract more than 300 members, will have as its immediate object the formulation of a program to sell the south as a market to the commercial world and to make the newspapers a greater advertising medium.

Cranston Williams, Chattanooga, Tenn., secretary-manager of the association, was among the first arrivals and predicted that the meeting this year would be the largest in the history of the organization.

Unionism, to crop up at one time a unit issue in the south and he did not anticipate any major discussion of this subject but the newsprint production situation and conservation of its sources furnished an important question before the convention.

The report on the newsprint manufacture committee will be made by James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, chairman of the committee.

The publishers from 14 states chose the Mississippi coast for this conception to talk shop and to take time out for a little play on the seashore from their pressing executive duties.

The officers and directors hold their annual meeting Sunday night and the next day plunge into reports dealing with all phases of the newspaper business.

New officers will be elected Tuesday morning and that afternoon the annual golf tournament will be held.

Present officers are Ted Dealey, Dallas (Tex.) News-Journal, president; James E. Chappell, Birmingham (Ala.) News and Age-Herald, chairman of board; W. C. Johnson, Chattanooga (Tenn.) News treasurer and Cranston Williams, Chattanooga, secretary-manager.

An appeal for support to make the Hetty Foundation laboratory at Savannah, Ga., a permanent institution will be made before the convention by Dr. Charles H. Herty, head of the laboratory.

The purpose of the laboratory is to develop and continue means, purposes and uses of southern pine wood.

The convention lasts through Wednesday.

Rockefeller Center May Bring End To Labor Rift

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—A possible key to peace in American labor's long and bitter civil war appeared today in an unexpected quarter; the far-famed Rockefeller center.

It was embodied in a new type of union contract which recognized some of the general principles of both vertical and craft unionism.

Jurisdictional disputes constitute one of the main barriers to peace between John L. Lewis' vertical union, the C. I. O., and William Green's craft union, the American Federation of Labor.

The Rockefeller contract was not intended to patch up the civil war between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. It was intended to insure uninterrupted maintenance of Rockefeller center, the unprecedented building project John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his sons are erecting on Fifth avenue at Fiftieth street. The C. I. O. did not even have anything to do with it, for all the men involved are members of the A. F. of L. But veterans in the labor field nevertheless saw in it a possible solution to Mr. Lewis' and Mr. Green's differences.

At first glance, the contract looks like an agreement for a vertical union. It is a blanket affair, covering every

Wheeler Thinks New Deal Marking Foes For Defeat

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—A handful of men close to the White House is marking anti-New Deal Democrats for "oblivion" and undertaking to say how the party shall be reorganized, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, charged today.

The westerner, who led the coalition of Democratic and Republican senators which defeated the president's court reorganization bill last year, told the senate the group included:

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who also is public works administrator.

Thomas G. Corcoran and Ben Cohen, young attorneys who are among the president's advisers.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general.

James Roosevelt, the president's son and secretary.

"It is this little handful of men," Wheeler declared during debate on the administration's $3,247,000,000 lending-spending bill, "that wants to say how the party shall be reorganized and who shall be elected."

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, joined in Wheeler's denunciation of high administration officials who have intervened in party primary contests.

Bailey said Hopkins had announced publicly that the WPA would take no

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION PROPOSAL BEFORE SENATE

Several Substitute Plans For Raising Relief Funds Expected

BATON ROUGE, La., May 28.—(AP)—The Louisiana legislature reconvenes at 8 o'clock tomorrow night for the last day of introduction of bills with 32 measures on the calendar ready for final passage in the house of introduction.

Bills ready for final passage in the house include the general sales tax, which has been renamed the public welfare revenue bill, and the bills to provide $1,500,000 bonds for completing the New Orleans Charity hospital and $6,000,000 bonds for buildings in other charitable institutions and in education institutions. Many other state administration bills are in the house ready for final passage.

Bills ready for final passage in the senate include a bill by Senator Sidney W. Sweeney of Lake Charles to set up an industrial commission in the state department of labor to regulate wages and hours and a bill by the same senator to continue the debt moratorium commission in effect for another two years.

A flood is expected in both houses tomorrow night, the dead line for introduction of bills without consent of two-thirds of the members of the house of introduction. So far a total of 423 measures has gone into the house hopper and 163 measures have gone into the senate. Last session a total of 1,325 bills was introduced in

VETS WILL HOLD MEMORIAL RITES

Exercises Will Be Held At West Monroe Church And Local Cemetery

Veterans' organizations of the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish, together with their auxiliaries, will attend a joint memorial service at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, that morning at 10:50 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. E. E. Hornsberry, will address the veterans who will occupy specially reserved seats on the subject, "The Price of Peace." Memorial day exercises will also be held in Riverview Burial park at 4 p.m., in charge of the veterans' council. All veterans and the public are invited to attend both the service in the morning and also in the afternoon at the cemetery.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at their hall and proceed to the Crosley school in time to assemble there and enter the church in a body together with other groups. The other veterans' groups participating are L. B. Fatik post of the American Legion, Barnett-Downs post of the American Legion, Sterlington post, American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Disabled American Veterans, and all auxiliaries of these groups.

Following the memorial service, there will be a brief period of silence and immediately thereafter a bugler will sound "taps" and the service will conclude with the benediction.

The service at the cemetery in the afternoon will be impressive. The speaker will be George D. Holland.

Under the direction of Legionnaire Charles Mitchell, special chairman, all graves of war veterans in cemeteries in Monroe and vicinity will be decorated today or Monday, it was stated Saturday. The wreaths were arranged Saturday by members of the auxiliary.

As far as possible, graves will be decorated by legionnaires this afternoon, but those located at a distance from Monroe will not be decorated until some time Monday, Mr. Mitchell said.

A[illegible]oon cooking classes and lectures will be held at 2:15 each afternoon of the three-day school, and on the night of Friday, June 17, a closing session will be held when valuable awards, given by contributing merchants, will be made. The list of awards each day, as well as those of the closing night, will be larger and more important than on any previous occasion since the News-Star—World cooking school was established.

The announcement that Mrs. Chitwood will have personal charge of the sessions is especially important, because of the prominence she holds in the culinary world of the south.

Mrs. Chitwood is probably the nation's outstanding lecturer and demonstrator in cookery schools. Year after year she personally completes a swing around a circuit of the nation's largest cities and conducts schools for the country's biggest newspapers. Her annual audience undoubtedly exceeds a quarter million women.

Year after year Mrs. Chitwood returns to Chicago to conduct the truly huge conferences of women who gather in three successive weeks for cooking schools presented by the Chicago Tribune in the Aragon ballroom, the Trianon ballroom and Guyon's Paradise ballroom.

Among the more notable metropolitan cooking schools which are con-

INSURGENTS TAKE PUERTO ESCANDON

Loyalists Press Assault In Lerida Province At Heavy Cost Of Lives

HENDAYE, France, (At The Spanish Frontier) May 28.—(AP)—Insurgent troops fighting down the highway from Teruel to Sagunto today reported the capture of Puerto Escandon, key to the Valencia coast.

Insurgent advices said the troops pushed forward four miles to take the position where strong government forces had previously checked their drive from the northwest.

Puerto Escandon is 11 miles southeast of Teruel and 50 miles northwest of Sagunto, junction point on the vital Valencia coastal highway.

The insurgent dispatches said the advancing fighters moved on to encircle the nearby Escandon and Aparicio hills after taking the key point.

Puerto Escandon was described as "the last important government defense" on the Teruel-Sagunto-Valencia highway.

Meanwhile, the government force pressed its assault today against the insurgent front in Lerida province at a heavy cost of lives.

Insurgents reported only one company out of a government division escaped death when wave after wave of infantrymen sought to storm the defenses of Tremp, hydro-electric power center 42 miles north of the provincial capital of Lerida.

To the south of Tremp, tanks and war planes were thrown into attacks on bridgeheads guarding crossings of the Segre river to Balaguer, 16 miles northeast of Lerida, and Seros, 16 miles southwest of Lerida.

The insurgents were reported to have given ground in the Vallfogona zone three miles south of Balaguer.

EARLY CLOSING TIME TO BEGIN WEDNESDAY

Summer closing hours for retail stores of Monroe will go into effect Wednesday, June 1, it was announced Saturday by officers of the Retail Merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Under agreement reached by the members of the division early in the year, the stores will open each morning during the summer season, beginning June 1 and ending Labor day, at 8:30 o'clock, closing at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, except Saturday, when the closing hour will be 9 p.m.

600 KILLED AND 900 INJURED IN CANTON RAIDS, RESCUERS STATE

SHELLS DIRECTED CHIEFLY AT RAILWAY STATION AREA

Invaders Admit Defenders Counter Attacking Heavily In Lanfeng Sector

SHANGHAI, May 29. (Sunday)—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese continued their desperate struggle around Lanfeng today while Canton rescue workers counted 1,500 casualties in south China's most severe air bombardment.

The Chinese reiterated that they had recaptured Lanfeng, key to China's ancient capital, Kaifeng, on the Lunghai railway, and reported they had taken Lowang, eight miles west of Lanfeng.

These claims were denied by the Japanese, who countered with assertions that they had captured the important Lunghai city of Kweiteh, thereby acquiring a new base for intensification of their drive westward to Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways.

Reports from Canton said the dead in yesterday's air raids were estimated officially at 600 and the injured at 900.

The intensity of the raid was regarded as further evidence the Japanese were embarking on a large scale campaign to stop the movement of munitions through south China.

The Chinese press earlier had reported the arrival of 6,000 Japanese troops at Amoy, off the Fukien province coast, and the basing of a squadron of Japanese planes on Quemoy island, near Amoy.

Although admitting the Chinese were counter attacking heavily in the Lanfeng area, the Japanese asserted enemy casualties already totaled 20,000

SHIP GOES DOWN AFTER COLLISION

Other Vessel Reports All Passengers Taken From Sunken Craft

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The steamship Mandalay, a pleasure boat, sank in the narrows of the lower New York bay tonight after a collision with the steamship Acadia, the coast guard said. The Acadia reported all passengers of the Mandalay were rescued.

The Mandalay was entering the harbor on its way from Atlantic Highlands to the Battery. The Acadia, owned by the Eastern Steamship company, was outward bound for Bermuda.

Officials of the line operating the Mandalay said 480 passengers were aboard outbound to Atlantic Highlands but said they presumed the number on the return was less.

Four coast guard boats and several police launches went to the scene.

Convention At Edgewater Park Expected To Attract More Than 300 Members

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., May 28.—(AP)—Publishers of the south's newspapers trickled into Edgewater Park today to hold their round tables for opening the 36th annual meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association here Monday.

The convention, expected to attract more than 300 members, will have as its immediate object the formulation of a program to sell the south as a market in the commercial world and to make the newspapers a greater advertising medium.

Cranston Williams, Chattanooga, Tenn., secretary-manager of the association, was among the first arrivals and predicted that the meeting this year would be the largest in the history of the organization.

Unionism, he said, was not at this time an initial issue in the south and he did not anticipate any major discussion of this subject but the newsprint production situation and conservation of its sources furnished an important question before the convention.

The report on the newsprint manufacture committee will be made by James G. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner, chairman of the committee.

The publishers from 14 states chose the Mississippi coast for this conception to talk shop and to take time out for a little play on the seashore from their pressing executive duties.

The officers and directors hold their annual meeting Sunday night and the next day plunge into reports dealing with all phases of the newspaper business.

New officers will be elected Tuesday morning and that afternoon the annual golf tournament will be held.

Present officers are: Ted Dealey, Dallas (Tex.) News-Journal, president; James E. Chappell, Birmingham (Ala.) News and Age-Herald, chairman of board; W. C. Johnson, Chattanooga (Tenn.) News, treasurer, and Cranston Williams, Chattanooga, secretary-manager.

An appeal for support to make the Herty Foundation laboratory at Savannah, Ga., a permanent institution will be made before the convention by Dr. Charles H. Herty, head of the laboratory.

The purpose of the laboratory is to develop and continue means, purposes and uses of southern pine wood.

The convention lasts through Wednesday.

Views On Matter Almost As Numerous As Members Of Legislature

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION PROPOSAL BEFORE SENATE

Several Substitute Plans For Raising Relief Funds Expected

BATON ROUGE, La., May 28.—(AP)—The Louisiana legislature reconvenes at 8 o'clock tomorrow night for the last day of introduction of bills with 32 measures on the calendar ready for final passage in the house of introduction.

Bills ready for final passage in the house include the general sales tax, which has been renamed the public welfare revenue bill, and the bills to provide $4,500,000 bonds for completing the New Orleans Charity hospital and $6,000,000 bonds for buildings in other charitable institutions and in education institutions. Many other state administration bills are in the house ready for final passage.

Bills ready for final passage in the senate include a bill by Senator Sidney W. Sweeney of Lake Charles to set up an industrial commission in the state department of labor to regulate wages and hours and a bill by the same senator to continue the debt moratorium commission in effect for another two years.

A flood is expected in both houses tomorrow night, the dead line for introduction of bills without consent of two-thirds of the members of the house of introduction. So far a total of 423 measures has gone into the house hopper and 163 measures have gone into the senate. Last session a total of 1,025 bills was introduced in

Exercises Will Be Held At West Monroe Church And Local Cemetery

Veterans' organizations of the Twin Cities and Ouachita parish, together with their auxiliaries, will attend a joint memorial service at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, this morning at 10:50 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. E. E. Huntsberry, will address the veterans who will occupy specially reserved seats, on the subject: "The Prince of Peace." Memorial day exercises will also be held in Riverview Burial park at 4 p.m., in charge of the veterans' council. All veterans and the public are invited to attend both the service in the morning and also in the afternoon at the cemetery.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at their hall and proceed to the Crosley school in time to assemble there and enter the church in a body together with other groups. The other veterans' groups participating are: L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, Barnett-Downs post of the American Legion, Sterlington post, American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Disabled American Veterans, and all auxiliaries of these groups.

Following the memorial service, there will be a brief period of silence and immediately thereafter a bugler will sound "taps" and the service will conclude with the benediction.

The service at the cemetery in the afternoon will be impressive. The speaker will be George D. Holland.

Under the direction of Legionnaire Charles Mitchell, special chairman, all graves of war veterans in cemeteries in Monroe and vicinity will be decorated today or Monday, it was stated Saturday. The wreaths were arranged Saturday by members of the auxiliary.

As far as possible, graves will be decorated by legionnaires this afternoon, but those located at a distance from Monroe will not be decorated until some time Monday, Mr. Mitchell said.

Rockefeller Center May Bring End To Labor Rift

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—A possible key to peace in American labor's long and bitter civil war appeared today in an unexpected quarter: the far-famed Rockefeller center.

It was embodied in a new type of union contract which recognized some of the general principles of both vertical and craft unionism.

Jurisdictional disputes constitute one of the main barriers to peace between John L. Lewis' vertical union, the C. I. O., and William Green's craft union, the American Federation of Labor.

The Rockefeller contract was not intended to patch up the civil war between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. It was intended to insure uninterrupted maintenance of Rockefeller center, the unprecedented building project John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his sons are erecting on Fifth avenue at Fiftieth street. The C. I. O. did not even have anything to do with it, for all the men involved are members of the A. F. of L. But veterans in the labor field nevertheless saw in it a possible solution to Mr. Lewis' and Mr. Green's differences.

At first glance, the contract looks like an agreement for a vertical union. It is a blanket affair, covering every

Wheeler Thinks New Deal Marking Foes For Defeat

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—A handful of men close to the White House is marking anti-New Deal Democrats for "oblivion" and undertaking to say how the party shall be reorganized, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, charged today.

The westerner, who led the coalition of Democratic and Republican senators which defeated the president's court reorganization bill last year, told the senate the group included:

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who also is public works administrator.

Harry L. Hopkins, the works relief administrator.

Thomas G. Corcoran and Ben Cohen, young attorneys who are among the president's advisors.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general.

James Roosevelt, the president's son and secretary.

"It is this little handful of men," Wheeler declared during debate on the administration's $3,247,000,000 lending-spending bill, "that wants to say how the party shall be reorganized and who shall be elected."

Senator Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, joined in Wheeler's denunciation of high administration officials who have intervened in party primary contests.

Bailey said Hopkins had announced publicly that the WPA would take no

CLUBS TO VOTE ON CIVIC CHEST

Plan Will Be Balloted Upon By Luncheon Groups In June

The junior board of the Chamber of Commerce, at the May meeting held Friday afternoon, voted to present the plan for the institution of a community chest to the various luncheon clubs for their action. This was done after Chairman Bob Burns had made a report of the plan to the junior group.

During the first two weeks in June, Mr. Burns and E. C. Gibson, the latter also a member of the civic affairs group, will present the plan to the clubs and these later will be asked to vote as to their desires concerning the adoption of the chest for Monroe and West Monroe.

It is stated that 21 communities in which investigation of the workings of such projects were conducted, all showed that donations had increased on an average 30.7 per cent over the former plan of numerous drives held.

The traffic committee, of which L. B. Landry is chairman, reported that through contact with Illinois Central railroad officials, remedial measures have already been secured concerning the blocking of traffic by switching of long trains through downtown districts. Trains have been reduced from 60 to 75 cars to a maximum of 50 cars, and instructions have been given to have the trains run through Riverside and across the Ouachita river bridge without the necessity of so much switching and consequent delays.

The traffic committee also is making a study of a revision of the present code and will have meetings with the city commissioners, members of the police department, and city judge in order to work out improved conditions. A revision of the code is anticipated in the near future.

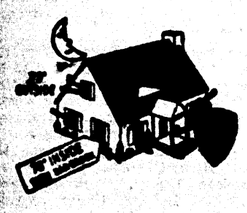

The mayor, it is reported, has promised that the triangular plot at the intersection of Lee avenue and Jackson street will soon be paved. This has been regarded as furnishing a hazard to motorists and also serves to divert motorists from the regular federal southbound highway in many instances.

Aversion to using their hands for carrying anything is so strong among the native women of Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, that they even put letters on their heads, weighting them down with a brick.

WIN HIGHEST HONORS

The honor students of the class of 75 members of Neville High school are Sara Frances Hinkle, valedictorian, and Herbert Marshall, salutatorian, according to announcement made by Principal Paul J. Neal. Miss Hinkle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hinkle. This year she has served as president of the girls' glee club and president of the student council and the student body. Herbert Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Marshall, who moved to Monroe from Memphis, Tenn. Immediately upon becoming a member of the junior class in September, 1936, he became active in extra-curricular activities and in school work. During his senior year he was elected president of the Boys' Hi-Y and captain of the tennis team.

The Picnic Season---As It Is Observed Here And Yonder

By Fred Williamson

In Louisiana the picnic season has been in full tide practically since the observance of Mardi Gras. If it is ever in abeyance, it is only due to vagaries of weather and not a question of season. Unlike our cousins in the north, we do not wait until "Decoration day" to deploy into the country intent on devouring our groceries al fresco every Sunday. With us the picnic season is a much more attenuated event.

The northerner, however, just emerging from winter hibernation, is only now beginning to whet his "picnic appetite." The end of May is his great emancipation day. According to the holiday throng estimator, these earnest people who crouch on the ground eating are called "pleasure seekers," as distinguished from "pleasure finders," who sit on chairs and eat their meals at the table. They are exercising one of those "certain (but not as certain as they used to be) inalienable rights" mentioned in the Declaration of Independence—namely, the pursuit of happiness.

Of all the forms of happiness the perfect picnic is the most elusive. Like the Georgia peach crop it is affected by many of the elements that are beyond mortal control. Temperature, topography and transportation must be just right; tastes and tempers of the entire party must be in accord, and some one must remember to bring the ginger ale opener.

There are some misanthropes who assert that the only good picnic is a postponed picnic. That statement is merely a generalization, like one of those epigrams beginning "All women may be divided into two classes," which are popular with people who enjoy sitting on the dogmatism. Of course, as every one knows, you can't divide women into two classes. They keep changing their seats. And by the same token there must be occasional picnics at which a reasonably jolly time was had by all. We believe in them, just as we believe in royal flushes, holes-in-one, and men who win the big prize in the Irish sweepstakes. They are bound to happen every so often—at least until congress repeals the law of averages.

The word picnic is derived from the French words pique (meaning quarreling, bickering) and nique (meaning "nothing else but"). According to the early French historians the first pique-nique was an accident. Most of the later ones were perpetrated with malice aforethought.

It occurred at Avignon, on the estate of Gaspard, le Duc de Veau d'Eau-Deau, in the year 1338—just 600 years ago, mes enfants. Think of it: 600 years of picnics and science has not even devised a practical method of getting olives out of a bottle without anointing the elbows.

It was a sunny afternoon in May. Gaspard and his brother, Gasjet, were dining in the kitchen of the chateau—a smoky, low-ceilinged room with an open fireplace at one end and a floor covered with straw and dogs. The meal was modest and medieval, for Gaspard was a simple man with simple tastes. A leg of mutton, a four-foot loaf of bread and a large flagon of wine comprised the menu.

As the two brothers ate the smoke in the room grew denser. A spark from the fireplace had ignited the straw on the floor and the flames were spreading rapidly.

"Il fait tres chaud aujourd'hui," said Gasjet. (Old French idiom meaning "The house is on fire.")

Gaspard stopped eating. "Ou est le parapluie de mon oncle?" (Are you sure about that?)

"Oui." (Yes.)

Seizing the mutton and the bread, Gaspard dashed out of the burning building, while his brother followed with the flagon of wine. The chateau was soon reduced to a heap of blackened embers. Gaspard and his brother, feeling that nothing could be done about it, sat down on the ground and resumed their interrupted meal.

The townspeople stared at them curiously, and not without envy. How pleasant it must be, they thought, to dine beneath the open sky, away from the smoke of fireplaces and the odor of greasy pots! How carefree Gaspard and Gasjet seemed as they reclined on the cool green grass and flung their crusts to the magpies! That, obviously, was the life.

And immediately thereafter an epidemic of fires broke out. Whenever anyone wanted to have a picnic he set fire to his house; it was the only excuse he could think of. Soon almost half of the dwellings in town had been consumed by flames.

It was several years before the good people of Avignon realized that arson must not be the inevitable prelude to the picnic dinner. By this time the picnicking habit had fastened itself upon them as a vice, and it has [illegible]

At the end of the fifteenth century, throughout the entire continent, people were to be seen eating in the most unlikely places and attitudes. Even in those days insects were the bane of the picnicker's existence. In Germany, for instance, flies kept falling into the beer and caterpillars into the sauerkraut. The Emperor Frederick finally issued an order that all steins must be equipped with lids. But the plague of caterpillars continued unabated until 1521, when Martin Luther uttered his famous protest against the Diet of Worms. This made a deep impression upon the German people; from that time on they ate only at home and in restaurants, opera houses, theaters, museums, gymnasiums, stores, offices and art galleries.

Strenuous efforts were made to suppress picnicking in England during the reign of Henry the Eighth. The inn-keepers and pastry-cooks of London united in an attempt to discourage it by making their food too heavy to carry comfortably—a practice which has continued to the present day. Sir Evelyn Skulpit in his Diary for February 8, 1552, reports having partaken of "a great Yorkshire puddynge which did weight 13 stone in ye stockynge feete."

But the confirmed picnic addicts, or "Slant-heads," as they were called, continued to gather in the parks and meadows to eat their lunches, defying all British traditions of common sense and comfort. In 1603 the notorious "Picnic Riots" occurred at Whitechapel—an open clash between the Conservatives (who took along folding campstools) and the Liberals (who sat on the ground). During the rioting, Matthew Meany, a King's Proctor, was struck and killed by a hard-boiled egg.

Parliament immediately enacted a law forbidding the boiling of eggs for more than three minutes. Naturally there could be no picnics without hard-boiled eggs, and in a few years most of the "pleasure-seekers" emigrated to America, where they could eat in freedom and discomfort.

Ever since that time America has been the tramping ground of the extra-mural epicure, and even today 90 per cent of the citizens of this country cherish the belief that nothing tastes as good as a thick, juicy steak broiled over an open fire.

That thick, juicy steak is legendary—a sort of will-o'-the-wisp which lures men on, making them forget the discomforts of the moment. In the end it usually turns out to be a soggy dish full of lukewarm beans: All the staple commodities of a picnic dinner begin with the letter "B"—beans, bread, butter, bacon, bologna and bugs.

One of the principal joys of eating in the open used to be the postprandial flinging of garbage to the four winds. It was great fun to sail wooden plates into the empyrean, toss bottles into the shrubbery and saunter home with empty hands and a full stomach.

But things are different now. There are more people and fewer pleasances. You can't even chuck an eggshell over your shoulder without hitting a fellow-picnicker. Bread cast upon the waters returns with a sharp reprimand from a police officer, and the excursionist come home from his outing as lavishly encumbered as when he sets out—more so, in fact, for tissue-paper wrappings, when crumpled, have a tendency to multiply themselves by threes.

Omar has the right idea when he limited his picnic impedimenta to a book, a jug and a loaf of bread, but if he were rubaiyatting today he would sing:

Two round-trip tickets underneath the bough,
Six baskets and a thermos jug—and thou
Beside me, struggling for more elbow room—
Oh, wilderness were Paradise—and how!

L. T. I. AWARDS FIRST DIPLOMAS

Class Of Three Will Enter Louisiana State University In Coming Autumn

The dream of the creation of a four-year approved high school at Louisiana Training institute, which originated in the minds of the superintendent, Dr. Harvey Dillon, and the state education superintendent, T. H. Harris, became a reality at Richard W. Leche gymnasium on the institute campus Friday night. At that time the first class received diplomas entitling them to admission to Louisiana State university.

Superintendent Harris made a special trip from Baton Rouge to be present at this memorable event and served as commencement speaker. Incidentally, he stated that this was the only commencement he would address and that this was an exception and one in which he was deeply interested in that it marked a new forward step for the Louisiana Training institute.

Invocation was by Father L. R. Aycock, of the St. Matthew's Catholic church, after which "Sylvia," a saxophone solo, was rendered by Ferguson Spann. This was followed by "Why I Want to Go to College" by John Hamilton, who declared that he sought higher education in order to be better fitted for life and to make that life count for the most.

"Toselli's Serenade," a trombone solo, was rendered by Edwin Stewart, after which Superintendent Harvey Dillon gave an address.

The superintendent narrated how he had sought two years ago to have a high school established at the institute and how with the aid of Mr. Harris it had been accomplished. He gave the members of the class some wholesome advice and declared that he would put them "on the spot" and their subsequent careers must be a credit to L. T. I.

"Comin' Through the Rye," a clarinet solo, was rendered by John Hamilton, after which the principal address of the evening was given by Mr. Harris.

The state superintendent of education reviewed some of the history in connection with the establishment of the new era for the institute. He said that the eyes of all educators are being turned on Louisiana Training institute where there is now in progress an experiment that bids fair to write something worth while in the annals of such institutions.

"You are not treated as if in a penal institution," he said, "you have sympathetic teachers and leaders, you have vocational opportunities, music, athletics, and all that go to make up a well-balanced school life. Now you have opportunity to go to the state university and it is up to you boys to make good and I feel sure you will."

He warned against such evils as intemperance, stating that there is much liquor to be had down at Baton Rouge, night clubs that are wide open all night, but that with will power a student can hold his head up and carry himself properly, becoming a credit to himself and to his instructors.

A quartet selection, "Those Pals of Ours," was rendered by John Hamilton, Edwin Stewart, Ferguson Spann and Leo Dupuis. Diplomas were awarded by Dr. Dillon to John Hamilton, Edwin Stewart and Ferguson Spann.

BOY GRADS GET HONORS AT BERNICE HIGH SCHOOL

BERNICE, La., May 28.—(Special)—An unusual feature of the Bernice High school graduating class this year is the fact that all school honors were won by boy students who also outnumbered girl graduates. Of a total of 34 students who are to graduate June 2, only nine are girls, this being the first time in many years that this has happened.

School honors were won by Morelle Elliott, who was chosen president of the graduating class; John L. Caldwell, valedictorian, James Pratt, salutatorian, and secretary of the class.

Those who will receive diplomas are Montez Dendy, Marguerite Grafton, Elaine Heard, Mary Alice Henry, Romaine Knowles, Mary Lee McDougle, Tressie Odom, Lafayne Popwell, Yvonne Ulmer, Gordon Albritton, Key Baldwin, Charles Edward Colvin, John L. Caldwell, Jr., Dendy Elliott, Morrelle Elliott, C. L. Fitzgerald, Roy Fitzgerald, B. F. Grafton, James L. Grafton, Ernest J. Green, L. D. Gresham, Jr., Albert Jinks, William Porter Lazenby, L. R. Lee, Jr., Herndon Lindsey, R. B. Mabry, Jr., Daniel O. Otts, Jr., Albert Paine, Waymon Post, J. T. Porter, James Pratt, James Thaxton, Travis Washam and Max White.

The commencement sermon will be delivered Sunday morning by Rev. Lockridge, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ruston.

BICYCLE FIXTURES STOLEN

Kenneth Bourgeois, 1607 North Seventh street, reported to Monroe police yesterday that fixtures on his bicycle had been stolen Friday night at the Swayze natatorium. Bourgeois reported that a four-cell battery case, tail light reflector, handle bar grips and an ornament off the front fender had been stolen.

In 1876 there were only 200 telephones in Europe and 376 in the United States.

HONOR SCRIBE

J. Fred Gresham (above) of Bernice, a graduating senior at Louisiana Tech, has been announced as winner of the annual award given by the Omega Kappa social fraternity to the student considered as having done the best work on the staff of the Tech Talk during the year. Gresham has served as business manager and columnist for the college paper. The gold medal, reproduced above, is designed in the shape of a linotype matrix.—(Tech News Bureau photos).

CLUBS TO VOTE ON CIVIC CHEST

Plan Will Be Balloted Upon By Luncheon Groups In June

The traffic committee, of which L. P. Landry is chairman, reported that through contact with Illinois Central railroad officials, remedial measures have already been secured concerning the blocking of traffic by switching of long trains through downtown Monroe. Trains have been reduced from 60 to 75 cars to a maximum of 25 cars, and instructions have been given to have the trains run through Monroe and across the Ouachita river bridge without the necessity of so much switching and consequent delays.

The traffic committee also is making a study of a revision of the present code and will have meetings with the city commissioners, members of the police department, and city judge in order to work out improved conditions. A revision of the code is anticipated in the near future.

The mayor, it is reported, has promised that the triangular plot at the intersection of Lee avenue and Jackson street will soon be paved. This has been regarded as furnishing a hazard to motorists and also serves to divert motorists from the regular federal southbound highway in many instances.

Aversion to using their hands for carrying anything is so strong among the native women of Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, that they even put letters on their heads, weighting them down with a brick.

WIN HIGHEST HONORS

The honor students of the class of 75 members of Neville High school are Sara Frances Hinkle, valedictorian, and Herbert Marshall, salutatorian, according to announcement made by Principal Paul J. Neal. Miss Hinkle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Hinkle. This year she has served as president of the girls' glee club and president of the student council and the student body. Herbert Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Marshall, who moved to Monroe from Memphis, Tenn. Immediately upon becoming a member of the junior class in September, 1936, he became active in extra-curricular activities and in school work. During his senior year he was elected president of the Boys' Hi-Y and captain of the tennis team.

The Picnic Season---As It Is Observed Here And Yonder

By Fred Williamson

In Louisiana the picnic season has been in full tide practically since the observance of Mardi Gras. If it is ever in abeyance, it is only due to vagaries of weather and not a question of season. Unlike our cousins in the north, we do not wait until "Decoration day" to deploy into the country intent on devouring our groceries al fresco every Sunday. With us the picnic season is a much more attenuated event.

The northerner, however, just emerging from winter hibernation, is only now beginning to whet his "picnic appetite." The end of May is his great emancipation day. According to the holiday throng estimator, these earnest people who crouch on the ground eating are called "pleasure seekers," as distinguished from "pleasure finders," who sit on chairs and eat their meals at the table. They are exercising one of those "certain (but not as certain as they used to be) inalienable rights" mentioned in the Declaration of Independence—namely, the pursuit of happiness.

Of all the forms of happiness the perfect picnic is the most elusive. Like the Georgia peach crop it is affected by many of the elements that are beyond mortal control. Temperature, topography and transportation must be just right; tastes and tempers of the entire party must be in accord, and some one must remember to bring the ginger ale opener.

There are some misanthropes who assert that the only good picnic is a postponed picnic. That statement is merely a generalization, like one of those epigrams beginning "All women may be divided into two classes," which is popular with people who enjoy [illegible] on the dogmatism. Of course, as every one knows, you can't divide women into two classes. They keep changing their seats. And by the same token there must be occasional picnics at which a reasonably jolly time was had by all. We believe in them, just as we believe in royal flushes, holes-in-one, and men who win the big prize in the Irish sweepstakes. They are bound to happen every so often—at least until congress repeals the law of averages.

The word picnic is derived from the French words pique (meaning quarreling, bickering) and nique (meaning "nothing else but"). According to the early French historians the first pique-nique was an accident. Most of the later ones were perpetrated with malice aforethought.

It occurred at Avignon, on the estate of Gaspard, le Duc de Veau d'Eau-Deau, in the year 1338—just 600 years ago, mes enfants. Think of it: 600 years of picnics and science has not even devised a practical method of getting olives out of a bottle without anointing the elbows.

It was a sunny afternoon in May. Gaspard and his brother, Gasjet, were dining in the kitchen of the chateau—a smoky, low-ceilinged room with an open fireplace at one end and a floor covered with straw and dogs. The meal was modest and medieval, for Gaspard was a simple man with simple tastes. A leg of mutton, a four-foot loaf of bread and a large flagon of wine comprised the menu.

As the two brothers ate the smoke in the room grew denser. A spark from the fireplace had ignited the straw on the floor and the flames were spreading rapidly.

"Il fait tres chaud aujourd'hui," said Gasjet. (Old French idiom meaning "The house is on fire.")

Gaspard stopped eating. "Ou est le parapluie de mon oncle?" (Are you sure about that?)

"Oui." (Yes.)

Seizing the mutton and the bread, Gaspard dashed out of the burning building, while his brother followed with the flagon of wine. The chateau was soon reduced to a heap of blackened embers. Gaspard and his brother, feeling that nothing could be done about it, sat down on the ground and resumed their interrupted meal.

The townspeople stared at them curiously, and not without envy. How pleasant it must be, they thought, to dine beneath the open sky, away from the smoke of fireplaces and the odor of greasy pots! How carefree Gaspard and Gasjet seemed as they reclined on the cool green grass and flung their crusts to the magpies! That, obviously, was the life.

And immediately thereafter an epidemic of fires broke out. Whenever anyone wanted to have a picnic he set fire to his house; it was the only excuse he could think of. Soon almost half of the dwellings in town had been consumed by flames.

It was several years before the good people of Avignon realized that arson need not be the inevitable prelude to an out-of-doors meal. By this time the picnicking habit had fastened itself firmly as a whole, and it had many devotees beyond the boundaries of France.

At the end of the fifteenth century, throughout the entire continent, people were to be seen eating in the most unlikely places and attitudes. Even in those days insects were the bane of the picnicker's existence. In Germany, for instance, flies kept falling into the beer and caterpillars into the sauerkraut. The Emperor Frederick finally issued an order that all steins must be equipped with lids. But the plague of caterpillars continued unabated until 1521, when Martin Luther uttered his famous protest against the Diet of Worms. This made a deep impression upon the German people; from that time on they ate only at home and in restaurants, opera houses, theaters, museums, gymnasiums, stores, offices and art galleries.

Strenuous efforts were made to suppress picnicking in England during the reign of Henry the Eighth. The inn-keepers and pastry-cooks of London united in an attempt to discourage it by making their food too heavy to carry comfortably—a practice which has continued to the present day. Sir Evelyn Skulpit in his Diary for February 8, 1552, reports having partaken of "a great Yorkshire puddynge which did weight 13 stone in ye stockynge feete."

But the confirmed picnic addicts, or "Slant-heads," as they were called, continued to gather in the parks and meadows to eat their lunches, defying all British traditions of common sense and comfort. In 1603 the notorious "Picnic Riots" occurred at Whitechapel—an open clash between the Conservatives (who took along folding campstools) and the Liberals (who sat on the ground). During the rioting, Matthew Meany, a King's Proctor, was struck and killed by a hard-boiled egg.

Parliament immediately enacted a law forbidding the boiling of eggs for more than three minutes. Naturally there could be no picnics without hard-boiled eggs, and in a few years most of the "pleasure-seekers" emigrated to America, where they could eat in freedom and discomfort.

Ever since that time America has been the tramping ground of the extra-mural epicure, and even today 90 per cent of the citizens of this country cherish the belief that nothing tastes as good as a thick, juicy steak broiled over an open fire.

That thick, juicy steak is legendary—a sort of will-o'-the-wisp which lures men on, making them forget the discomforts of the moment. In the end it usually turns out to be a soggy dish full of lukewarm beans: All the staple commodities of a picnic dinner begin with the letter "B"—beans, bread, butter, bacon, bologna and bugs.

One of the principal joys of eating in the open used to be the postpradial flinging of garbage to the four winds. It was great fun to sail wooden plates into the empyrean, toss bottles into the shrubbery and saunter home with empty hands and a full stomach.

But things are different now. There are more people and fewer pleasances. You can't even chuck an eggshell over your shoulder without hitting a fellow-picnicker. Bread cast upon the waters returns with a sharp reprimand from a police officer, and the excursionist come home from his outing as lavishly encumbered as when he sets out—more so, in fact, for tissue-paper wrappings, when crumpled, have a tendency to multiply themselves by threes.

Omar has the right idea when he limited his picnic impedimenta to a book, a jug and a loaf of bread, but if he were rubaiyatting today he would sing:

Two round-trip tickets underneath the bough,
Six baskets and a thermos jug—and thou
Beside me, struggling for more elbow room—
Oh, wilderness were Paradise—and how!

L. T. I. AWARDS FIRST DIPLOMAS

Class Of Three Will Enter Louisiana State University In Coming Autumn

The dream of the creation of a four-year approved high school at Louisiana Training institute, which originated in the minds of the superintendent, Dr. Harvey Dillon, and the state education superintendent, T. H. Harris, became a reality at Richard W. Leche gymnasium on the institute campus Friday night. At that time the first class received diplomas entitling them to admission to Louisiana State university.

Superintendent Harris made a special trip from Baton Rouge to be present at this memorable event and served as commencement speaker. Incidentally, he stated that this was the only commencement he would address and that this was an exception and one in which he was deeply interested in that it marked a new forward step for the Louisiana Training institute.

Invocation was by Father L. R. Aycock, of the St. Matthew's Catholic church, after which "Sylvia," a saxophone solo, was rendered by Ferguson Spann. This was followed by "Why I Want to Go to College" by John Hamilton, who declared that he sought higher education in order to be better fitted for life and to make that life count for the most.

"Toselli's Serenade," a trombone solo, was rendered by Edwin Stewart, after which Superintendent Harvey Dillon gave an address.

The superintendent narrated how he had sought two years ago to have a high school established at the institute and how with the aid of Mr. Harris it had been accomplished. He gave the members of the class some wholesome advice and declared that he would put them "on the spot" and their subsequent careers must be a credit to L. T. I.

"Comin' Through the Rye," a clarinet solo, was rendered by John Hamilton, after which the principal address of the evening was given by Mr. Harris.

The state superintendent of education reviewed some of the history in connection with the establishment of the new era for the institute. He said that the eyes of all educators are being turned on Louisiana Training institute where there is now in progress an experiment that bids fair to write something worth while in the annals of such institutions.

"You are not treated as if in a penal institution," he said, "you have sympathetic teachers and leaders, you have vocational opportunities, music, athletics, and all that go to make up a well-balanced school life. Now you have opportunity to go to the state university and it is up to you boys to make good and I feel sure you will."

He warned against such evils as intemperance, stating that there is much liquor to be had down at Baton Rouge, night clubs that are wide open all night, but that with will power a student can hold his head up and carry himself properly, becoming a credit to himself and to his instructors.

A quartet selection, "Those Pals of Ours," was rendered by John Hamilton, Edwin Stewart, Ferguson Spann and Leo Dupuis. Diplomas were awarded by Dr. Dillon to John Hamilton, Edwin Stewart and Ferguson Spann.

BOY GRADS GET HONORS AT BERNICE HIGH SCHOOL

BERNICE, La., May 28.—(Special)—An unusual feature of the Bernice High school graduating class this year is the fact that all school honors were won by boy students who also outnumbered girl graduates. Of a total of 34 students who are to graduate June 2, only nine are girls, this being the first time in many years that this has happened.

School honors were won by Morelle Elliott, who was chosen president of the graduating class; John L. Caldwell, valedictorian, James Pratt, salutatorian, and secretary of the class.

Those who will receive diplomas are Montez Dendy, Marguerite Grafton, Elaine Heard, Mary Alice Henry, Romaine Knowles, Mary Lee McDougle, Tressie Odom, Lafayne Popwell, Yvonne Ulmer, Gordon Albritton, Key Baldwin, Charles Edward Colvin, John L. Caldwell, Jr., Dendy Elliott, Morrelle Elliott, C. L. Fitzgerald, Roy Fitzgerald, B. F. Grafton, James L. Grafton, Ernest J. Green, L. D. Gresham, Jr., Albert Jinks, William Porter Lazenby, L. R. Lee, Jr., Herndon Lindsey, R. B. Mabry, Jr., Daniel O. Otts, Jr., Albert Paine, Waymon Post, J. T. Porter, James Pratt, James Thaxton, Travis Washam and Max White.

The commencement sermon will be delivered Sunday morning by Rev. Lockridge, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ruston.

BICYCLE FIXTURES STOLEN

Kenneth Bourgeois, 1607 North Seventh street, reported to Monroe police yesterday that fixtures on his bicycle had been stolen Friday night at the Swayze natatorium. Bourgeois reported that a four-cell battery case, tail light reflector, handle bar grips and an ornament off the front fender had been stolen.

In 1876 there were only 200 telephones in Europe and 376 in the United States.

HONOR SCRIBE

J. Fred Gresham (above) of Bernice, a graduating senior at Louisiana Tech, has been announced as winner of the annual award given by the Omega Kappa social fraternity to the student considered as having done the best work on the staff of the Tech Talk during the year. Gresham has served as business manager and columnist for the college paper. The gold medal, reproduced above, is designed in the shape of a linotype matrix.—(Tech News Bureau photos).

Telephone Company's 'Open House' Highly Successful

Hundreds Flock To See Wonders Brought About In Past 63 Years

Hundreds of residents in the Twin Cities and the surrounding area last week visited the local headquarters of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company at the corner of Catalpa and Grammont streets, on the four days from Wednesday to Saturday, during which the exchange observed open house.

Courteous attendants at the exchange conducted visitors through the several departments, where among other interesting matters they were privileged to watch telephone operators actually at work completing local and long distance calls. The visitors marveled at the unfailing accuracy of the girl operators whose deft fingers moved unerringly over the panels as they plugged connections completing thousands of telephone calls.

A feature which attracted much interest and caused considerable ammusement to the visitors was the gauget known as the voice mirror. The instrument is designed so as to permit the user to hear his own voice as it sounds over the telephone. This result was achieved when the voice of the speaker talking into an ordinary telephone transmitter was recorded on a thin wire strip and heard again through auxiliary receivers.

Attendants also conducted visitors through the plant where they were shown the complex arrangement of thousands of wire cables and had explained to them the functions of mysterious looking apparatus used in providing that efficient telephone service which means so much to Monroe and its neighbors.

The telephone system of today which spans oceans and continents and links the peoples of the world has developed within the span of a lifetime.

The telephone was invented 63 years ago by Alexander Graham Bell, a young professor of vocal physiology at Boston, Mass., and student of electrical science. Bell was born in Scotland on March 3, 1847, moved to Canada in August, 1870, and went to Boston in 1871, as a teacher of deaf mutes.

The principle of the telephone was discovered by Bell on June 2, 1875. His continued experiments, based on his discovery, resulted in an instrument that on March 10, 1876, really "talked" to the extent of transmitting a complete sentence, the first connected human speech to be electrically transmittd and heard over a wire. From this crude beginning came the agency of communication that "has made America a neighborhood," and has reached out across the seas to bring distant continents within speaking distance of one another.

Others before Bell had had glimpses of the possibilities of transmission of speech by wire. In 1854, Charles Bourseul had outlined a method by which he believed speech could be transmitted. Phil[illegible]cis, a [illegible]man, in 1861, working along the lines of Bourseul, produced a mechanism that would transmit pitch but could not transmit speech.

Bell succeeded in producing a speaking telephone because he had thought out the right principle. While experimenting on his harmonic telegraph in 1875, which led to the invention of the telephone, Bell outlined an idea to his associate, Thomas A. Watson, as follows:

"If I could make a current of electricity vary in intensity precisely as the air varies in density during the production of sound, I should be able to transmit speech telegraphically."

By employing a diaphragm to produce an undulating electric current, just as he had foretold, he was able to transmit speech.

On March 7, 1876, Bell was granted his original patent for the invention that was destined to be developed into the carrier of millions of messages daily.

In the summer of 1876 Bell exhibited his telephone at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia, where it attracted no public attention until the judges and some visiting scientists had participated in a demonstration and had acclaimed it as a wonderful scientific development.

The early telephone apparatus was very crude. It consisted of an instrument to be used alternately as a transmitter and as a receiver, and a connecting length of wire. There have been many changes in the telephone instrument since Bell first designed one that would talk. Since 1877 there have been standardized more than 100 types of transmitter and more than 70 types of receiver.

One of the disheartening difficulties faced by Bell was an almost complete apathy on the part of the public. Even the endorsement of men of science failed to convince the "practical" men of the day that the telephone was more than an interesting toy. They saw for it no future as a factor in business and social life. They refused to use it and refused to invest their savings in it.

In order to arouse interest in his invention, Bell delivered a series of lectures on the telephone, accompanied by demonstrations. Members of the audience were permitted to talk with friends. At the first of these public demonstrations a representative of a Boston newspaper sent from Salem the first newspaper dispatch ever transmitted by telephone.

The public was slow to realize the usefulness of the device. The first commercial telephones were put out in May, 1877. On June 30, 1877, about 15 months after Bell had been granted his original patent there were only 254 telephones in the whole country. They were leased in pairs or loaned to individuals by Bell and his associates. All the telephoning was over single wire connecting the two telephones, with grounded circuits. Calling or signalling devices were crude, and transmission was poor and uncertain. There were no switchboards.

Today there are about forty million telephones in the world of which the United States has about one-half. On the basis of telephones per 100 population, the United States has over six times the number of telephones in Europe as a whole, four times those in France, and more than two and one-half times those in either Germany or Great Britain. New York City, with its two million telephones, has more than any other city in the world and more than the number in each foreign country in the world with the exception of Germany and Great Britain. Chicago has more than twice as many telephones as Switzerland, Los Angeles almost three times as many as the Union of South Africa, and San Francisco more than three and one-half times as many as British India.

The proportion of telephones in the United States as compared with the rest of the world is 14 telephones per 100 persons in the United States and one telephone per 100 persons in the rest of the world. These figures indicate how large a place the telephone fills in the American mode of life.

CROSLEY SCHOOL TO GRADUATE BIG CLASS

The 1938 graduating class of Crosley Grammar school in West Monroe, number 228, will attend the First Methodist church in that city today at 11 a.m., for the baccalaureate exercises. The pastor, Dr. C. Karlos Smith, will deliver a message entitled: "Preparing for Life's Work." There will be special music.

On Thursday at 8 p.m. the same class will receive diplomas. This exercise will be held in the First Baptist church in West Monroe.

The program for commencement night will be as follows:

Processional—Louise Rinehart.
Invocation—Rev. E. E. Huntsberry.
Presentation of Cedar Rope.
Song, "Tell Us"—by class chorus.
Salutatory address—Elizabeth McKeel.
Piano duet—Louis Hawkins and Jane Humphries (Crosley alumni).
Valedictory address—Gloria Hester.
Song, "Andalusia"—by class chorus.
Presentation and Acceptance of Class Gift—Maida Holstead and Ouida Welch.
Song, "Memories"—by class chorus.
Presentation of Diplomas—Mr. J. C. Jordan.
Benediction—Rev. E. E. Huntsberry.

PETITION HIGHWAY BODY TO INSTALL FREE FERRY

HARRISONBURG, La., May 28.—(Special)—A petition bearing several hundred names is being circulated throughout Catahoula and Caldwell parishes petitioning the Louisiana highway commission to install a free ferry on the Ouachita river at Duty Landing near Enterprise in Catahoula parish, on the Columbia-Harrisonburg highway. When the petition gets the required amount of signatures it will be turned over to Representative James of Caldwell parish, who will present it to the highway commission.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

A. W. Cruikshank, Sr., underwent an operation on his leg in the Vaughan-Wright Rental clinic Friday. His condition is reported to be satisfactory. Sometime [illegible] Cruikshank received a serious injury when he fell more than 30 feet while at work for an electric light company several years ago. He had originally received from this injury when he met with an accident in which the same leg was injured. The fall it was the after effects of [illegible] injury that necessitated the [illegible] Friday.

Telephone Company's 'Open House' Highly Successful

Hundreds Flock To See Wonders Brought About In Past 63 Years

Hundreds of residents in the Twin Cities and the surrounding area last week visited the local headquarters of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company at the corner of Catalpa and Grammont streets, on the four days from Wednesday to Saturday, during which the exchange observed open house.

Courteous attendants at the exchange conducted visitors through the several departments, where among other interesting matters they were privileged to watch telephone operators actually at work completing local and long distance calls. The visitors marveled at the unfailing accuracy of the girl operators whose deft fingers moved unerringly over the panels as they plugged connections completing thousands of telephone calls.

A feature which attracted much interest and caused considerable amusement to the visitors was the gadget known as the voice mirror. The instrument is designed so as to permit the user to hear his own voice as it sounds over the telephone. This result was achieved when the voice of the speaker talking into an ordinary telephone transmitter was recorded on a thin wire strip and heard again through auxiliary receivers.

Attendants also conducted visitors through the plant where they were shown the complex arrangement of thousands of wire cables and had explained to them the functions of mysterious looking apparatus used in providing that efficient telephone service which means so much to Monroe and its neighbors.

The telephone system of today which spans oceans and continents and links the peoples of the world has developed within the span of a lifetime.

The telephone was invented 63 yars ago by Alexander Graham Bell, a young professor of vocal physiology at Boston, Mass., and student of electrical science. Bell was born in Scotland on March 3, 1847, moved to Canada in August, 1870, and went to Boston in 1871, as a teacher of deaf mutes.

The principle of the telephone was discovered by Bell on June 2, 1875. His continued experiments, based on his discovery, resulted in an instrument that on March 10, 1876, really "talked" to the extent of transmitting a complete sentence, the first connected human speech to be electrically transmittd and heard over a wire. From this crude beginning came the agency of communication that "has made America a neighborhood," and has reached out across the seas to bring distant continents within speaking distance of one another.

Others before Bell had had glimpses of the possibilities of transmission of speech by wire. In 1854, Charles Bourseul had outlined a method by which he believed speech could be transmitted. Philipp Reis, a German, in 1861, working along the lines of Bourseul, produced a mechanism that would transmit pitch but could not transmit speech.

Bell succeeded in producing a speaking telephone because he had thought out the right principle. While experimenting on his harmonic telegraph in 1875, which led to the invention of the telephone, Bell outlined an idea to his associate, Thomas A. Watson, as follows:

"If I could make a current of electricity vary in intensity precisely as the air varies in density during the production of sound, I should be able to transmit speech telegraphically."

By employing a diaphragm to produce an undulating electric current, just as he had foretold, he was able to transmit speech.

On March 7, 1876, Bell was granted his original patent for the invention that was destined to be developed into the carrier of millions of messages daily.

In the summer of 1876 Bell exhibited his telephone at the centennial exposition in Philadelphia, where it attracted no public attention until the judges and some visiting scientists had participated in a demonstration and had acclaimed it as a wonderful scientific development.

The early telephone apparatus was very crude. It consisted of an instrument to be used alternately as a transmitter and as a receiver, and a connecting length of wire. There have been many changes in the telephone instrument since Bell first designed one that would talk. Since 1877 there have been standardized more than 100 types of transmitter and more than 70 types of receiver.

One of the disheartening difficulties faced by Bell was an almost complete apathy on the part of the public. Even the endorsement of men of science failed to convince the "practical" men of the day that the telephone was more than an interesting toy. They saw for it no future as a factor in business and social life. They refused to use it and refused to invest their savings in it.

In order to arouse interest in his invention, Bell delivered a series of lectures on the telephone, accompanied by demonstrations. Members of the audience were permitted to talk with friends. At the first of these public demonstrations a representative of a Boston newspaper sent from Salem the first newspaper dispatch ever transmitted by telephone.

The public was slow to realize the usefulness of the device. The first commercial telephones were put out in May, 1877. On June 30, 1877, about 15 months after Bell had been granted his original patent, there were only 234 telephonese in the whole country. They were leased in pairs or loaned to individuals by Bell and his associates. All the telephoning was over single iron wire connecting the two telephones, with grounded circuits. Calling or signalling devices were crude, and transmission was poor and uncertain. There were no switchboards.

Today there are about forty million telephones in the world of which the United States has about one-half. On the basis of telephones per 100 population, the United States has over six times the number of telepones in Europe as a whole, four times those in France, and more than two and one-half times those in either Germany or Great Britain. New York City, with its two million telephones, has more than any other city in the world and more than the number in each foreign country in the world with the exception of Germany and Great Britain. Chicago has more than twice as many telephones as Switzerland; Los Angeles almost three times as many as the Union of South Africa, and San Francisco more than three and one-half times as many as British India.

The proportion of telephones in the United States as compared with the rest of the world is 14 telephones per 100 persons in the United States and one telephone per 100 persons in the rest of the world. These figures indicate how large a place the telephone fills in the American mode of life.

CROSLEY SCHOOL TO GRADUATE BIG CLASS

The 1938 graduating class of Crosley Grammar school in West Monroe, number 228, will attend the First Methodist church in that city today at 11 a.m., for the baccalaureate exercises. The pastor, Dr. C. Karlos Smith, will deliver a message entitled: "Preparing for Life's Work." There will be special music.

On Thursday at 8 p.m., the same class will receive diplomas. This exercise will be held in the First Baptist church in West Monroe.

The program for commencement night will be as follows:

Processional—Louise Rinehart.
Invocation—Rev. E. E. Huntsberry.
Presentation of Cedar Rope.
Song, "Tell Us"—by class chorus.
Salutatory address—Elizabeth McKecl.
Piano duet—Louis Hawkins and Jane Humphries (Crosley alumni).
Valedictory address—Gloria Hester.
Song, "Andalusia"—by class chorus.
Presentation and Acceptance of Class Gift—Maida Holstead and Ouida Welch.
Song, "Memories"—by class chorus.
Presentation of Diplomas—Mr. J. C. Jordan.
Benediction—Rev. E. E. Huntsberry.

GIRL SCOUTS SWIM

Poisoned Kidneys

Stop Getting Up Nights

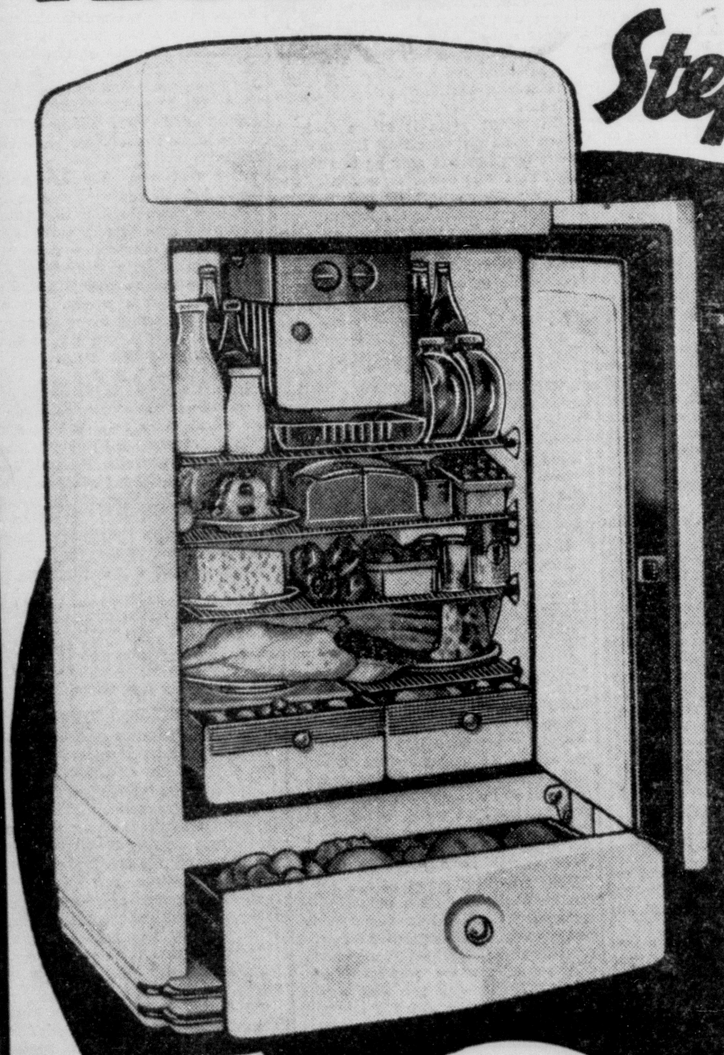

To harmlessly flush poisons and acid from kidneys and correct irritation of bladder so that you can stop "getting up nights" get a 35 cent package of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed. Other symptoms of kidney and bladder weaknesses are scant, burning or smarting passage—backache—leg cramps—puffy eyes. (Adv.)

The Red Cross And China

A contributor to the "Public Forum" in this newspaper recently took occasion to criticize the efforts of the Red Cross to enlist a sympathetic interest in the deplorable plight of millions of Chinese civilians, starving and homeless as a result of the invasion of that unhappy land by Japanese armies.

It is quite true, as the writer of the "Forum" letter suggests, that the Red Cross has a primary obligation in caring for sufferers from disaster in this country, but anyone who has taken the trouble to acquaint himself with the services of that great humanitarian organization cannot be unaware of the splendid work it is rendering for the relief of distress in virtually every field of American life.

No other organization in the entire country has done so much, or is in a position to serve so adequately, to meet disaster emergency, whether it comes in the form of flood, fire, tornado, or famine, as the Red Cross. The people of this section of the state have had ample demonstration of its prompt and efficient activities in this respect in past years. It is the Red Cross to which the American public instinctively turns in its hour of greatest need.

Last year, when back waters flooded sections of Ouachita, Concordia and Catahoula parishes, it was the Red Cross that came to their rescue, removing families to places of safety and furnishing means for rehabilitation when the flood waters subsided. Unfortunately, the public knows little of these activities, because they are done without fanfare and as part of the regular routine job of the local chapters.

It is not to be wondered at that other peoples of the world, less favored and fortunate than America, look to the Red Cross organization of this country for succor in times of peril and disaster. And because its whole system of service is dedicated to the cause of human need, this great mother of humanity does its best to meet any call that comes to it. In the present appeal for help on behalf of China, the Red Cross has simply stated the case to the people of the nation, whose warm heart has never been known to fail in responding to a call for help. It did so in the case of the Belgians and the other sufferers following the World war. It has done so before in the various Chinese famines.

Whatever the Red Cross does to aid the Chinese sufferers today does not mean that its efforts for American needs will be curtailed. Nor does it mean that the public is asked to rob itself in order to help a foreign people. The local chapter has been invited to make a pitiful contribution of $265 to the fund being raised for Chinese civilian relief. No "campaign" is being conducted to accomplish the purpose. The announcement by Mr. E. C. Gibson, chairman of the Ouachita chapter, who gives his time and service to the cause wholly without any compensation except a satisfaction in performing a civic duty, has merely acquainted the public with the appalling facts as they exist in China and has asked that the people voluntarily respond as they feel disposed.

Any individual who has any of the milk of human kindness in his soul cannot help but feel a sincere sympathy for a terribly oppressed and suffering people. Though he may not be able to contribute to the relief of that suffering, at least he will be sympathetic toward any effort that is designed to show American concern for women and children, innocent victims of cruel and ruthless war.

HOLIDAY REFORM

The people of New Jersey have worked themselves into a considerable lather over the issue of shuffling the official holidays around, and you can't blame them.

Passed by the state assembly was a bill moving every holiday to the nearest Monday. The people in favor of bigger and better week-ends were tickled to death, but the people who didn't want to be waving flags and shooting off firecrackers some July morning three days after the rest of the nation weren't tickled at all.

Whatever you think of the every-holiday-a-Monday idea, however, there is definitely a need, not merely in New Jersey but everywhere, for a few sensible reforms in the whole year-long holiday schedule.

Heads of families have been wishing for generations, for instance, that New Year could be placed just a few pay days further removed from Christmas. And take the matter of wedding anniversaries; how much easier it would be to remember, men, if all wedding anniversaries could be scheduled for the same day all over the country. And how about keeping April 1 moving around all the time so that the kids wouldn't ever know just when to get set? And the 4th of July: never let it start until after 11 a. m., say. . . .

Somebody get to work on this idea.

All nations were horrified by poison gas and submarines, yet all adopted them. What one does, others must try and all will bomb helpless cities if they can.

The fair name of Jersey City has been besmirched. A [illegible] radical declares contemptuously he has been [illegible] of better places.

There are two kinds of successful men—the strangers [illegible] and the bashful girls we knew as boys.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If you know a Civil war veteran sunning himself on the front porch, persuade him to take you on a 10-day or two-week vacation to Gettysburg—and the government will pay all expenses.

The offer is open not only to Union veterans but to Confederate veterans as well.

The offer may sound fantastic but is a fact and here is the situation. July 1 to 3 is the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, the so-called "highwater mark of the Confederacy." On that memorable occasion General Meade outfought General Lee. (We are accepting our school history on this. We have no dispute with southerners who claim otherwise. And anyway, Meade did so poorly on the pursuit after the battle that even Lincoln had to chide him a bit.)

As part of the celebration the government is inviting veterans of both sides to come to Gettysburg from June 29 to July 6. Each is to bring an attendant and the government provides railroad transportation for both, as well as $6 a day each for expenses.

The Thinning Ranks

A glance at statistics would indicate that it may be the last of the very few times Confederate and Union soldiers ever have mingled freely together. The army, which is in charge of the party, estimates the average age of the veterans as 94 years. One of the provisions in the invitation is that if a veteran is taken ill on the road a doctor will be paid by the government for caring for him.

There are approximately 10,000 surviving veterans, north and south, and the army expects 5,000 will attend. Any Civil war veteran is eligible, whether he served only a few hours in either army or years. To date less than 2,000 have accepted invitations.

Some of the veterans indicate they haven't cooled off much in the past 75 years. One Union veteran said he would come only if he was assured no Confederate flag would be flown.

One cocky old lad of 117 winters said he was chipper and eager and would bring his youngest son, 54, as attendant. His eldest son, 94, is too feeble.

Quiet Reigns There Now

Gettysburg is sacred ground, made so as much by Lincoln's historic speech as by the battle that marked the first real setback by the Southern forces. At that time the Confederates had swept far north of Washington and were invading Pennsylvania.

From a military standpoint Gettysburg was a beautiful place for a battle, with the opposing forces ranged on high ground facing each other across a valley that at one place was only a few yards across. The old soldiers who knew Gettysburg will find the place not greatly changed. Some trees have grown, and perhaps some bushes. A cathedral quiet about the place impresses even casual tourists.

So elderly are the surviving veterans that it seems likely some who come will not live to get back. The army has made preparations to send home those who die these many years after the battle.

GANGSTERS IN ARKANSAS

By BRUCE CATTON

Although no American city has yet turned wholly sinless and sat down piously to await the wholesale distribution of harps and haloes, it is nevertheless true that we don't hear nearly as much about gangsters and the underworld as we used to hear.

This is partly because the G-men and other law enforcement agencies have done some pretty effective work. Even more, however, it is simply because the gangsters and the underworld havev ceased to be news. Gangs and underworlds still exist; less defiant, less cocky, perhaps, but still in business.

So any new light we can get on the way commercialized crime operates is worth getting and worth thinking about. We shan't really win the the long war with gangsterism until we understand fully how and why gangsterism exists; and some valuable light on the subject is provided by a recent happening in Arkansas.

There the G-men arrested five men and two women on charges of harboring Alvin Karpis, who once was rated one of the nation's most energetic public enemies, back in 1935. Among those arrested were an ex-chief of police, an ex-detective chief, an ex-detective lieutenant and the former manager of the Hot Springs municipal airport.

All of which is interesting for two reasons.

First, because it shows clearly that the big shot criminals do not operate on their own. Their "gangs" are not made up solely of low-browed thugs and coke-sniffing killers; they depend for their existence on the active cooperation of respected people.

Gangsters have to move from place to place. They have to hide out from the law. And they don't slink furtively about like trembling fugitives in a moving picture. They have their friends, their "connections," who take care of them. They are able to live outside the law because supposedly decent folk help them to live that way.

Second, they can't operate without an understanding with the forces of law and order. Pat Roche, the famous Chicago detective, once remarked caustically that a one-armed prohibition agent on a bicycle could have dried up Chicago in a week if he had really tried; and the implications of that remark are true of all gangs at all times and places. Crime flourishes when the police let it flourish—not otherwise.

So these arrests in Arkansas are worth thinking about. Rounding up the people who enabled a public enemy to operate is less spectacular work than nabbing the public enemy himself; in the long run, however, it is the most important part of the job of gang-busting.

A BOOK REVIEW

'HIGH TENSION' ELECTRIFYING

A year or so ago a new writer named William Wister Haines brought out a refreshing novel called "Slim." It dealt with the bronzed, devil-may-care young men who make their living by stringing electric power lines across the landscape, and while it was not very expertly done—its narrative was a rather imperfect disguise for a simple description of the dangers and excitements of a lineman's life—it was as salty, as robust and as elemental as the men it described, and a good many people enjoyed it.

Now Mr. Haines has written another novel, and a much better one—"High Tension." This time he tells about linemen who are working on a railroad electrification project; and this time he has succeeded in writing a smooth novel as well as an illuminating bit of description. The result is something pretty elegant.

First of all, the mere nature of the work these men do is interesting and exciting enough in itself. Stringing 11,000-volt power lines for 150 miles along a four-track right of way, doing it so that there is no suspension of traffic, and dodging all the dangers and unforeseen hazards that go with such a job—well, that's something to read about.

In addition, Mr. Haines has fitted a tight melodrama to this setting and has added a refreshing love story—part of whose refreshing quality is due to the fact that it never gets in the way of the action. Add to this the fact that he reveals a knack for character-drawing, and you get a novel that is very much worth sitting up nights with.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ALTAR OF FAITH—A synagogue in Wolpa, in the government of Grodno, Poland, nearly 300 years old, was built entirely of wood in the year 1643. Even the tools that were used in the building were not of metal. It was built entirely without nails. Repairs necessary at various times were made without any iron implements.

There is an old Jewish tradition, according to which the synagogue was created in order to lengthen the days of man, since iron shortens the days of man, and never shall that which shortens life be raised over that which lengthens it.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THERE ARE QUAINT items in world commerce reports these days. The Japanese have been importing shirts with tails a rod long. Since their import quota limited the number of shirts they might buy abroad, they rigged this cute little device to get cloth for more, snipping off the clandestine tail to make up another batch. They also show ingenuity in marketing their matches. They name one of their towns "Sweden" and sell in the world market matches "made in Sweden."

Germany, its currency and economy cut loose from gold moorings, and with virtually no gold reserve, turns to barter, and out in the world marts gets guns and planes and munitions and a limited amount of raw materials much as in the barter economy of a century ago, when many farmers rarely handled money, but traded butter and eggs at the village store for needed articles.

THE GERMANS TRADE fabricated goods for what they need, and as a sample of those curious little items I refer to, they exported 3,000 daggers to Brazil. So at least we were told by the news dispatches after the unsuccessful revolt against the Vargas regime. The police confiscated the daggers and charged with or without reason that the revolt also was "made in Germany."

Among other German items of export in the last year or two have been philosophers, scientists, artists, composers and writers and among her imports have been not only guns but large-caliber, multiple-chambered, high-powered, strong-arm theories and myths.

AS THE NORMAL channels of trade are obstructed, and as the law of exchange becomes no longer operative, the question of a balance of trade becomes merely fantastic. Not even Milt Gross, "Count Screwloose of Toulouse" could figure it out. The Japanese have 16-foot shirt tails and the monkeys have no tails in Zamboanga.

EVERYTHING runs to extremes, and there seems to be no middle ground of sanity. Not even solid, old-line countries with a big gold reserve, like Great Britain, seem altogether rational—or, at least, understandable. Both Great Britain and Sweden are burying shiploads of gold in Canada, we having buried about $12,000,000,000 worth in Kentucky. Explanations are vague, but it seems that they think the gold is safer there.

The more all the great economists talk about the urgent need for world currency stabilization on a gold basis, the more gold is sterilized and buried. Perhaps the time will come when we'll have all our gold buried and all business, local and international, on a barter basis. If so, we'll act and dress the part—wearing a fur pelisse and a ring in our nose. The two go together.

DR. HUGO ECKENER is a pretty fine person who has won the friendship of most Americans. Ordinarily our inclination would be to deal him a round of helium whenever he wants it. But there is a matter of government policy involved in helium question. A great many people feel that Uncle Sam has been too careless giving to all comers free access not only to military materials, but to inventions, devices and weapons.

It is a certainty that if today we should get into a war with any big power, we would be shot at with our own scrap-iron, bombed, harassed and possibly gassed with materials and weapons of our own devising, if not of actual manufacture. From Simon Lake and his submarine on down to today, this country has been prolific in military and naval inventions. I think it is safe to say that our potential enemies are using most of them.

OUR GENIAL OLD Uncle certainly has been wearing his heart on his sleeve. There's nothing secretive about him. We like him that way, ordinarily, but is it safe, with the world what it is today? Shouldn't there possibly be a new policy of hanging onto such unique military resources as helium, and guarding our military secrets like the Kohinoor?

IT WILL BE good riddance when the old New York postoffice building is razed, "within a few weeks," according to the news dispatches. Architectural firms of the General Grant period must have had to work their staffs in three shifts to think up all those excrescences and stone and plaster irrelevancies which they crowded into this and similar buildings. We wince when we read tax and deficit figures nowadays, but we must admit that the simplified architecture of the public building of this day marks a great advance over this shoot-the-works school of 60 or 70 years ago.

I HOPE the New York and San Francisco expositions will have some good models of the best of our public buildings of the last few years. The great Washington plan, begun by Herbert Hoover and continued by this administration, is achieving dignity, beauty, simplicity and an expression of indigenous skill and genius in its great new buildings. Paying the piper is something else again, but as long as we are building, this civilized effectiveness in taste is a net asset.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

1. Is it rude to glance over a restaurant bill before paying it at the table?
2. Is it necessary to tip a head waiter?
3. How may a hostess pay for men guests without embarrassing them?
4. When entertaining several guests in a tea room or restaurant, is it better for the hostess to order the food in advance than to let the guests make their own selections?
5. When a couple enters a restaurant, does the man or woman speak to the head waiter in stating the preference for tables?

What would you do if—

You wish to speak to a friend who is seated at another restaurant table?

(a) Greet him briefly as you go by?

(b) Stop long enough for others at the table to be introduced?

(c) Pull up a chair at your friend's table so as to avoid being conspicuous?

Answers

1. No.
2. Not unless he has given special service.
3. By paying in advance when she orders the meal, or arranging ahead of time to charge the bill.
4. Yes, as it saves guests the embarrassment of making choices from various price lists.
5. The man.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

An extraordinary condition that affects children particularly is known as glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis. Although this condition has been well recognized for 50 years, its exact cause has not yet been determined. It is known, however, to be an infection which involves the blood, the spleen, the liver, and the lymph glands.

In recent years it seems to have been more frequent than it was some time ago, but this may be due to the fact that it is easier to recognize the disease on account of our modern methods of studying the blood.

Although the condition appears most commonly in children between the ages of 5 and 15, there are cases reported up to 40 years of age. A few cases are reported under 5 or over 40 years of age. Apparently the disease develops from 5 to 15 days after the person has been infected.

While the exact cause of the disease is not known, it is now generally believed to be not a germ that can be seen under the microscope, but one of the type known as filtrable viruses, which are small enough to go through the pores of the clay filter. Such viruses cannot be seen under the microscope.

Glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis is seldom fatal. When death does occur, it is usually due to some secondary complication. Nowadays the diagnosis is made chiefly by studying the blood of the patient.

It is now recognized that there are several different types of white blood cells. In this condition, the white blood cells with a single nucleus, or the so-called mononuclear cells, which ordinarily represent but a small percentage of the total white blood cells, will range from 40 to 80 per cent of the total white blood cells. Indeed, one case has been recorded in which the mononuclear cells constituted 97.5 of the total.

Such an examination of the blood can be made only by a physician or someone trained in this work. As far as the patient is concerned, he suffers from fever, enlargement of the glands, and sometimes an associated sore throat. Occasionally the glands will become secondarily infected and will develop small abscesses.

While there is no specific method of treating this disease, the usual methods used in infectious diseases—including rest in bed, suitable diet, attempts to repair the blood, and the use of drugs which definitely affect infections within the body—are helpful.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON — Inner significance of the government's demand for a supreme court rehearing of the Kansas City stockyards case is that there's another war on between the New Deal and the court, second in potential importance only to the one in which President Roosevelt took a bad congressional beating last year.

This is only the second time in five years that demand for such a reconsideration has been made. Quite unprecedented has been the action of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in firing angry letters about the decision at Chief Justice Hughes.

Equally unprecedented is some of the strong language used by Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson in taking the court to task for a decision which he baldly states was "wrongly decided."

Last-Minute Deletion

Even stronger were some of the phrases which appeared in proof sheets of the government brief a few hours before the final, formal version appeared.

"The court has rendered a decision demonstrably with foundation in the facts of the case," said the proof-sheet version. No pleader before the court had ever been that bold. At the last minute these words were deleted.

The Kansas City case, also known as the Morgan case, involved rates set by the secretary. The court voided the rate order, holding commission firms had not been given a fair hearing and emphasizing lack of a trial examiner's report.

Since the agriculture department long ago and the NLRB lately have shown it is simple to revise the procedure so as to conform with the Morgan decision, no great issue is involved specifically. Vital long-range questions concern the extent to which the supreme court may seek to curtail regulatory and rate-making powers of agencies established by congress and the belligerency with which the administration is willing to fight such attempts at curtailment.

Lesson In Politics

There's a poignant lesson in the decline of Senator Joe Guffey from his once-high position as supreme political boss of Pennsylvania. Joe was such a naive, trusting fellow that he put his power in the hands of other ambitious men. He had been Democratic boss of the state many long years, enormously important in the 1932 Roosevelt nomination and in the 1934 and 1936 victories which put Pennsylvania into the Democratic column.

But after he had reached the summit—his hand-picked man George Earle in the governor's chair, himself in the senate and his rights of patronage and other perquisites gratefully recognized by the White House—Joe made the mistake of letting State Chairman Dave Lawrence handle the federal and state patronage while Earle dished out state and federal funds.

And that was why Joe suddenly found himself squeezed out as Number One man, unable to encompass his own nomination or even to make the machine endorse a man of his choice. In alliance with John Lewis and close in at the White House, Guffey is still a power. But he is far from possessing the most powerful boss-ship in the country. Unknowingly, he gave that away.

YOUTHFUL John Trumbull, son of the governor of Connecticut, could hardly have missed catching the full drama of the Revolution in his famous paintings. Graduating from Harvard in 1773 at 17, he plunged into the war for Independence, serving creditably when he sketched plans of the British works at Boston. For this he was appointed second aide-de-camp to General Washington, and in June, 1776, deputy adjutant general to General Gates. At one time he was imprisoned by the British for seven months.

So out of the Revolution young Trumbull drew his inspiration and he executed such historic paintings as "Battle of Bunker Hill," "Death of Montgomery," "The Surrender of Cornwallis," "The Surrender of Burgoyne," "The Resignation of Washington," and many individual portraits.

The Red Cross And China

A contributor to the "Public Forum" in this newspaper recently took occasion to criticize the efforts of the Red Cross to enlist a sympathetic interest in the deplorable plight of millions of Chinese civilians, starving and homeless as a result of the invasion of that unhappy land by Japanese armies.

It is quite true, as the writer of the "Forum" letter suggests, that the Red Cross has a primary obligation in caring for sufferers from disaster in this country, but anyone who has taken the trouble to acquaint himself with the services of that great humanitarian organization cannot be unaware of the splendid work it is rendering for the relief of distress in virtually every field of American life.

No other organization in the entire country has done so much, or is in a position to serve so adequately, to meet disaster emergency, whether it comes in the form of flood, fire, tornado, or famine, as the Red Cross. The people of this section of the state have had ample demonstration of its prompt and efficient activities in this respect in past years. It is the Red Cross to which the American public instinctively turns in its hour of greatest need.

Last year, when back waters flooded sections of Ouachita, Concordia and Catahoula parishes, it was the Red Cross that came to their rescue, removing families to places of safety and furnishing means for rehabilitation when the flood waters subsided. Unfortunately, the public knows little of these activities, because they are done without fanfare and as part of the regular routine job of the local chapters.

It is not to be wondered at that other peoples of the world, less favored and fortunate than America, look to the Red Cross organization of this country for succor in times of peril and disaster. And because its whole system of service is dedicated to the cause of human need, this great mother of humanity does its best to meet any call that comes to it. In the present appeal for help on behalf of China, the Red Cross has simply stated the case to the people of the nation, whose warm heart has never been known to fail in responding to a call for help. It did so in the case of the Belgians and the other sufferers following the World war. It has done so before in the various Chinese famines.

Whatever the Red Cross does to aid the Chinese sufferers today does not mean that its efforts for American needs will be curtailed. Nor does it mean that the public is asked to rob itself in order to help a foreign people. The local chapter has been invited to make a pitiful contribution of $265 to the fund being raised for Chinese civilian relief. No "campaign" is being conducted to accomplish the purpose. The announcement by Mr. E. C. Gibson, chairman of the Ouachita chapter, who gives his time and service to the cause wholly without any compensation except a satisfaction in performing a civic duty, has merely acquainted the public with the appalling facts as they exist in China and has asked that the people voluntarily respond as they feel disposed.

Any individual who has any of the milk of human kindness in his soul cannot help but feel a sincere sympathy for a terribly oppressed and suffering people. Though he may not be able to contribute to the relief of that suffering, at least he will be sympathetic toward any effort that is designed to show American concern for women and children, innocent victims of cruel and ruthless war.

HOLIDAY REFORM

The people of New Jersey have worked themselves into a considerable lather over the issue of shuffling the official holidays around, and you can't blame them.

Passed by the state assembly was a bill moving every holiday to the nearest Monday. The people in favor of bigger and better week-ends were tickled to death, but the people who didn't want to be waving flags and shooting off firecrackers some July morning three days after the rest of the nation weren't tickled at all.

Whatever you think of the every-holiday-a-Monday idea, however, there is definitely a need, not merely in New Jersey but everywhere, for a few sensible reforms in the whole year-long holiday schedule.

Heads of families have been wishing for generations, for instance, that New Year could be placed just a few pay days further removed from Christmas. And take the matter of wedding anniversaries; how much easier it would be to remember, men, if all wedding anniversaries could be scheduled for the same day all over the country. And how about keeping April 1 moving around all the time so that the kids wouldn't ever know just when to get set? And the 4th of July: never let it start until after 11 a. m., say. . . .

Somebody get to work on this idea.

All nations were horrified by poison gas and submarines, yet all adopted them. What one does, others must do; and all will bomb helpless cities if they can.

The fair name of Jersey City has been besmirched. A wild-eyed radical declares contemptuously he has been thrown out of better places.

There are two kinds of successful men—the strangers who awe us, and the stuffed shirts we knew as boys.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—If you know a Civil war veteran sunning himself on the front porch, persuade him to take you on a 10-day or two-week vacation to Gettysburg—and the government will pay all expenses.

The offer is open not only to Union veterans but to Confederate veterans as well.

The offer may sound fantastic but is a fact and here is the situation. July 1 to 3 is the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, the so-called "highwater mark of the Confederacy." On that memorable occasion General Meade outfought General Lee. (We are accepting our school history on this. We have no dispute with southerners who claim otherwise. And anyway, Meade did so poorly on the pursuit after the battle that even Lincoln had to chide him a bit.)

As part of the celebration the government is inviting veterans of both sides to come to Gettysburg from June 29 to July 6. Each is to bring an attendant and the government provides railroad transportation for both, as well as $6 a day each for expenses.

The Thinning Ranks

A glance at statistics would indicate that it may be the last of the very few times Confederate and Union soldiers ever have mingled freely together. The army, which is in charge of the party, estimates the average age of the veterans as 94 years. One of the provisions in the invitation is that if a veteran is taken ill on the road a doctor will be paid by the government for caring for him.

There are approximately 10,000 surviving veterans, north and south, and the army expects 5,000 will attend. Any Civil war veteran is eligible, whether he served only a few hours in either army or years. To date less than 2,000 have accepted invitations.

Some of the veterans indicate they haven't cooled off much in the past 75 years. One Union veteran said he would come only if he was assured no Confederate flag would be flown.

One cocky old lad of 117 winters said he was chipper and eager and would bring his youngest son, 54, as attendant. His eldest son, 94, is too feeble.

Quiet Reigns There Now

Gettysburg is sacred ground, made so as much by Lincoln's historic speech as by the battle that marked the first real setback by the Southern forces. At that time the Confederates had swept far north of Washington and were invading Pennsylvania.

From a military standpoint Gettysburg was a beautiful place for a battle, with the opposing forces ranged on high ground facing each other across a valley that at one place was only a few yards across. The old soldiers who knew Gettysburg will find the place not greatly changed. Some trees have grown, and perhaps some bushes. A cathedral quiet about the place impresses even casual tourists.

So elderly are the surviving veterans that it seems likely some who come will not live to get back. The army has made preparations to send home those who die these many years after the battle.

GANGSTERS IN ARKANSAS

By BRUCE CATTON

Although no American city has yet turned wholly sinless and sat down piously to await the wholesale distribution of harps and haloes, it is nevertheless true that we don't hear nearly as much about gangsters and the underworld as we used to hear.

This is partly because the G-men and other law enforcement agencies have done some pretty effective work. Even more, however, it is simply because the gangsters and the underworld havev ceased to be news. Gangs and underworlds still exist; less defiant, less cocky, perhaps, but still in business.

So any new light we can get on the way commercialized crime operates is worth getting and worth thinking about. We shan't really win the the long war with gangsterism until we understand fully how and why gangsterism exists; and some valuable light on the subject is provided by a recent happening in Arkansas.

There the G-men arrested five men and two women on charges of harboring Alvin Karpis, who once was rated one of the nation's most energetic public enemies, back in 1935. Among those arrested were an ex-chief of police, an ex-detective chief, an ex-detective lieutenant and the former manager of the Hot Springs municipal airport.

All of which is interesting for two reasons.

First, because it shows clearly that the big shot criminals do not operate on their own. Their "gangs" are not made up solely of low-browed thugs and coke-sniffing killers; they depend for their existence on the active cooperation of respected people.

Gangsters have to move from place to place. They have to hide out from the law. And they don't slink furtively about like trembling fugitives in a moving picture. They have their friends, their "connections," who take care of them. They are able to live outside the law because supposedly decent folk help them to live that way.

Second, they can't operate without an understanding with the forces of law and order. Pat Roche, the famous Chicago detective, once remarked caustically that a one-armed prohibition agent on a bicycle could have dried up Chicago in a week if he had really tried; and the implications of that remark are true of all gangs at all times and places. Crime flourishes when the police let it flourish—not otherwise.

So these arrests in Arkansas are worth thinking about. Rounding up the people who enabled a public enemy to operate is less spectacular work than nabbing the public enemy himself; in the long run, however, it is the most important part of the job of gang-busting.

A BOOK REVIEW

'HIGH TENSION' ELECTRIFYING

A year or so ago a new writer named William Wister Haines brought out a refreshing novel called "Slim." It dealt with the bronzed, devil-may-care young men who make their living by stringing electric power lines across the landscape, and while it was not very expertly done—its narrative was a rather imperfect disguise for a simple description of the dangers and excitements of a lineman's life—it was as salty, as robust and as elemental as the men it described, and a good many people enjoyed it.

Now Mr. Haines has written another novel, and a much better one—"High Tension." This time he tells about linemen who are working on a railroad electrification project; and this time he has succeeded in writing a smooth novel as well as an illuminating bit of description. The result is something pretty elegant.

First of all, the mere nature of the work these men do is interesting and exciting enough in itself. Stringing 11,000-volt power lines for 150 miles along a four-track right of way, doing it so that there is no suspension of traffic, and dodging all the dangers and unforeseen hazards that go with such a job —well, that's something to read about.

In addition, Mr. Haines has fitted a tight melodrama to this setting and has added a refreshing love story—part of whose refreshing quality is due to the fact that it never gets in the way of the action. Add to this the fact that he reveals a knack for character-drawing, and you get a novel that is very much worth sitting up nights with.

THERE ARE QUAINT items in world commerce reports these days. The Japanese have been importing shirts with tails a rod long. Since their import quota limited the number of shirts they might buy abroad, they rigged this cute little device to get cloth for more, snipping off the clandestine tail to make up another batch. They also show ingenuity in marketing their matches. They name one of their towns "Sweden" and sell in the world market matches "made in Sweden."

Germany, its currency and economy cut loose from gold moorings, and with virtually no gold reserve, turns to barter, and out in the world marts gets guns and planes and munitions and a limited amount of raw materials much as in the barter economy of a century ago, when many farmers rarely handled money, but traded butter and eggs at the village store for needed articles.

THE GERMANS TRADE fabricated goods for what they need, and as a sample of those curious little items I refer to, they exported 3,000 daggers to Brazil. So at least we were told by the news dispatches after the unsuccessful revolt against the Vargas regime. The police confiscated the daggers and charged with or without reason that the revolt also was "made in Germany."

Among other German items of export in the last year or two have been philosophers, scientists, artists, composers and writers and among her imports have been not only guns but large-caliber, multiple-chambered, high-powered, strong-arm theories and myths.

AS THE NORMAL channels of trade are obstructed, and as the law of exchange becomes no longer operative, the question of a balance of trade becomes merely fantastic. Not even Milt Gross, "Count Screwloose of Toulouse" could figure it out. The Japanese have 16-foot shirt tails and the monkeys have no tails in Zamboanga.

EVERYTHING runs to extremes, and there seems to be no middle ground of sanity. Not even solid, old-line countries with a big gold reserve, like Great Britain, seem altogether rational—or, at least, understandable. Both Great Britain and Sweden are burying shiploads of gold in Canada, we having buried about $12,000,000,000 worth in Kentucky. Explanations are vague, but it seems that they think the gold is safer there.

The more all the great economists talk about the urgent need for world currency stabilization on a gold basis, the more gold is sterilized and buried. Perhaps the time will come when we'll have all our gold buried and all business, local and international, on a barter basis. If so, we'll act and dress the part—wearing a fur pelisse and a ring in our nose. The two go together.

DR. HUGO ECKENER is a pretty fine person who has won the friendship of most Americans. Ordinarily our inclination would be to deal him a round of helium whenever he wants it. But there is a matter of government policy involved in helium question. A great many people feel that Uncle Sam has been too careless giving to all comers free access not only to military materials, but to inventions, devices and weapons.

It is a certainty that if today we should get into a war with any big power, we would be shot at with our own scrap-iron, bombed, harassed and possibly gassed with materials and weapons of our own devising, if not of actual manufacture. From Simon Lake and his submarine on down to today, this country has been prolific in military and naval inventions. I think it is safe to say that our potential enemies are using most of them.

OUR GENIAL OLD Uncle certainly has been wearing his heart on his sleeve. There's nothing secretive about him. We like him that way, ordinarily, but is it safe, with the world what it is today? Shouldn't there possibly be a new policy of hanging onto such unique military resources as helium, and guarding our military secrets like the Kohinoor?

IT WILL BE good riddance when the old New York postoffice building is razed, "within a few weeks," according to the news dispatches. Architectural firms of the General Grant period must have had to work their staffs in three shifts to think up all those excrescences and stone and plaster irrelevancies which they crowded into this and similar buildings. We wince when we read tax and deficit figures nowadays, but we must admit that the simplified architecture of the public building of this day marks a great advance over this shoot-the-works school of 60 or 70 years ago.

I HOPE the New York and San Francisco expositions will have some good models of the best of our public buildings of the last few years. The great Washington plan, begun by Herbert Hoover and continued by this administration, is achieving dignity, beauty, simplicity and an expression of indigenous skill and genius in its great new buildings. Paying the piper is something else again, but as long as we are building, this civilized effectiveness in taste is a net asset.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

1. Is it rude to glance over a restaurant bill before paying it at the table?
2. Is it necessary to tip a head waiter?
3. How may a hostess pay for men guests without embarrassing them?
4. When entertaining several guests in a tea room or restaurant, is it better for the hostess to order the food in advance than to let the guests make their own selections?
5. When a couple enters a restaurant, does the man or woman speak to the head waiter in stating the preference for tables?

What would you do if—

You wish to speak to a friend who is seated at another restaurant table?

(a) Greet him briefly as you go by?

(b) Stop long enough for others at the table to be introduced?

(c) Pull up a chair at your friend's table so as to avoid being conspicuous?

Answers

1. No.
2. Not unless he has given special service.
3. By paying in advance when she orders the meal, or arranging ahead of time to charge the bill.
4. Yes, as it saves guests the embarrassment of making choices from various price lists.
5. The man.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

An extraordinary condition that affects children particularly is known as glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis. Although this condition has been well recognized for 50 years, its exact cause has not yet been determined. It is known, however, to be an infection which involves the blood, the spleen, the liver, and the lymph glands.

In recent years it seems to have been more frequent than it was some time ago, but this may be due to the fact that it is easier to recognize the disease on account of our modern methods of studying the blood.

Although the condition appears most commonly in children between the ages of 5 and 15, there are cases reported up to 40 years of age. A few cases are reported under 5 or over 40 years of age. Apparently the disease develops from 5 to 15 days after the person has been infected.

While the exact cause of the disease is not known, it is now generally believed to be not a germ that can be seen under the microscope, but one of the type known as filtrable viruses, which are small enough to go through the pores of the clay filter. Such viruses cannot be seen under the microscope.

Glandular fever or infectious mononucleosis is seldom fatal. When death does occur, it is usually due to some secondary complication. Nowadays the diagnosis is made chiefly by studying the blood of the patient.

It is now recognized that there are several different types of white blood cells. In this condition, the white blood cells with a single nucleus, or the so-called mononuclear cells, which ordinarily represent but a small percentage of the total white blood cells, will range from 40 to 80 per cent of the total white blood cells. Indeed, one case has been recorded in which the mononuclear cells constituted 97.5 of the total.

Such an examination of the blood can be made only by a physician or someone trained in this work. As far as the patient is concerned, he suffers from fever, enlargement of the glands, and sometimes an associated sore throat. Occasionally the glands will become secondarily infected and will develop small abscesses.

While there is no specific method of treating this disease, the usual methods used in infectious diseases—including rest in bed, suitable diet, attempts to repair the blood, and the use of drugs which definitely affect infections within the body—are helpful.

STRAPLESS BRA

The present vogue for strapless evening dresses creates a demand for new types of foundation garments. A new bra, designed for versatility, has removable straps which are also adjustable to conform with a halter neckline, thus being suitable to wear with three utterly different types of gowns.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON — Inner significance of the government's demand for a supreme court rehearing of the Kansas City stockyards case is that there's another war on between the New Deal and the court, second in potential importance only to the one in which President Roosevelt took a bad congressional beating last year.

This is only the second time in five years that demand for such a reconsideration has been made. Quite unprecedented has been the action of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in firing angry letters about the decision at Chief Justice Hughes.

Equally unprecedented is some of the strong language used by Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson in taking the court to task for a decision which he baldly states was "wrongly decided."

Last-Minute Deletion

Even stronger were some of the phrases which appeared in proof sheets of the government brief a few hours before the final, formal version appeared.

"The court has rendered a decision demonstrably with foundation in the facts of the case," said the proof-sheet version. No pleader before the court had ever been that bold. At the last minute these words were deleted.

The Kansas City case, also known as the Morgan case, involved rates set by the secretary. The court voided the rate order, holding commission firms had not been given a fair hearing and emphasizing lack of a trial examiner's report.

Since the agriculture department long ago and the NLRB lately have shown it is simple to revise the procedure so as to conform with the Morgan decision, no great issue is involved specifically. Vital long-range questions concern the extent to which the supreme court may seek to curtail regulatory and rate-making powers of agencies established by congress and the belligerency with which the administration is willing to fight such attempts at curtailment.

Lesson In Politics

There's a poignant lesson in the decline of Senator Joe Guffey from his once-high position as supreme political boss of Pennsylvania. Joe was such a naive, trusting fellow that he put his power in the hands of other ambitious men. He had been Democratic boss of the state many long years, enormously important in the 1932 Roosevelt nomination and in the 1934 and 1936 victories which put Pennsylvania into the Democratic column.

But after he had reached the summit—his hand-picked man George Earle in the governor's chair, himself in the senate and his rights of patronage and other perquisites gratefully recognized by the White House—Joe made the mistake of letting State Chairman Dave Lawrence handle the federal and state patronage while Earle dished out state and federal funds.

And that was why Joe suddenly found himself squeezed out as Number One man, unable to encompass his own nomination or even to make the machine endorse a man of his choice. In alliance with John Lewis and close in at the White House, Guffey is still a power. But he is far from possessing the most powerful boss-ship in the country. Unknowingly, he gave that away.

Present national headquarters of the once-potent Anti-Saloon League are two doors away from a liquor store on a drab street bordering the Library of Congress grounds. Beneath league offices are a millinery store and "Marguerite's Beauty Shoppe." Lettering on a door reveals that J. R. Hobbs—not generally known here—is the league's president. And it has been a long time since the office windows were washed.

STAMP NEWS

YOUTHFUL John Trumbull, son of the governor of Connecticut, could hardly have missed catching the full drama of the Revolution in his famous paintings. Graduating from Harvard in 1773 at 17, he plunged into the war for Independence, serving creditably when he sketched plans of the British works at Boston. For this he was appointed second aide-de-camp to General Washington, and in June, 1776, deputy adjutant general to General Gates. At one time he was imprisoned by the British for seven months.

So out of the Revolution young Trumbull drew his inspiration, and he executed such historic paintings as "Battle of Bunker Hill," "Death of Montgomery," "The Surrender of Cornwallis," "The Surrender of Burgoyne," "The Resignation of Washington," and many individual portraits.

RED CROSS ASKS $265 FOR CHINA

Chapter Invites Voluntary Contributions To Aid Starving Millions

The Ouachita chapter of the American Red Cross is receiving voluntary contributions from various sources throughout the parish in response to a recent appeal from the national organization in Washington on behalf of the millions of civilians in China who are starving and homeless as a result of the present war in that country.

E. C. Gibson, chairman of the local chapter, announced Saturday that a quota of $265 had been assigned to Ouachita parish as its portion in the national relief fund now being raised. Mr. Gibson made public a statement by Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the Red Cross, stating that the number of persons in all parts of China will reach 60,000,000 before September of this year. The number is equivalent to virtually half the population of the United States.

The statement of National Chairman Davis follows:

"One of the greatest periods of suffering in modern world history is beginning in devastated China, and millions of homeless men, women and children are facing actual starvation in the wake of current hostilities, with little relief in sight.

"Recent reports to Red Cross headquarters from consular officials and American business men in China estimate that 20,000,000 persons are homeless in areas accessible to foreign surveys alone, and that an equally large number will be found in interior provinces. In that same territory 1,000,000 homeless orphans, or children separated from their families, are wandering over the devastated countryside, shelterless, foodless and exposed to chilling typhoon weather now sweeping over coastal provinces.

"The situation is rendered more desperate, and the outlook gloomier, by the fact that in war-torn areas no planning for food crops or agricultural production of any sort is possible. The tools of farmer-peasants have been destroyed. They have no seed for planting; indeed, many of them find it impossible to return to their land because of military occupation.

"John Earl Baker, internationally-known relief expert and for many years director of the China famine relief committee, has recently advised American officials that the number of persons in all parts of China who face starvation may reach the appalling figure of 60,000,000 before September, 1938.

"By that number," he reported, "I do not mean that they will merely be on 'starvation' rations, but that no food actually will be procurable to fend off death. I doubt that the world has ever witnessed such an awful tragedy as this one about to be enacted in China."

CHAPTER XXXI

It was a magic moment. Evelyn Parsons stood with her face half averted from Mitchell. In the white moonlight she seemed like a goddess—unearthly and unattainable. Not by the slightest movement did Evelyn betray her quickening pulse.

Mitchell hesitated as though shocked at his own daring.

Slowly she turned her head, raising her eyes to meet his. This was no goddess! Evelyn's gaze held tenderness, warmth and the suggestion of veiled mystery.

"I wonder," she said softly, "if I do know, John?"

"Oh, Evelyn—you're so beautiful!"

The man's voice was choking with emotion. Mrs. Parsons did not smile. Had she overplayed that moment of delay? Surely not. In another instant John Mitchell was going to ask her to be his wife.

He took both her hands in his. Mitchell's eyes were earnest, anxious.

"You must have known how I feel about you," he said. "You've been so helpful, so understanding! Evelyn, you're wonderful. You're the one woman—"

The sentence was never finished. Someone was coming through the living room and at the sound of footsteps both Mitchell and Mrs. Parsons turned.

"Oh, here you are!" Celia Mitchell stood in the open French window, the light from the room beyond throwing her slim figure into silhouette. "It's too perfect to be indoors, isn't it?"

She stepped out on the porch and came to join them. Celia apologized to her father for being absent when he arrived. She chattered about the picnic, hoping to forestall questioning. No one appeared interested.

Mrs. Parsons, after the first startled glance at the girl, was unusually silent. Mitchell, looking embarrassed, listened to Celia and now and then made obvious attempts at conversation.

Presently Evelyn Parsons excused herself and went into the house. Not for another moment could she contain her anger. Evelyn mounted the stairs, hurried to her room and closed the door behind her.

She stood leaning against it, hands clenched and her body quivering. Evelyn's eyes were closed, her mouth a cruel sliver of crimson.

"Oh!" she gasped. "Oh—!"

Suddenly the woman was a tornado of energy. She picked up a book, the first object to touch her hand, and hurled it across the room. Papers, magazines, a cigaret case were next. When the room looked as though a windstorm had struck it, Evelyn flung herself in a chair. Her face was white and distorted. One white satin toe tapped the floor furiously.

Gradually she became quieter. Blind anger gave way to an expression of grim deliberation. Evelyn's eyes narrowed. Nothing had been lost and on the whole she might gain from the situation. Temporary obstacles often increased a man's ardor. Hadn't she played that game frequently?

She moved to her dressing table and began working with cosmetics as she framed a course of action. In a few moments traces of the tempestuous outburst had been removed. A subtle touch of eye-shadow made her eyes more brilliant and gave them a hint of wistfulness. She drew fresh lips with a stick of carmine, dusted her face and shoulders with fragrant powder. Under lamplight these restoratives would pass unnoticed.

The action soothed Evelyn as nothing else could have done. When she had finished she surveyed herself with satisfaction. Like other vain women Evelyn Parsons felt fortified by her beauty and thought no man could resist it.

She would make Mitchell ask her to marry him tomorrow. Oh, yes, she could do that! It had been exasperating to have the goal within reach and then rudely snatched away, but there would be no such slip tomorrow.

Back in Evelyn Parsons' mind was the thought that Celia would pay for this interference. Anyone who interfered with the widow's plans was quite likely to pay.

She was singing softly the refrain of an English ballad as she returned to the porch. It was a song Evelyn had heard Mitchell say he was fond of.

"Hilda's bringing something cool to drink," she said. "I thought it would be refreshing."

"Isn't Evelyn the perfect hostess, father?" Celia said. "She never forgets anything."

"You're quite right," Mitchell agreed. His eyes swept Mrs. Parsons as she sank gracefully into a wicker chair. She had chosen a seat where the path of light from the living room touched her hair and made it a golden halo.

The maid appeared bearing a tray of tall glasses and pitcher in which ice clinked invitingly. She served the beverage, then withdrew.

"You don't know how often I think of this porch afternoons and evenings when I'm in town," Mitchell spoke up. "It's a great place you've got here, Evelyn."

"Celia and I live out here. Don't we, dear?"

"Almost. Here and in the garden."

"A man's a fool to tie himself down in a city all his life!" John Mitchell said this as though he were arguing with himself. He balanced his glass absent-mindedly and the fragile crystal was in imminent peril. He remembered just in time.

"I don't think you ought to stay in town during this hot weather," Celia said firmly.

"Oh—utterly impossible to get away—now. Besides, see how I impose on Mrs. Parsons' hospitality!"

"You know you could never do that, John." Evelyn spoke in a low tone. She gave Mitchell a quick glance, then her eyes turned away.

For nearly an hour the three sat enjoying the breeze and the fantastic pattern of light and shadows woven on the moonlit lawn. Then Mitchell said it was time for him to go. He was spending the night at the country club and promised to rejoin them next day after his morning round of golf.

He departed. Celia paused long enough in the upstairs hallway before going to her room to say to Mrs. Parsons:

"You looked perfectly beautiful tonight, Evelyn! I thought at first you'd done your hair a different way, but it isn't that. I guess it's just because you really are beautiful!"

"Silly child. Tell me about the picnic."

"It was fun. Listen, Evelyn, do you think you'll be able to talk to father tomorrow about Tod? I mean about getting him to change his opinion of him? It sort of bothers me. I can't help but worry—"

Sheer inspiration prompted Evelyn Parsons. An eager light came into her eyes.

"I'll do what I can, Celia," she said. "And I'm sure I can't fail. Let's see—the thing is to manage this the right way."

She studied silently a moment. "I know!" she continued, "we'll pretend you have an errand tomorrow afternoon after luncheon. You can take the car and stay away a long time—two hours at least! That will give me the chance to have the sort of talk with your father where I can lead up to the subject. Don't you see? First I'll talk about how popular you are at the club and how everyone likes you. That will be sure to start him on his plans for your future. From that it will be no trick at all for me to mention Tod and what a splendid young man he is."

"Oh, Evelyn!"

The girl was delighted.

"That's how we'll manage it. Now remember, your part is to go for a long drive that will give me plenty of time—"

"I'll time myself," Celia assured her. "I'll give you hours! Good night, Evelyn."

"Good night, dear!"

As Evelyn Parsons closed the door of her room she was convinced that fate was her ally.

Celia was trying to learn tennis. The game fascinated her, and Lisa Duncan, who played expertly, had volunteered some instruction.

Celia was too shy to expose her feeble efforts on the courts at the club, but she could bounce balls against the backstops on the court at Larchwood to her heart's content.

She was in the midst of an exciting private practice Sunday morning when she heard her father's voice.

"Higher!" he called. "Throw the ball higher in the air before you strike it."

The girl turned in the direction from where his voice came. Mitchell stood in the pathway through the hedge. His hands were on his hips. He might have been watching her for some time.

Her face, red from exertion, colored more darkly.

"I didn't see you," she said. "Good morning. I'm afraid I'll never learn how to serve!"

"You don't throw the ball high enough," Mitchell repeated. He walked out to where she stood, took the racket and ball in his own hands. "Here—like this!"

"Perfect!" cried Celia.

"I haven't had a tennis racket in my hands for years," her father said, looking down at the object. "Getting too old for the game."

"Not when you can serve a ball like that! Oh, I wish I could make them spin that way! Mine won't even go over the net."

"Have you got another racket?"

"There are some in the house. Wait—I'll be back in two minutes!" Celia turned and sped down the pathway. In a short time she was back, breathless and eyes shining. She carried three tennis rackets.

"Help yourself," Celia urged.

Mitchell tried them, selected one and walked to the opposite side of the net. He had already put aside his coat and hat. For some time he returned balls and called out suggestions as Celia practiced. Later they were opponents in a game. It ended in the man's favor. They played a second, which Celia won, and then her father demanded time out for rest.

The girl's embarrassment was gone. She asked questions, tried to correct faults. Mitchell criticized.

Celia brushed her hair back impatiently. In her short white dress and heelless slippers she looked a child. Sunshine had turned her face and arms a ruddy tan.

A low exclamation came from John Mitchell.

"Completely forgot!" he said emphatically. "Sorry, Celia, I brought a letter down for you yesterday and forgot to give it to you. Now where did I put that—"

He began to search his pockets.

Bronze Tablet To Mark Old Highway In Lincoln Parish

Ruston Pierian Club To Place Plate On 'Old Wire Road' At Vienna

By Kenneth F. Hewins
(Morning World Correspondent)

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—To commemorate the "Old Wire road," the first stage-coach thoroughfare transversing north Louisiana and leading into the southwest, the trail for which was blazed early in the nineteenth century, plans are being made to erect a bronze tablet where the old road crosses the Pershing highway (U. S. 167) at Vienna in Lincoln parish.

The marking of the pioneer trail will be a project to be completed during the year by the Ruston Pierian club, local women's organization with civic and literary interests.

Authority for placing the marker at Vienna, former seat of Lincoln parish, already has been obtained through W. H. Huckaby of Monroe, maintenance superintendent of the Louisiana Highway commission for this area, according to Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, member of the Pierian club, who has taken an active part in the plans for commemorating the old route.

The tablet will contain probably 100 words of historical reference to the old road and will be mounted on native rock if possible, Mrs. Pearce stated. The marker will be erected at the northwest corner of the intersection at Vienna along the highway right-of-way. It will be located, incidentally, near the place where the first land was taken up in what is now Lincoln parish by Daniel and Susan Colvin sometime near the year 1800, it is said.

Details of the inscription will be arranged by a committee of the Pierian club, including Mrs. R. H. Brooks and Mrs. W. K. Duncan. This club bears some historical significance of its own, since it was founded in 1899, is the oldest club in the fifth district and is a charter member of the Federation of Women's clubs organized at Shreveport in 1900. The club members recently held a quinquennial homecoming celebration at Ruston, honoring former members now living in various parts of the country.

The "Old Wire road," so-called because the first telegraph wires were strung beside it, played a big part in shaping the destinies of north Louisiana, it is recalled by old residents here. The road crossed the state from Vicksburg to Shreveport, led to San Antonio and connected with routes to other points in the Southwest.

Monroe people, in the early days referred to the thoroughfare as the "Claiborne road," it is reported here. The road crossed the Ouachita river at old Trenton, a short distance north of the present city of Monroe, a ferry having been operated at Trenton in those days. Then, the farmers of this section took their produce to market at Trenton. Later, in 1833, when Ruston was founded many of the first residents of this city came from Trenton. They included the Lewis, Kidd, Standifer, Marbury, Jackson, Duncan and Burgess families, many of whom are still represented here.

From Trenton, the old road wound around through Forksville to Calhoun and thence to Sibley in Lincoln parish, Douglas and to Vienna. The trip from Monroe to Vienna represented a day's journey for the stage coach, it is said, and a hotel was maintained at Vienna to accommodate the stop-over passengers.

From Vienna, the route passed through old Arcadia, Athens, Homer, Minden and to Shreveport. Between Monroe and Shreveport, the old road touched at only a few points along what is now U. S. highway 80, crossing the state from Vicksburg to Shreveport.

Information is lacking as to the exact date the old highway was opened in this part of north Louisiana probably by the Colvin family coming from the Carolinas but present residents here agree that the time was about 1800. The road was still the principal route for this section at the time of the founding of Ruston in 1883. Several miles of the old road are still in use.

Vienna was chosen as the spot for the road marker since that is the place where the old route crosses a national highway, it was explained.

RED CROSS ASKS $265 FOR CHINA

Chapter Invites Voluntary Contributions To Aid Starving Millions

The Ouachita chapter of the American Red Cross is receiving voluntary contributions from various sources throughout the parish in response to a recent appeal from the national organization in Washington on behalf of the millions of civilians in China who are starving and homeless as a result of the present war in that country.

E. C. Gibson, chairman of the local chapter, announced Saturday that a quota of $265 had been assigned to Ouachita parish as its portion in the national relief fund now being raised. Mr. Gibson made public a statement by Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the Red Cross, stating that the number of persons in all parts of China will reach 60,000,000 before September of this year. The number is equivalent to virtually half the population of the United States.

The statement of National Chairman Davis follows:

"One of the greatest periods of suffering in modern world history is beginning in devastated China, and millions of homeless men, women and children are facing actual starvation in the wake of current hostilities, with little relief in sight.

"Recent reports to Red Cross headquarters from consular officials and American business men in China estimate that 20,000,000 persons are homeless in areas accessible to foreign surveys alone, and that an equally large number will be found in interior provinces. In that same territory 1,000,000 homeless orphans, or children separated from their families, are wandering over the devastated countryside, shelterless, foodless and exposed to chilling typhoon weather now sweeping over coastal provinces.

"The situation is rendered more desperate, and the outlook gloomier, by the fact that in war-torn areas no planning for food crops or agricultural production of any sort is possible. The tools of farmer-peasants have been destroyed. They have no seed for planting; indeed, many of them find it impossible to return to their land because of military occupation.

"John Earl Baker, internationally-known relief expert and for many years director of the China famine relief committee, has recently advised American officials that the number of persons in all parts of China who face starvation may reach the appalling figure of 60,000,000 before September, 1938.

"By that number," he reported, "I do not mean that they will merely be on 'starvation' rations, but that no food actually will be procurable to fend off death. I doubt that the world has ever witnessed such an awful tragedy as this one about to be enacted in China."

MR. KELLEY IS 109, HIS WIFE 105

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kelley's formula for longevity—an unwavering faith in the Creator, hard work and moderation in all things—seems to be a good one, for they have been married 81 years; Mr. Kelley is 109 and Mrs. Kelley 105. Pictured above, they celebrated the other day with a trip to Longview, Tex., from their farm 12 miles away. Mr. Kelley was turned down when he tried to enlist in the Confederate army during the Civil war. Medical examiners said his health was poor, that he couldn't live long.

Heart Hungry

CHAPTER XXXI

It was a magic moment. Evelyn Parsons stood with her face half averted from Mitchell. In the white moonlight she seemed like a goddess—unearthly and unattainable. Not by the slightest movement did Evelyn betray her quickening pulse.

Mitchell hesitated as though shocked at his own daring.

Slowly she turned her head, raising her eyes to meet his. This was no goddess! Evelyn's gaze held tenderness, warmth and the suggestion of veiled mystery.

"I wonder," she said softly, "if I do know, John?"

"Oh, Evelyn—you're so beautiful!"

The man's voice was choking with emotion. Mrs. Parsons did not smile. Had she overplayed that moment of delay? Surely not. In another instant John Mitchell was going to ask her to be his wife.

He took both her hands in his. Mitchell's eyes were earnest, anxious.

"You must have known how I feel about you," he said. "You've been so helpful, so understanding! Evelyn, you're wonderful. You're the one woman—"

The sentence was never finished. Someone was coming through the living room and at the sound of footsteps both Mitchell and Mrs. Parsons turned.

"Oh, here you are!" Celia Mitchell stood in the open French window, the light from the room beyond throwing her slim figure into silhouette. "It's too perfect to be indoors, isn't it?"

She stepped out on the porch and came to join them. Celia apologized to her father for being absent when he arrived. She chattered about the picnic, hoping to forestall questioning. No one appeared interested.

Mrs. Parsons, after the first startled glance at the girl, was unusually silent. Mitchell, looking embarrassed, listened to Celia and now and then made obvious attempts at conversation.

Presently Evelyn Parsons excused herself and went into the house. Not for another moment could she contain her anger. Evelyn mounted the stairs, hurried to her room and closed the door behind her.

She stood leaning against it, hands clenched and her body quivering. Evelyn's eyes were closed, her mouth a cruel sliver of crimson.

"Oh!" she gasped. "Oh—!"

Suddenly the woman was a tornado of energy. She picked up a book, the first object to touch her hand, and hurled it across the room. Papers, magazines, a cigaret case were next. When the room looked as though a windstorm had struck it, Evelyn flung herself in a chair. Her face was white and distorted. One white satin toe tapped the floor furiously.

Gradually she became quieter. Blind anger gave way to an expression of grim deliberation. Evelyn's eyes narrowed. Nothing had been lost and on the whole she might gain from the situation. Temporary obstacles often increased a man's ardor. Hadn't she played that game frequently?

She moved to her dressing table and began working with cosmetics as she framed a course of action. In a few moments traces of the tempestuous outburst had been removed. A subtle touch of eye-shadow made her eyes more brilliant and gave them a hint of wistfulness. She drew fresh lips with a stick of carmine, dusted her face and shoulders with fragrant powder. Under lamplight these restoratives would pass unnoticed.

The action soothed Evelyn as nothing else could have done. When she had finished she surveyed herself with satisfaction. Like other vain women Evelyn Parsons felt fortified by her beauty and thought no man could resist it.

She would make Mitchell ask her to marry him tomorrow. Oh, yes, she could do that! It had been exasperating to have the goal within reach and then rudely snatched away, but there would be no such slip tomorrow.

Back in Evelyn Parsons' mind was the thought that Celia would pay for this interference. Anyone who interfered with the widow's plans was quite likely to pay.

She was singing softly the refrain of an English ballad as she returned to the porch. It was a song Evelyn had heard Mitchell say he was fond of.

"Hilda's bringing something cool to drink," she said, "I thought it would be refreshing."

"Isn't Evelyn the perfect hostess, father?" Celia said. "She never forgets anything."

"You're quite right," Mitchell agreed. His eyes swept Mrs. Parsons as she sank gracefully into a wicker chair. She had chosen a seat where the path of light from the living room touched her hair and made it a golden halo.

The maid appeared bearing a tray of tall glasses and pitcher in which ice clinked invitingly. She served the beverage, then withdrew.

"You don't know how often I think of this porch afternoons and evenings when I'm in town," Mitchell spoke up. "It's a great place you've got here, Evelyn."

"Celia and I live out here. Don't we, dear?"

"Almost. Here and in the garden."

"A man's a fool to tie himself down in a city all his life!" John Mitchell said this as though he were arguing with himself. He balanced his glass absent-mindedly and the fragile crystal was in imminent peril. He remembered just in time.

"I don't think you ought to stay in town during this hot weather," Celia said firmly.

"Oh—utterly impossible to get away—now. Besides, see how I impose on Mrs. Parsons' hospitality!"

"You know you could never do that, John." Evelyn spoke in a low tone. She gave Mitchell a quick glance, then her eyes turned away.

For nearly an hour the three sat enjoying the breeze and the fantastic pattern of light and shadows woven on the moonlit lawn. Then Mitchell said it was time for him to go. He was spending the night at the country club and promised to rejoin them next day after his morning round of golf.

He departed. Celia paused long enough in the upstairs hallway before going to her room to say to Mrs. Parsons:

"You looked perfectly beautiful tonight, Evelyn! I thought at first you'd done your hair a different way, but it isn't that. I guess it's just because you really are beautiful!"

"Silly child. Tell me about the picnic."

"It was fun. Listen, Evelyn, do you think you'll be able to talk to father tomorrow about Tod? I mean about getting him to change his opinion of him? It sort of bothers me. I can't help but worry—"

Sheer inspiration prompted Evelyn Parsons. An eager light came into her eyes.

"I'll do what I can, Celia," she said. "And I'm sure I can't fail. Let's see—the thing is to manage this the right way."

She studied silently a moment. "I know!" she continued, "we'll pretend you have an errand tomorrow afternoon after luncheon. You can take the car and stay away a long time—two hours at least! That will give me the chance to have the sort of talk with your father where I can lead up to the subject. Don't you see? First I'll talk about how popular you are at the club and how everyone likes you. That will be sure to start him on his plans for your future. From that it will be no trick at all for me to mention Tod and what a splendid young man he is."

"Oh, Evelyn!"

The girl was delighted.

"That's how we'll manage it. Now remember, your part is to go for a long drive that will give me plenty of time—"

"I'll time myself," Celia assured her. "I'll give you hours! Good night, Evelyn."

"Good night, dear!"

As Evelyn Parsons closed the door of her room she was convinced that fate was her ally.

Celia was trying to learn tennis. The game fascinated her, and Lisi Duncan, who played expertly, had volunteered some instruction.

Celia was too shy to expose her feeble efforts on the courts at the club, but she could bounce balls against the backstops on the court at Larchwood to her heart's content.

She was in the midst of an exciting private practice Sunday morning when she heard her father's voice.

"Higher!" he called. "Throw the ball higher in the air before you strike it."

The girl turned in the direction from where his voice came. Mitchell stood in the pathway through the hedge. His hands were on his hips. He might have been watching her for some time.

Her face, red from exertion, colored more darkly.

"I didn't see you," she said. "Good morning. I'm afraid I'll never learn how to serve!"

"You don't throw the ball high enough," Mitchell repeated. He walked out to where she stood, took the racket and ball in his own hands. "Here—like this!"

"Perfect!" cried Celia.

"I haven't had a tennis racket in my hands for years," her father said, looking down at the object. "Getting too old for the game."

"Not when you can serve a ball like that! Oh, I wish I could make them spin that way! Mine won't even go over the net."

"Have you got another racket?"

"There are some in the house. Wait—I'll be back in two minutes!" Celia turned and sped down the pathway. In a short time she was back, breathless and eyes shining. She carried three tennis rackets.

"Help yourself," Celia urged.

Mitchell tried them, selected one and walked to the opposite side of the net. He had already put aside his coat and hat. For some time he returned balls and called out suggestions as Celia practiced. Later they were opponents in a game. It ended in the man's favor. They played a second, which Celia won, and then her father demanded time out for rest.

The girl's embarrassment was gone. She asked questions, tried to correct faults Mitchell criticized.

Celia brushed her hair back impatiently. In her short white dress and heelless slippers she looked a child. Sunshine had turned her face and arms a ruddy tan.

A low exclamation came from John Mitchell.

"Completely forgot!" he said emphatically. "Sorry, Celia, I brought a letter down for you yesterday and forgot to give it to you. Now where did I put that—"

He began to search his pockets.

Bronze Tablet To Mark Old Highway In Lincoln Parish

Ruston Pierian Club To Place Plate On 'Old Wire Road' At Vienna

By Kenneth F. Hewins
(Morning World Correspondent)

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—To commemorate the "Old Wire road," the first stage-coach thoroughfare transversing north Louisiana and leading into the southwest, the trail for which was blazed early in the nineteenth century, plans are being made to erect a bronze tablet where the old road crosses the Pershing highway (U. S. 167) at Vienna in Lincoln parish.

The marking of the pioneer trail will be a project to be completed during the year by the Ruston Pierian club, local women's organization with civic and literary interests.

Authority for placing the marker at Vienna, former seat of Lincoln parish, already has been obtained through W. H. Huckaby of Monroe, maintenance superintendent of the Louisiana Highway commission for this area, according to Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, member of the Pierian club, who has taken an active part in the plans for commemorating the old route.

The tablet will contain probably 100 words of historical reference to the old road and will be mounted on native rock if possible, Mrs. Pearce stated. The marker will be erected at the northwest corner of the intersection at Vienna along the highway right-of-way. It will be located, incidentally, near the place where the first land was taken up in what is now Lincoln parish by Daniel and Susan Colvin sometime near the year 1800, it is said.

Details of the inscription will be arranged by a committee of the Pierian club, including Mrs. R. H. Brooks and Mrs. W. K. Duncan. This club bears some historical significance of its own, since it was founded in 1899, is the oldest club in the fifth district and is a charter member of the Federation of Women's clubs organized at Shreveport in 1900. The club members recently held a quinquennial homecoming celebration at Ruston, honoring former members now living in various parts of the country.

The "Old Wire road," so-called because the first telegraph wires were strung beside it, played a big part in shaping the destinies of north Louisiana, it is recalled by old residents here. The road crossed the state from Vicksburg to Shreveport, led to San Antonio and connected with routes to other points in the Southwest.

Monroe people, in the early days, referred to the thoroughfare as the "Claiborne road," it is reported here. The road crossed the Ouachita river at old Trenton, a short distance north of the present city of Monroe, a ferry having been operated at Trenton in those days. Then, the farmers of this section took their produce to market at Trenton. Later, in 1883, when Ruston was founded, many of the first residents of this city came from Trenton. They included the Lewis, Kidd, Standifer, Marbury, Jackson, Duncan and Burgess families, many of whom are still represented here.

From Trenton, the old road wound around through Forksville to Calhoun and thence to Sibley in Lincoln parish, Douglas and to Vienna. The trip from Monroe to Vienna represented a day's journey for the stage coach, it is said, and a hotel was maintained at Vienna to accommodate the stop-over passengers.

From Vienna, the route passed through old Arcadia, Athens, Homer, Minden and to Shreveport. Between Monroe and Shreveport, the old road touched at only a few points along what is now U. S. highway 80, crossing the state from Vicksburg to Shreveport.

Information is lacking as to the exact date the old highway was opened in this part of north Louisiana, probably by the Colvin family coming from the Carolinas, but present residents here agree that the time was about 1800. The road was still the principal route for this section at the time of the founding of Ruston in 1883. Several miles of the old road are still in use.

Vienna was chosen as the spot for the road marker since that is the place where the old route crosses a national highway, it was explained.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 28.—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 men and women will be graduated from the Louisiana State university at the annual commencement exercises to be held Monday night.

Seniors in the law school held their class day exercises this afternoon in the courtroom of Leche hall and heard Horace Holder of Shreveport deliver the valedictory address and Justice Archie T. Higgins of the Louisiana supreme court deliver an address to the class.

F. Hodge O'Neal of Rayville, arts and sciences valedictorian, will be presented at the graduation ceremonies Monday night.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans will deliver the baccalaureate sermon tomorrow evening and the final charge to the graduates will be given Monday night by Colonel O. R. McGuire, chief legal adviser to the comptroller-general of the United States. Colonel McGuire was graduated from L. S. U. in 1917.

The board of supervisors of the university will hold its annual meeting Monday morning.

MISSING 4-YEAR-OLD CHILD FOUND ALIVE

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., May 28.—(AP)—The mysterious disappearance last week of golden-haired Betty Hobbs, 4, appeared to have been explained tonight by a police announcement that the child was believed to be alive in Ohio, and that a woman was under arrest charged with kidnaping.

Chief of Police Frederick A. Hoefert said the arrested woman was Mrs. Anna LaGare, 41, a former tea room operator here.

She told police today, Hoefert said, that she had taken Betty to Ohio on a visit, and had left her in Coolville, O. In Coolville, later today, Mayor Luther C. Bradford said he had located such a child living with a sister of Mrs. LaGare.

Hoefert said Mrs. LaGare, questioned today when she returned to North Tonawanda from a trip, claimed she had the permission of Betty's mother to take the little girl "for a visit."

Mrs. Hobbs, Hoefert said, denied having given the permission and swore out the kidnap warrant for Mrs. LaGare, with whom she said she had only a slight acquaintance.

Officials explained that the statement was issued in line with a policy inaugurated just before the Italo-Ethiopian war began.

At that time, the United States affirmed its conviction that the nations which signed the anti-war pact ought to consider themselves still bound by it. Its appeal failed to avert hostilities, however.

DEATHS

KEY M'GLOHON

Key McGlohon, 74, died yesterday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock at his home in Swartz, where he had been living for the past 12 years. Mr. McGlohon moved to Swartz from Chattanooga, Tenn.

He is survived by two children, Tandy C. McGlohon and Mrs. E. R. Johnson, both of Swartz.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Peters funeral chapel here, with Rev. J. T. Burgess, Baptist minister of Swartz, officiating. The body will be sent to Ashland, Ky., over an Illinois Central train at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

A short service will be held at the grave in Ashland with an Episcopal minister of Ashland officiating.

Bride and bridegroom must be smoked in sandalwood, massaged in cocoanut oil, and then visit the king together before they can set up housekeeping in the Marquesas, an island in the South Seas.

Oak Grove

Circle No. 1 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. Owen Suthers with 15 members and one guest present. Mrs. Charles Blake and Mrs. R. V. Reeves taught the study lesson, with the devotional being given by Mrs. B. H. Bolding. The dismissal prayer was given by Mrs. Jesse James. During the social period, the hostess served refreshments.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the church to continue study of the mission book. Due to the illness of Mrs. Frank McCormick, the meeting was held in the basement of the church. The morning session consisted of the 6th and 7th chapters of the book, with Mrs. Mary Thompson giving the scripture reading. A luncheon was served from a table decorated with a Mexican theme. After luncheon Mrs. J. R. McIntosh completed the teaching of the book and the dismissal prayer was given by Mrs. J. T. Williams. Those in attendance were Mesdames C. Gunter, J. R. McIntosh, J. T. Williams, Clyde Turner, L. L. Lipp, J. S. Pollard, Mary B. Thompson, C. H. Neely and D. M. Copeland.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. J. R. McIntosh for a study period on the 5th chapter of "What Is This Moslem World," with Mrs. McIntosh giving the lesson and also the scripture. Due to the weather, a very few were in attendance. At conclusion of the lesson, the hostess served refreshments.

An interesting affair for the high school set was a dance given by Mrs. R. M. Grasby for the juniors and seniors at the legion hut. Members of the school faculty and a group of the students' mothers were guests during the evening. Several young people were present from Lake Providence and Arkansas City, Ark.

Mrs. T. N. Pulley, Sr., has returned home from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Hornberger of Monroe. Her little granddaughter, Ann Hornberger, accompanied her home for a visit.

Miss Faye Long has returned home from a visit to points of interest in the north and middle west.

Mrs. Joseph Fox of Little Rock, Ark., is a guest in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Lewis, for several days.

Circle two of the Methodist Woman's Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Ross. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. T. Williams. The Bible lesson was the book of "Isaiah" and taught by Mrs. J. R. McIntosh; scripture reading 6th chapter of "Isaiah" was given by Mrs. Williams.

At the conclusion of the lesson the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. L. Lipp, served refreshments, to Mesdames C. H. Neely, T. J. Williams, Mary B. Thompson, C. Gunter, J. S. Pollard, R. M. Grasby, L. L. James, J. R. McIntosh, Frank McCormick, L. L. Lipp and D. M. Copeland.

The circle will meet at the J. R. McIntosh residence for their next meeting with Mrs. D. M. Copeland as hostess.

The Woman's Department club held its last meeting of the club year at the Legion hut with Mesdames A. C. Monroe and D. B. Fiske as hostesses. The meeting was presided over by the president Mrs. W. Byargeon.

The hostesses served refreshments to Mesdames A. S. Mayo, E. O. Burnham, W. L. Gill, Wm. McG. Dollerhide, D. W. Kelly, J. J. Joyce, D. B. Fiske, W. A. Moss, Shelley Nordgren, W. Byargeon, A. C. Monroe, F. H. Anders, Charles Koerner, A. D. Bagwell and D. M. Copeland.

The club will continue to hold one meeting during June, July, and August under the supervision of a new chairman for each meeting.

RIFT IN LABOR MAY BE CLOSED

type of work in maintenance of the center's buildings. Instead of being signed separately with each of the union groups into which the 1,098 workers are divided, it is signed once by the Building and Construction Trades council, a central body of the A. F. of L. comprised of delegates from the various individual unions.

In this respect, it is like a C. I. O. contract. From the worker's standpoint, it has one big advantage: all the crafts renew their contracts at the same time, putting force of solidarity and greater numbers behind any bargaining.

The contract varies from the vertical pattern, however, in that each of the unions under the blanket agreement retains its identity as a craft organization. A plumber can do only plumbing, a plasterer only plastering, a painter only painting, and so on.

This is the A. F. of L. plan. In the C. I. O., a skillful worker can be shifted from one type of work to any other type for which he is qualified.

The chief value of the Rockefeller contract is in a provision that for three years work may not be interrupted either by a union strike or an employer's lockout. Jurisdictional disputes between the individual craft unions involved must be settled by the Building and Construction Trades council.

Thus is eliminated one of the most costly hazards in the building industry. Thousands of men have been thrown out of work and thousands of dollars lost in the history of labor unions in the United States because one craft union insisted on doing work performed by another craft.

to favor "the abandonment of an important principle of American taxation."

This was an obvious reference to the undistributed profits tax, which the president consistently has advocated and many business spokesmen criticized. The new law continued this levy for two years in drastically modified form.

Although Saturday sessions of the senate usually are thinly-attended, most senators were in their seats when the Mississippian started his address at noon today.

Starting in his usual quiet drawl, Harrison said Mr. Roosevelt had been "misinformed" in arguing that the new flat-rate capital gains taxes did not bear on the big and little taxpayer in proportion to their ability to pay.

His voice rising as he progressed, the Mississippian said the treasury gave him "no sympathetic cooperation" when he sought recently to ease the tax load on debt-burdened corporations.

Harrison expressed regret that Mr. Roosevelt had let the new tax bill become law without signing it.

A dense fog was reported over the narrows, the lanes through which ships pass from the bay out into the Atlantic ocean.

Eastern Steamship company officials reported about 100 passengers were aboard the 6,185-ton Acadia on its voyage and that the ship was not damaged seriously.

The coast guard said the collision occurred off Craven Shoals buoy and the Acadia anchored there after taking the passengers from the Mandalay. The cutter Icarus took up a position by the Acadia, probably to take off passengers of the sunken ship.

HOUSE READY FOR SALES TAX VOTE

the legislature, 276 of them being in the senate and 749 being in the house.

It is doubtful if the house will get to the general sales tax bill tomorrow night due to the large amount of routine that will occupy a large portion of the night session.

Among the new bills to be introduced tomorrow night will probably be several designed to provide substitute methods of raising funds for relief, many members of the legislature having expressed their hope that it will not be necessary to pass the sales tax.

Senator James A. Noe of Monroe, an administration critic, has announced that he will introduce a bill to place a tax on race-track betting. A liquor control bill, designed to provide greatly increased revenues is reported to be among the measures to be introduced by administration supporters.

There are almost as many views about the sales tax as there are members of the legislature and many points are yet to be threshed out on the floors of the house and senate and in the senate finance committee, where the measure goes after being passed by the house.

Whether the collection of the tax from the consumer is to be made mandatory or permissive is perhaps the most controversial point in the bill as amended. The house ways and means committee voted seven to six to make passing the tax on mandatory and the house Thursday adopted the amendment without discussion.

There is another group which objects to the provision enabling the municipalities and parishes to levy an additional one per cent general sales tax.

There is another group which will seek to have the bill amended to include fish and shrimp with the exempted articles.

There is a group which believes that with the enactment of the sales tax no additional relief money will be available because the new money will be required to keep up the recently constructed charity hospitals.

One suggestion has been made that the state levy the whole two per cent tax, pass back to the parishes enough to make up for one-cent gasoline tax and take the one-cent gasoline tax now going to the parishes for the highway fund.

"The people of this country have in common with all nations a desire for stable and permanent conditions of peace, justice and progress, and a most earnest desire that peace be maintained no matter where or in what circumstances there may be controversies between nations."

Officials explained that the statement was issued in line with a policy inaugurated just before the Italo-Ethiopian war began.

At that time, the United States affirmed its conviction that the nations which signed the anti-war pact ought to consider themselves still bound by it. Its appeal failed to avert hostilities, however.

Both Germany and Czechoslovakia are signatories of the pact, as are France, Great Britain, Russia and Italy.

2. The federal government could collect an admission tax on tickets to athletic events at state universities.

3. A state could impose a gross income tax on money received by contractors for building locks and dams for the federal government.

In another important decision the court unanimously declared unconstitutional a Griffin, Ga., ordinance requiring a license to distribute circulars "or literature of any kind" on the streets. Chief Justice Hughes declared the ordinance "strikes at the very foundation of the freedom of the press by subjecting it to license and censorship."

DEATHS

KEY M'GLOHON

Key McGlohon, 74, died yesterday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock at his home in Swartz, where he had been living for the past 12 years. Mr. McGlohon moved to Swartz from Chattanooga, Tenn.

He is survived by two children, Tandy C. McGlohon and Mrs. E. R. Johnson, both of Swartz.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Peters funeral chapel here, with Rev. J. T. Burgess, Baptist minister of Swartz, officiating. The body will be sent to Ashland, Ky., over an Illinois Central train at 7:45 o'clock tonight.

A short service will be held at the grave in Ashland with an Episcopal minister of Ashland officiating.

Bride and bridegroom must be smoked in sandalwood, massaged in cocoanut oil, and then visit the king together before they can set up housekeeping in the Marquesas, an island in the South Seas.

Oak Grove

Circle No. 1 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. Owen Suthers with 15 members and one guest present. Mrs. Charles Blake and Mrs. R. V. Reeves taught the study lesson, with the devotional being given by Mrs. B. H. Bolding. The dismissal prayer was given by Mrs. Jesse James. During the social period, the hostess served refreshments.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the church to continue study of the mission book. Due to the illness of Mrs. Frank McCormick, the meeting was held in the basement of the church. The morning session consisted of the 6th and 7th chapters of the book, with Mrs. Mary Thompson giving the scripture reading. A luncheon was served from a table decorated with a Mexican theme. After luncheon Mrs. J. R. McIntosh completed the teaching of the book and the dismissal prayer was given by Mrs. J. T. Williams. Those in attendance were Mesdames C. Gunter, J. R. McIntosh, J. T. Williams, Clyde Turner, L. L. Lipp, J. S. Pollard, Mary B. Thompson, C. H. Neely and D. M. Copeland.

Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. J. R. McIntosh for a study period on the 5th chapter of "What Is This Moslem World," with Mrs. McIntosh giving the lesson and also the scripture. Due to the weather, a very few were in attendance. At conclusion of the lesson, the hostess served refreshments.

An interesting affair for the high school set was a dance given by Mrs. R. M. Grasby for the juniors and seniors at the legion hut. Members of the school faculty and a group of the students' mothers were guests during the evening. Several young people were present from Lake Providence and Arkansas City, Ark.

Mrs. T. N. Pulley, Sr., has returned home from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. W. F. Hornberger of Monroe. Her little granddaughter, Ann Hornberger, accompanied her home for a visit.

Miss Faye Long has returned home from a visit to points of interest in the north and middle west.

Mrs. Joseph Fox of Little Rock, Ark., is a guest in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Lewis, for several days.

Circle two of the Methodist Woman's Missionary society met at the residence of Mrs. W. A. Ross. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. T. Williams. The Bible lesson was the book of "Isaiah" and taught by Mrs. J. R. McIntosh; scripture reading 6th chapter of "Isaiah" was given by Mrs. Williams.

At the conclusion of the lesson the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. L. Lipp, served refreshments, to Mesdames C. H. Neely, T. J. Williams, Mary B. Thompson, C. Gunter, J. S. Pollard, R. M. Grasby, L. L. James, J. R. McIntosh, Frank McCormick, L. L. Lipp and D. M. Copeland.

The circle will meet at the J. R. McIntosh residence for their next meeting with Mrs. D. M. Copeland as hostess.

The Woman's Department club held its last meeting of the club year at the Legion hut with Mesdames A. C. Monroe and D. B. Fiske as hostesses. The meeting was presided over by the president Mrs. W. Byargeon.

The hostesses served refreshments to Mesdames A. S. Mayo, E. O. Burnham, W. L. Gill, Wm. McG. Dollerhide, D. W. Kelly, J. J. Joyce, D. B. Fiske, W. A. Moss, Shelley Nordgren, W. Byargeon, A. C. Monroe, F. H. Anders, Charles Koerner, A. D. Bagwell and D. M. Copeland.

The club will continue to hold one meeting during June, July, and August under the supervision of a new chairman for each meeting.

RIFT IN LABOR MAY BE CLOSED

type of work in maintenance of the center's buildings. Instead of being signed separately with each of the union groups into which the 1,098 workers are divided, it is signed once by the Building and Construction Trades council, a central body of the A. F. of L. comprised of delegates from the various individual unions.

In this respect, it is like a C. I. O. contract. From the worker's standpoint, it has one big advantage: all the crafts renew their contracts at the same time, putting force of solidarity and greater numbers behind any bargaining.

The contract varies from the vertical pattern, however, in that each of the unions under the blanket agreement retains its identity as a craft organization. A plumber can do only plumbing, a plasterer only plastering, a painter only painting, and so on.

This is the A. F. of L. plan. In the C. I. O., a skillful worker can be shifted from one type of work to any other type for which he is qualified.

The chief value of the Rockefeller contract is in a provision that for three years work may not be interrupted either by a union strike or an employer's lockout. Jurisdictional disputes between the individual craft unions involved must be settled by the Building and Construction Trades council.

Thus is eliminated one of the most costly hazards in the building industry. Thousands of men have been thrown out of work and thousands of dollars lost in the history of labor unions in the United States because one craft union insisted on doing work performed by another craft.

to favor "the abandonment of an important principle of American taxation."

This was an obvious reference to the undistributed profits tax, which the president consistently has advocated and many business spokesmen criticized. The new law continued this levy for two years in drastically modified form.

Although Saturday sessions of the senate usually are thinly-attended, most senators were in their seats when the Mississippian started his address at noon today.

Starting in his usual quiet drawl, Harrison said Mr. Roosevelt had been "misinformed" in arguing that the new flat-rate capital gains taxes did not bear on the big and little taxpayer in proportion to their ability to pay.

His voice rising as he progressed, the Mississippian said the treasury gave him "no sympathetic cooperation" when he sought recently to ease the tax load on debt-burdened corporations.

Harrison expressed regret that Mr. Roosevelt had let the new tax bill become law without signing it.

A dense fog was reported over the narrows, the lanes through which ships pass from the bay out into the Atlantic ocean.

Eastern Steamship company officials reported about 100 passengers were aboard the 6,185-ton Acadia on its voyage and that the ship was not damaged seriously.

The coast guard said the collision occurred off Craven Shoals buoy and the Acadia anchored there after taking the passengers from the Mandalay. The cutter Icarus took up a position by the Acadia, probably to take off passengers of the sunken ship.

HEIR-APPARENT TO TITLE OF QUEEN OF THE SEAS

150 Traveling Men Hear Dynamic Orator At Banquet In Their Honor

Charles Evans, famed dynamic orator of Little Rock, addressing a gathering of 150 traveling salesmen at a banquet given in their honor on the Virginia hotel roof Friday night, gave three primary essentials to successful salesmanship: Faith in himself, pride of accomplishment and courage to attack and overcome difficulties.

"Every man is a salesman of something," said Mr. Evans in a speech scintillating with pithy and apt illustrations, "whether he is selling himself to his employer or his customers, or marketing a commodity. The preacher must sell himself and his message to his congregation, the doctor to his patients, and the lawyer to a jury. No man can succeed in any calling unless he has complete faith in himself and his own capabilities. He must believe in the merit of the product or the message he presents if he is to take pride in the results, and he must have the courage of his convictions to keep tenaciously at his job in the face of difficulties."

The host of the occasion was the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, which had planned the occasion as a tribute to the group of traveling salesmen representing various wholesale concerns serving this territory. Statistics were quoted at the banquet to show that 675 traveling salesmen make their home in Monroe and West Monroe.

Among the veteran traveling men still in service who were especially singled out for honor were W. G. Murphy, Jack Hayes, Frank Kennedy, Sam Ivey, Ed Roberts and Henry Ray. Ex-traveling men, likewise honored, included Dan Breard, Willis Anders, George Weaks, Sr., R. H. Oliver, Marshall Munholland, Fred Hanna, Joe Hanna, Bob Hanna, Tim Tippett, Abe Arent, Walter Culpepper and Henry Colbert, Sr.

Claude Harrison served as master of ceremonies. Willis Anders, president of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered an address of welcome to the guests, relating a number of interesting personal experiences of the early days of selling goods in north Louisiana and southern Arkansas. George H. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the group on the purposes of the chamber and its effort to "sell" Monroe and West Monroe to the country at large.

ORLEANS MAN HURT ON PANAY RETURNS

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—(AP)—Emile Gassie, wounded in both legs when the United States gunboat Panay was bombed December 12 on the Yangtze river, returned to his home here late today.

He arrived by train shortly after his sister, Mrs. J. C. Patorno, had asked the state department to aid in locating him. Gassie, a clerk in the American embassy in China, reached San Francisco last Monday on a leave of absence to recuperate in this country.

Then he dropped from sight and was not heard from until he stepped from the train here.

He corroborated statements that American flags were plainly in evidence when the Panay was bombed and commented "it was expensive target practice for the Japanese but they got out of a war very cheaply by paying the United States $2,200,000 damages."

Gassie said he would return to China within 60 days but his wife and daughter Helen, 10, who came to the United States November 5 to await settlement of the Sino-Japanese conflict, will remain here pending the end of hostilities.

SECOND 'RUNAWAY WITNESS' SOUGHT

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Federal agents today sent an urgent request to French officials at Cherbourg to intercept a second "runaway witness" in the government's investigation of a suspected major spy ring in this country.

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy disclosed that the witness, Werner G. Gudenberg, whom he described as a key figure in the espionage probe, slipped through the government's net and sailed ostensibly as a "stowaway" on the North German Lloyd liner Hamburg last Wednesday at midnight.

The prosecutor's disclosure came shortly after four members of the crew of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen—including Wilhelm Boehnke, scar-faced political "fuehrer" of the ship's crew—were freed on a total of $40,000 bail as material witnesses in the espionage drama.

QUINTUPLETS NOW FOUR YEARS OLD

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28.—(Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their fourth birthday today at a private family party by tasting ice cream for the first time.

Later they re-enacted the scene for visitors.

Yvonne stood solemnly at the head of a little table in their sand pile of their playground enclosure while 200 tourists watched.

With Marie, Annette, Cecile and Emilie grouped around as they had been at the party, Yvonne ceremoniously said grace, led the way to the chairs and poured "tea" from a long-spouted watering can.

The quints' parents, Oliva and Elzire Dionne, and four of their seven brothers and sisters attended the family party. Three other Dionne children were away at boarding school.

FLIER KILLED

OAKLAND, Calif., May 28.—(AP)—The first of the summer season's air shows brought sudden death to an acrobatic flier today when Raiph Johnson, Los Angeles, dived into the ground before a crowd of 20,000 spectators at the Pacific International air races. The accident occurred as Johnson was trying to pull his plane out of a "barrel roll." His machine burned. Mrs. Johnson, who saw the crash, collapsed.

Doctor Tells How He Felt When Black Widow Bit Him

Attack Of Poisonous Spider Like A Wallop On Head With Club; Victim Lost His Memory For Two Weeks, He Says In Natural History Magazine

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—A doctor who became his own patient after being bitten by a black widow spider reported today that the bite was like a wallop over the head with a club.

Pains engulfed him "like tidal waves,' wild dreams interrupted his sleep, thirst tortured him and he perspired so much his pajamas and bedclothes dripped.

Other after-effects were similar to an exaggerated hang-over, the physician, Dr. Charles Barton, assistant city health officer of Los Angeles, Calif., said in an article written for the June issue of Natural History Magazine.

"Ordinary street noises, usually unheard, echoed loudly," he related. "And the ring of the telephone sounded like a fire gong. Food, even the thought of it, was abhorrent."

Before being bitten, Dr. Barton confessed, he thought "newspaper accounts" of the virulent effects of the black widow's bite were exaggerated. Now, he said, "I am no longer a skeptic."

His encounter with the insect occurred during the summer. He was pulling vines from a pile of lumber when he felt a prick on his left thumb knuckle. He thought it was a pine splinter.

That was at 11 a.m.

By noon, the physician related, the hand "had become greatly swollen. The back where the skin adhered to the knuckles appeared smooth and glossy, as if affected by erysipelas." At 1 o'clock, the pain extended to the elbow. At 3, "the whole body, as in a severe case of influenza, groaned with the so-called muscle and bone aches." His temperature was 101 degrees. He was helpless, so he called another physician.

This doctor prescribed morphine and a hospital, but Dr. Barton took neither; he "did not want to miss my own show."

As time passed, the physician-patient jotted down his symptoms on a bedside pad. Just as the factory whistles were screeching 4 o'clock—

"A sudden, excruciating pain, similar to being hit by a club, struck at the base of the skull, followed by dizziness, a stiffening of the neck, nausea and vomiting. Cramps, agonizing and gnawing, attacked the stomach, and the sole relief was pressure from the hands."

At last he fell asleep, but—

"Abruptly, about midnight, I awakened, startled and confused. My pajamas, the sheets and the pillows dripped with perspiration, and intense thirst clawed at the throat. I hastily changed, drank two glasses of water, and crawled into another bed."

In the morning "the terrific pains, those resembling huge tidal waves, seemingly had vanished" and the hangover effects began.

At noon he went to a Kiwanis club meeting. All he remembers of it was his failure to eat. As he put it:

"Who participated, what was said, and how I acted will forever remain a mystery. • • •

"Amnesia, that strange phenomenon of forgetfulness, had crept upon me, and did not disappear for two long weeks.

"I groped about like a blind man, recognizing neither names, events nor faces."

On the second night after the encounter with the black widow "eerie dreams, together with excessive sweat and subnormal temperatures," broke his sleep. When he arose in the morning "a flare of lights which had burned all night blazed into my eyes as I entered the living room.

"A cantaloupe, uncut, stood on the radio cabinet. Where the melon came from, who put it there, and for what purpose, perplexed me. Though my memory gave no answer, my reason declared that I, a victim of the black widow spider, had alone occupied the quarters."

As soon as he was able Dr. Barton hunted out the widow and slew her.

26 NEGROES HELD IN FATAL BEATING

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Twenty-six negroes arrested by officers investigating the ruthless slaying of Mrs. Florence Johnson were ordered tonight to undergo lie detector tests to determine whether they had any knowledge of the crime.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of two children, was beaten to death with a brick Thursday night in a sleeping room of her South Side home.

Robert Nixon, alias Thomas Crosby, 18, one of the prisoners, underwent two tests at Northwestern university's crime detection laboratory today and police said the lie detector indicated he was telling the truth when he denied any connection with the killing.

Los Angeles authorities, meanwhile, obtained a first degree murder warrant against Nixon and announced they would attempt to extradite him to face prosecution for the brick slayings of Mrs. Edna Worden and her daughter, Marguerite, 12, there April 4, 1937.

Mrs. Johnson was the fifth woman killed by prowlers in the last three years.

WIDESPREAD SEARCH FOR CEDILLO OPENS

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—(AP)—The federal government today threw infantry, cavalry and aviation units into a widespread search for fugitive General Saturnino Cedillo.

Cedillo, 45-year-old Mexican Indian who rebelled eight days ago against President Lazaro Cardenas, was believed wandering in brush-covered hills in his native San Luis Potosi state.

HOG STEALERS GIVEN PENITENTIARY TERMS

HARRISONBURG, La., May 28.—(Special)—Joe Godfrey and George Morris, both white men who reside near the Wallace Ridge community in this parish, were tried and convicted of hog stealing in the seventh judicial district court here, and sentenced by Judge R. R. Reeves to serve from eight months to two years in the state penitentiary.

Homer Floyd, who was tried and convicted on the same charges, was given the same sentence.

Corry Frith and Jesse Davis, charged jointly with Floyd, Godfrey and Morris, have made bond and their trials set for Monday, July 8.

Mangham

Thursday was a gala day for the WPA play center children, their mothers and the young people who accompanied them for a picnic to Bernstein park, Monroe. Play on the swings, visits to the animals, and to the wading pool at the Municipal natatorium filled the hours with fun. A delectable picnic lunch, with fried chicken the piece de resistance, and muscadine punch was served to Mrs. B. D. Griffin, Mrs. C. E. Pardue, Mrs. Mary Reeves, Mrs. Frank Cagle, Mrs. B. Jones, Doris Miller, Annie Ruth Adams, Frances Boughton, G. L. Talbert, A. R. Griffin, J. W. BACCALAUREATE OF NEGRO HIGH SUNDAY

The baccalaureate exercises of the Monroe Colored High school will be held in the school auditorium, today at 3 p. m. There will be special music rendered by the choir from the St. James church and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, Rev. G. C. Hayward.

The commencement will be held in the school auditorium on the night of June 3, with Dr. J. B. Watson, president of Arkansas State college for colored, delivering the address.

The class this year is the largest in the history of the school, stated M. J. Foster, principal.

BAPTIST BROTHERHOOD HOLDS ITS MEETING

The Brotherhood of Calvary Baptist church held its regular meeting in the church Thursday night with 16 present. Because of the absence of Steward H. S. Clawson, the Bible quiz was conducted by the vice-president, James Venable.

Participating on the program were Tommy Jones, K. A. Calhoun, Carlton Wade and J. H. Gregory.

The members will participate in a Golden Jubilee program which will be held in their honor by the Woman's Missionary society at the church Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend and bring their friends.

No man can succeed in any calling unless he has complete faith in himself and his own capabilities. He must believe in the merit of the product or the message he presents if he is to take pride in the results, and he must have the courage of his convictions to keep tenaciously at his job in the face of difficulties."

The host of the occasion was the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, which had planned the occasion as a tribute to the group of traveling salesmen representing various wholesale concerns serving this territory. Statistics were quoted at the banquet to show that 675 traveling salesmen make their home in Monroe and West Monroe.

Among the veteran traveling men still in service who were especially singled out for honor were W. G. Murphy, Jack Hayes, Frank Kennedy, Sam Ivey, Ed Roberts and Henry Ray. Ex-traveling men, likewise honored, included Dan Breard, Willis Anders, George Weaks, Sr., R. H. Oliver, Marshall Munholland, Fred Hanna, Joe Hanna, Bob Hanna, Tim Tippett, Abe Arent, Walter Culpepper and Henry Colbert, Sr.

Claude Harrison served as master of ceremonies. Willis Anders, president of the Chamber of Commerce, delivered an address of welcome to the guests, relating a number of interesting personal experiences of the early days of selling goods in north Louisiana and southern Arkansas. George H. Holland, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the group on the purposes of the chamber and its effort to "sell" Monroe and West Monroe to the country at large.

MANAGER

Miss Frances Zagone, local young woman, has just been assigned to the management of the Dixie Shops, 325 DeSiard street. She was formerly associated with Ruth Shops, Inc., in Monroe and from here went to Dallas, Tex., to become associated with the Dixie Shops store there. Later she was assigned to a similar store in Joplin, Mo., and now returns to her home city as manager of the local store.

MARRIAGES

BOND-LANDRUM

MANGHAM, La., May 28.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Landrum announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Wilma Landrum, to Tom Bond of Dallas.

ORLEANS MAN HURT ON PANAY RETURNS

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—(AP)—Emile Gassie, wounded in both legs when the United States gunboat Panay was bombed December 12 on the Yangtze river, returned to his home here late today.

He arrived by train shortly after his sister, Mrs. J. C. Patorno, had asked the state department to aid in locating him. Gassie, a clerk in the American embasy in China, reached San Francisco last Monday on a leave of absence to recuperate in this country.

Then he dropped from sight and was not heard from until he stepped from the train here.

He corroborated statements that American flags were plainly in evidence when the Panay was bombed and commented "it was expensive target practice for the Japanese but they got out of a war very cheaply by paying the United States $2,200,000 damages."

Gassie said he would return to China within 60 days but his wife and daughter Helen, 10, who came to the United States November 5 to await settlement of the Sino-Japanese conflict, will remain here pending the end of hostilities.

SECOND 'RUNAWAY WITNESS' SOUGHT

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Federal agents today sent an urgent request to French officials at Cherbourg to intercept a second "runaway witness" in the government's investigation of a suspected major spy ring in this country.

United States Attorney Lamar Hardy disclosed that the witness, Werner G. Gudenberg, whom he described as a key figure in the espionage probe, slipped through the government's net and sailed ostensibly as a "stowaway" on the North German Lloyd liner Hamburg last Wednesday at midnight.

The prosecutor's disclosure came shortly after four members of the crew of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen—including Wilhelm Boehnke, scar-faced political "fuehrer" of the ship's crew—were freed on a total of $40,000 bail as material witnesses in the espionage drama.

QUINTUPLETS NOW FOUR YEARS OLD

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28.—(Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their fourth birthday today at a private family party by tasting ice cream for the first time.

Later they re-enacted the scene for visitors.

Yvonne stood solemnly at the head of a little table in their sand pile of their playground enclosure while 200 tourists watched.

With Marie, Annette, Cecile and Emilie grouped around as they had been at the party, Yvonne ceremoniously said grace, led the way to the chairs and poured "tea" from a long-spouted watering can.

The quints' parents, Oliva and Elzire Dionne, and four of their seven brothers and sisters attended the family party. Three other Dionne children were away at boarding school.

FLIER KILLED

OAKLAND, Calif., May 28.—(AP)—The first of the summer season's air shows brought sudden death to an acrobatic flier today when Ralph Johnson, Los Angeles, dived into the ground before a crowd of 20,000 spectators at the Pacific International air races. The accident occurred as Johnson was trying to pull his plane out of a "barrel roll." His machine burned. Mrs. Johnson, who saw the crash, collapsed.

When a child is born in Switzerland, a wheel of cheese is marked with his name. On ceremonial occasions throughout his life, portions of this cheese are served.

26 NEGROES HELD IN FATAL BEATING

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Twenty-six negroes arrested by officers investigating the ruthless slaying of Mrs. Florence Johnson were ordered tonight to undergo lie detector tests to determine whether they had any knowledge of the crime.

Mrs. Johnson, mother of two children, was beaten to death with a brick Thursday night in a sleeping room of her South Side home.

Robert Nixon, alias Thomas Crosby, 18, one of the prisoners, underwent two tests at Northwestern university's crime detection laboratory today and police said the lie detector indicated he was telling the truth when he denied any connection with the killing.

Los Angeles authorities, meanwhile, obtained a first degree murder warrant against Nixon and announced they would attempt to extradite him to face prosecution for the brick slayings of Mrs. Edna Worden and her daughter, Marguerite, 12, there April 4, 1937.

Mrs. Johnson was the fifth woman killed by prowlers in the last three years.

WIDESPREAD SEARCH FOR CEDILLO OPENS

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—(AP)—The federal government today threw infantry, cavalry and aviation units into a widespread search for fugitive General Saturnino Cedillo.

Cedillo, 45-year-old Mexican Indian who rebelled eight days ago against President Lazaro Cardenas, was believed wandering in brush-covered hills in his native San Luis Potosi state.

HOG STEALERS GIVEN PENITENTIARY TERMS

HARRISONBURG, La., May 28.—(Special)—Joe Godfrey and George Morris, both white men who reside near the Wallace Ridge community in this parish, were tried and convicted of hog stealing in the seventh judicial district court here, and sentenced by Judge R. R. Reeves to serve from eight months to two years in the state penitentiary.

Homer Floyd, who was tried and convicted on the same charges, was given the same sentence.

Corry Frith and Jesse Davis, charged jointly with Floyd, Godfrey and Morris, have made bond and their trials set for Monday, July 8.

Doctor Tells How He Felt When Black Widow Bit Him

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—A doctor who became his own patient after being bitten by a black widow spider reported today that the bite was like a wallop over the head with a club.

Pains engulfed him "like tidal waves," wild dreams interrupted his sleep, thirst tortured him and he perspired so much his pajamas and bedclothes dripped.

Other after-effects were similar to an exaggerated hang-over, the physician, Dr. Charles Barton, assistant city health officer of Los Angeles, Calif., said in an article written for the June issue of Natural History Magazine.

"Ordinary street noises, usually unheard, echoed loudly," he related. "And the ring of the telephone sounded like a fire gong. Food, even the thought of it, was abhorrent."

Before being bitten, Dr. Barton confessed, he thought "newspaper accounts" of the virulent effects of the black widow's bite were exaggerated. Now, he said, "I am no longer a skeptic."

His encounter with the insect occurred during the summer. He was pulling vines from a pile of lumber when he felt a prick on his left thumb knuckle. He thought it was a pine splinter.

That was at 11 a.m.

By noon, the physician related, the hand "had become greatly swollen. The back where the skin adhered to the knuckles appeared smooth and glossy, as if affected by erysipelas." At 1 o'clock, the pain extended to the elbow. At 3, "the whole body, as in a severe case of influenza, groaned with the so-called muscle and bone aches." His temperature was 101 degrees. He was helpless, so he called another physician.

This doctor prescribed morphine and a hospital, but Dr. Barton took neither; he "did not want to miss my own show."

As time passed, the physician-patient jotted down his symptoms on a bedside pad. Just as the factory whistles were screeching 4 o'clock—

"A sudden, excruciating pain, similar to being hit by a club, struck at the base of the skull, followed by dizziness, a stiffening of the neck, nausea and vomiting. Cramps, agonizing and gnawing, attacked the stomach, and the sole relief was pressure from the hands."

At last he fell asleep, but—

"Abruptly, about midnight, I awakened, startled and confused. My pajamas, the sheets and the pillows dripped with perspiration, and intense thirst clawed at the throat. I hastily changed, drank two glasses of water, and crawled into another bed."

In the morning "the terrific pains, those resembling huge tidal waves, seemingly had vanished" and the hangover effects began.

At noon he went to a Kiwanis club meeting. All he remembers of it was his failure to eat. As he put it:

"Who participated, what was said, and how I acted will forever remain a mystery. • • •

"Amnesia, that strange phenomenon of forgetfulness, had crept upon me, and did not disappear for two long weeks.

"I groped about like a blind man, recognizing neither names, events nor faces."

On the second night after the encounter with the black widow "eerie dreams, together with excessive sweat and subnormal temperatures," broke his sleep. When he arose in the morning "a flare of lights which had burned all night blazed into my eyes as I entered the living room.

"A cantaloupe, uncut, stood on the radio cabinet. Where the melon came from, who put it there, and for what purpose, perplexed me. Though my memory gave no answer, my reason declared that I, a victim of the black widow spider, had alone occupied the quarters."

As soon as he was able, Dr. Barton hunted out the widow and slew her.

BACCALAUREATE OF NEGRO HIGH SUNDAY

The baccalaureate exercises of the Monroe Colored High school will be held in the school auditorium, today at 3 p. m. There will be special music rendered by the choir from the St. James church and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, Rev. G. C. Hayward.

The commencement will be held in the school auditorium on the night of June 3, with Dr. J. B. Watson, president of Arkansas State college for colored, delivering the address.

The class this year is the largest in the history of the school, stated M. J. Foster, principal.

BAPTIST BROTHERHOOD HOLDS ITS MEETING

The Brotherhood of Calvary Baptist church held its regular meeting in the church Thursday night with 16 present. Because of the absence of Steward H. S. Clawson, the Bible quix was conducted by the vice-president, James Venable.

Participating on the program were Tommy Jones, K. A. Calhoun, Carlton Wade and J. H. Gregory.

The members will participate in a Golden Jubilee program which will be held in their honor by the Woman's Missionary society at the church Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. All members are urged to attend and bring their friends.

ANOTHER M'GUIRE TOURNEY

McGuire Park Golf club stages the first big tournament of this section during the week-end, and from all indications it will be as successful as the last tourney held at the West Monroe course. Al Mailhes, the Shreveport star, bested an excellent field in the first annual McGuire invitational affair last July 31-Aug. 1 to become the first McGuire champion, and it looks like he'll have plenty of competition again this year when he defends his title.

Pro Jim McKenzie, President Bun Beasley and other officials of the McGuire club have been busy for the past three weeks, preparing for the big event, and the visiting golfers are promised a big time. By visiting golfers, we mean all who compete in the tourney.

McGuire officials have made it clear that everybody's invited. It's not a tournament for "big names" only, and those who play and those who watch are promised a royal welcome. Those in charge of entertainment functions have stated that a sixth flight golfer with a bag of four clubs is just as welcome as the cahmpionship contender who knows just when to use a four-iron instead of a five. Every golfer who feels like competing has been invited, and the general public has been assured that there's a cordial invitation awaiting them to watch the matches and make full use of the clubhouse's facilities.

Last year's final attracted perhaps the largest gallery to see a tournament match here in a number of years. This year, Pro McKenzie and his associates expect an even greater gallery and a larger entry list.

The men in charge of the tournament arrangements at McGuire have done an excellent job in preparing for this year's event, and it looks like an even greater tourney than that which marked their first efforts last summer.

THEY'RE STILL TRYING

Monroe slipped out of the Cotton States league cellar Friday night, but even if the Sox slip back today, nobody will deny that club officials are trying to give Monroe fans a winner.

The club looked good enough at the start of the season but it was soon discovered that the pitching wasn't of first division caliber. The men at the helm immediately sent out an SOS with the result that several hurlers who should be able to win in this league were signed.

HAAS, DOWNING IN GOLF FINALS

Former Beats H. H. Reardon And Latter Defeats H. K. Touchstone

Cramer Haas and Ben Downing, Jr., among the youngest members of Lakeside Country Golf club, advanced to the finals in the club championship tournament yesterday with Downing shooting a sub-par game to win his way to the final engagement.

Haas defeated H. H. Reardon, 4 and 2, in their semi-final yesterday, while Downing beat H. K. Touchstone, 6 and 5. Reardon played some of his best golf during the tournament and sprung an upset on the dopesters in the opening round when he beat E. S. "Shep" Girault, medalist and defending champion, but his younger opponent got the better of the going yesterday.

The high school golf star, Ben Downing, winner of the state high school championship two seasons straight and holder of the crown at present, indicated he was making a strong bid for the Lakeside title this year when he shot a sub-par 70 against Touchstone.

Lakeside golfers, in addition to the completion of the club championship tournament with the final some time this week, will be active in various golfing events the rest of the week.

Winnie Cole, Lakeside professional, will leave Tuesday for Memphis, Tenn., where he hopes to qualify for the National Open tournament. Two low qualifiers in the Memphis 36-hole event will win places in the National Open to be held in Denver, Colo., next month.

Several local golfers will also participate today in the second annual Hodge invitational tournament, sponsored by the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company. The 36-hole tourney will be completed today. Among those expected to compete from Lakeside are Ben Downing, Jr., Dr. Nat Gaston, George Miller, Art Surguine and J. C. Liner, Sr.

A large number of Lakesiders will also go into action again this year in the McGuire Park Golf club's annual invitational meet. Among Lakeside's best bets to cop the McGuire meet are "Shep" Girault, Ben Downing, Jr., Cramer Haas and a few others. Girault was a finalist at McGuire last year, finishing in the runner-up position to Al "Tubby" Mailhes of Shreveport.

CANNON NINE WINS

The Cannon Shoe Store baseball team won two close baseball games yesterday, nosing out the West Monroe Bats, 7 to 6, and eking out a 9-to-8 victory over Adler Piratea.

MANY ENTRANTS TO COMPETE IN ANNUAL TOURNEY

Al Mailhes To Defend Championship; Meet Open To All Golfers

The second annual McGuire Perk Golf club invitational tournament will be held at the West Monroe course this week-end, with match play to start next Saturday morning and end with the championship final Sunday afternoon.

The "invitational" part of the tournament is all-embracing according to club officials. It means that everybody's invited, Bun Beasley, club president, said.

Al Mailhes, of Shreveport, former No. 1 player on the Notre Dame golf team, will be here to defend the title he won last August 1. Mailhes defeated Shep Girault, 3 and 1, in a close match and Girault will be back to give Mailhes and everybody else a battle for the 1938 championship.

Pro Jim McKenzie also announced yesterday that Tommy Bolt, finalist in the recent Louisiana championship, and Edwin McClure, five times Louisiana champion, will be here to compete for the McGuire crown. Both are from Shreveport. In addition, a large number of New Orleans golfers, accompanied by their wives, will attend the tourney, McKenzie said. Other well known players from the state, as well as Mississippi and Arkansas and Texas, are expected to compete, it was said.

There are some stellar golfers in Monroe and West Monroe who will attempt to bring the title back to Ouachita parish, and the local entries are expected to provide quite a battle for the out-of-town contingent.

However, the championship flight golfers won't provide the whole show. Club officials have made it plain that everyone's invited, from the lowliest dub to the "seventy shooters" and there's every indication that a hundred or more players will compete for the attractive list of prizes to be offered this year. As many flights will be formed as there are players, McKenzie said, and prizes will be offered in each flight.

The entry fee entitles the players to compete in the tourney and to attend the barbecue on Saturday night. The general public, however, and golfers who do not enter the tourney have been invited to watch the matches and "make themselves at home" in the spacious McGuire clubhouse.

The qualifying round will start today, and players may post their qualifying scores any time until next Friday night. First round of match play starts Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, with second round matches slated Saturday afternoon, semi-finals Sunday morning and finals in all flights Sunday afternoon. Prizes will be awarded upon conclusion of the championship match.

M'GUIRE'S DEFENDING CHAMPION

Al Mailhes, of Shreveport, former No. 1 player on the Notre Dame golf team, will defend his McGuire tournament championship this week-end. Mailhes defeated Shep Girault, Monroe star, 3 and 1, in the finals of the first annual tournament last year. The McGuire tourney opens next Saturday morning with first round play and will end Sunday afternoon.

'Butch' Martin To Tackle Tough Alabama Wrestler

Local Man, Recently Turned Professional, Will Seek Second Victory

Aldin "Butch" Martin, local boxer turned professional wrestler, will seek his second victory as a mat man when he meets "Chuck" Powell, tough Alabama grappler, in the main event of tomorrow night's weekly wrestling show at Bruscato arena.

"Butch" stopped Powell with a knockout during the second fall of a "free-for-all" last week to win his first professional battle after having previously wrestled in semi-final acts to win three draws. But his victory last week was won in a match in which both he and his opponent wrestled with six-ounce gloves on their fists and the right to both wrestle and sock, but there will be no gloves between them in their return match.

The gloves were more to Martin's advantage, he having quite a record behind him as a boxer, but Powell will be meeting the rough Monroe boy tomorrow night on terms with which he is more experienced. The bout will be a 90-minute time limit, best two out of three falls affair.

The semi-final engagement will bring together two other rough battlers in "Cyclone" Burns, of Detroit, and "Sheik" Ben Ali Marallah, of Persia. The Sheik is making his first appearance here and is reputedly a colorful wrestler, while Burns, who has been billed here previously, is plenty rough on his opponents and the semi-final should prove to be a good show.

The Burns-Ben Ali tussle is a 45-minute time limit show, also of the best-two-out-of-three-falls variety.

Matchmaker Tom Moore also announced last night that, in view of the warm weather season, the roof had been removed from the arena this week, leaving the stadium with an "open air" effect for the comfort of the fans.

Officials for the bouts, the first of which gets underway at 8 p. m., were announced as C. C. Scharff, referee, and Bud Fisher, timer.

BIG SIX LEAGUE STARTS SUNDAY

Calhoun, Clarks And Mer Rouge Home Clubs For Openers Next Week

The Big Six baseball league swings into action next Sunday afternoon with games at Calhoun, Clarks and Mer Rouge, according to the league schedule, and the teams will be making final preparations this week for their season openers.

Downsville will go to Calhoun, Chatham will be at Clarks and Bastrop will invade Mer Rouge for the initial encounters of 1938. Games will be played each Sunday and Wednesday thereafter until the schedule is completed. Sunday games will begin at 3 p. m., and Wednesday games will take place at 3:30 p. m.

While the teams will be made up of amateur players, they will operate under official rules as recognized by professional baseball. Each team will be limited to 14 players.

The season will consist of two halves, the winner of the first half to play the winner of the second half for the league championship.

Managers of Big Six teams are E. M. Steeley, Clarks; V. M. Abbott, Chatham; Pat Wright, Calhoun; T. A. Malone, Downsville; C. W. Montgomery, Mer Rouge, and A. O. Arant, Bastrop.

Yelovic Loses Control And Nugent Is Hit Hard; Two Games Today

By George V. Lofton

After hurling seven scoreless innings, John Yelovic, making his first start for Monroe, suddenly lost control and the Helena Seaporters got to him and Tex Nugent, who relieved, for six runs in the eighth inning to cop the opener from the White Sox, 6 to 4.

Yelovic allowed only four hits in the first seven frames and he didn't walk a man. However, at the start of the seventh he lost his effectiveness and walked four Seaporters. Nugent took the mound with two out and three men on the sacks, and the Arkansan immediately hopped on his offerings for the runs that trimmed the locals. Solid base blows off Nugent turned the tide, and Tex was

DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

The White Sox and Helena's Seaporters play a double header at Casino park today, the first game starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager "Red" Harvel said he was undecided on his hurling selections. Tex Nugent was slated to pitch the first game but Tex relieved Yelovic last night. Al Bronkhurst may pitch one of the games while Bill Howell, newest acquisition from Marshall, is likely to see action. Acting Manager L. B. Jones of the Helena club said Celey would start the first game for the Seaporters and the acting skipper or Hendricks would take the mound in the seven-inning nightcap.

Manager Riggs Stephenson of the Helena club is at his home with a sinus infection that has kept him inactive for two weeks.

ANOTHER M'GUIRE TOURNEY

McGuire Park Golf club stages the first big tournament of this section during the week-end, and from all indications it will be as successful as the last tourney held at the West Monroe course. Al Mailhes, the Shreveport star, bested an excellent field in the first annual McGuire invitational affair last July 31-Aug. 1 to become the first McGuire champion, and it looks like he'll have plenty of competition again this year when he defends his title.

Pro Jim McKenzie, President Bun Beasley and other officials of the McGuire club have been busy for the past three weeks, preparing for the big event, and the visiting golfers are promised a big time. By visiting golfers, we mean all who compete in the tourney.

McGuire officials have made it clear that everybody's invited. It's not a tournament for "big names" only, and those who play and those who watch are promised a royal welcome. Those in charge of entertainment functions have stated that a sixth flight golfer with a bag of four clubs is just as welcome as the cahmpionship contender who knows just when to use a four-iron instead of a five. Every golfer who feels like competing has been invited, and the general public has been assured that there's a cordial invitation awaiting them to watch the matches and make full use of the clubhouse's facilities.

Last year's final attracted perhaps the largest gallery to see a tournament match here in a number of years. This year, Pro McKenzie and his associates expect an even greater gallery and a larger entry list.

The men in charge of the tournament arrangements at McGuire have done an excellent job in preparing for this year's event, and it looks like an even greater tourney than that which marked their first efforts last summer.

THEY'RE STILL TRYING

Monroe slipped out of the Cotton States league cellar Friday night, but even if the Sox slip back today, nobody will deny that club officials are trying to give Monroe fans a winner.

The club looked good enough at the start of the season but it was soon discovered that the pitching wasn't of first division caliber. The men at the helm immediately sent out an SOS with the result that several hurlers who should be able to win in this league were signed.

Former Beats H. H. Reardon And Latter Defeats H. K. Touchstone

Cramer Haas and Ben Downing, Jr., among the youngest members of Lakeside Country Golf club, advanced to the finals in the club championship tournament yesterday with Downing shooting a sub-par game to win his way to the final engagement.

Haas defeated H. H. Reardon, 4 and 2, in their semi-final yesterday, while Downing beat H. K. Touchstone, 6 and 5. Reardon played some of his best golf during the tournament and sprung an upset on the dopesters in the opening round when he beat E. S. "Shep" Girault, medalist and defending champion, but his younger opponent got the better of the going yesterday.

The high school golf star, Ben Downing, winner of the state high school championship two seasons straight and holder of the crown at present, indicated he was making a strong bid for the Lakeside title this year when he shot a sub-par 70 against Touchstone.

Lakeside golfers, in addition to the completion of the club championship tournament with the final some time this week, will be active in various golfing events the rest of the week.

Winnie Cole, Lakeside professional, will leave Tuesday for Memphis, Tenn., where he hopes to qualify for the National Open tournament. Two low qualifiers in the Memphis 36-hole event will win places in the National Open to be held in Denver, Colo., next month.

Several local golfers will also participate today in the second annual Hodge invitational tournament, sponsored by the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company. The 36-hole tourney will be completed today. Among those expected to compete from Lakeside are Ben Downing, Jr., Dr. Nat Gaston, George Miller, Art Surguine and J. C. Liner, Sr.

A large number of Lakesiders will also go into action again this year in the McGuire Park Golf club's annual invitational meet. Among Lakeside's best bets to cop the McGuire meet are "Shep" Girault, Ben Downing, Jr., Cramer Haas and a few others. Girault was a finalist at McGuire last year, finishing in the runner-up position to Al "Tubby" Mailhes of Shreveport.

CANNON NINE WINS

The Cannon Shoe Store baseball team won two close baseball games yesterday, nosing out the West Monroe Bats, 7 to 6, and eking out a 9-to-8 victory over Adler Pirates.

MANY ENTRANTS TO COMPETE IN ANNUAL TOURNEY

Al Mailhes To Defend Championship; Meet Open To All Golfers

The second annual McGuire Perk Golf club invitational tournament will be held at the West Monroe course this week-end, with match play to start next Saturday morning and end with the championship final Sunday afternoon.

The "invitational" part of the tournament is all-embracing, according to club officials. It means that everybody's invited, Bun Beasley, club president, said.

Al Mailhes, of Shreveport, former No. 1 player on the Notre Dame golf team, will be here to defend the title he won last August 1. Mailhes defeated Shep Girault, 3 and 1, in a close match and Girault will be back to give Mailhes and everybody else a battle for the 1938 championship.

Pro Jim McKenzie also announced yesterday that Tommy Bolt, finalist in the recent Louisiana championship, and Edwin McClure, five times Louisiana champion, will be here to compete for the McGuire crown. Both are from Shreveport. In addition, a large number of New Orleans golfers, accompanied by their wives, will attend the tourney, McKenzie said. Other well known players from the state, as well as Mississippi and Arkansas and Texas, are expected to compete, it was said.

There are some stellar golfers in Monroe and West Monroe who will attempt to bring the title back to Ouachita parish, and the local entries are expected to provide quite a battle for the out-of-town contingent.

However, the championship flight golfers won't provide the whole show. Club officials have made it plain that everyone's invited, from the lowliest dub to the "seventy shooters" and there's every indication that a hundred or more players will compete for the attractive list of prizes to be offered this year. As many flights will be formed as there are players, McKenzie said, and prizes will be offered in each flight.

The entry fee entitles the players to compete in the tourney and to attend the barbecue on Saturday night. The general public, however, and golfers who do not enter the tourney have been invited to watch the matches and "make themselves at home" in the spacious McGuire clubhouse.

The qualifying round will start today, and players may post their qualifying scores any time until next Friday night. First round of match play starts Saturday morning at 7 o'clock, with second round matches slated Saturday afternoon, semi-finals Sunday morning and finals in all flights Sunday afternoon. Prizes will be awarded upon conclusion of the championship match.

HUBBELL HURLS 1-HIT GAME AS GIANTS WIN 2

ONLY TWO PHILS REACH FIRST IN SECOND CONTEST

King Carl Chalks Up 11-0 Victory; Leaders Cop Opener, 5 To 4

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—King Carl Hubbell came within a hit and a walk of the "perfect" ball game every pitcher dreams about today as the Giants swept a double header from the Phillies.

Only two men reached first base off the old master of the screw-ball as he posted an 11 to 0 shutout in the nightcap of the twin bill for his sixth win of the season, the 198th of his career. A line single to center by Tuck Stainback, new Phils importation from St. Louis, in the fourth inning ruined his hopes for the second no-hitter of his career. The walk was handed to relief pitcher Lefty Al Smith in the sixth.

The Giants were handed the opener 5 to 4 when a two-base error by Emmett Mueller, rookie second baseman, enabled them to score two unearned runs in the first inning. Cliff Melton posted his seventh victory in this one, but had to have help from Dick Coffman in the ninth, after Stainback smashed a homer with two mates aboard.

Oddly enough, Hubbell's 11-0 margin of victory was identical with that the Giants posted for him back in 1929, when he registered his no-hit, no-run performance against the Pirates.

33 CARS READY FOR INDIANAPOLIS RACE

Drivers who joined the starting field today were Billy Devore of St. John, Kans., at 116.339 miles an hour; Henry Banks of Royal Oak, Mich., 116.279; George Bailey of Detroit, 116.393; Duke Nalon of Chicago, 113.828; and Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Calif., 114.464. Crawford's speed was 112.762.

Hard luck honors for the year went to Harry Miller, veteran builder of race cars, who brought three brand-new speedsters to the track and didn't get one into the race.

It was a bitter blow for Hepburn, who last year finished second, just two seconds behind Wilbur Shaw, the winner.

The week of qualifying trials was completed without a single serious accident.

NATS SHADE RED SOX

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Dutch Leonard knuckle-balled the Senators to a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox today.

Although the Sox got 19 hits off the Washington hurler, he scattered them with good effect. The Senators gathered 12 blows off young Jim Bagby in the seven innings he worked.

Boston had the tying and what might have been the winning runs on base in the eighth, but Mel Almada ended the inning with a cheer-raising, one-handed catch of Cramer's long fly.

HUBBELL HURLS 1-HIT GAME AS GIANTS WIN 2

ONLY TWO PHILS REACH FIRST IN SECOND CONTEST

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—King Carl Hubbell came within a hit and a walk of the "perfect" ball game every pitcher dreams about today as the Giants swept a double header from the Phillies.

Only two men reached first base off the old master of the screw-ball as he posted an 11 to 0 shutout in the nightcap of the twin bill for his sixth win of the season, the 198th of his career. A line single to center by Tuck Stainback, new Phils importation from St. Louis, in the fourth inning ruined his hopes for the second no-hitter of his career. The walk was handed to relief pitcher Lefty Al Smith in the sixth.

The Giants were handed the opener 5 to 4 when a two-base error by Emmett Mueller, rookie second baseman, enabled them to score two unearned runs in the first inning. Cliff Melton posted his seventh victory in this one, but had to have help from Dick Coffman in the ninth, after Stainback smashed a homer with two mates aboard.

Oddly enough, Hubbell's 11-0 margin of victory was identical with that the Giants posted for him back in 1929, when he registered his no-hit, no-run performance against the Pirates.

GREENVILLE SHORTSTOP TOPS LEAGUE HITTERS

SCHANG LEADING MONROE BATTER WITH .333 MARK

Greenville Best Hitting Club While Helena Leads In Team Fielding

Johnny Cummings, Greenville shortstop, is leading Cotton States league batters, according to unofficial averages released yesterday. Cummings was hitting .375. The averages include games of May 24.

The top-flight Greenville club is leading the league in club batting with .286, while Helena is the best fielding club with a mark of .953. Monroe is second in club fielding, one point behind the Seaporters, and seventh in team batting with .257.

"Chick" Galeria, veteran Greenville southpaw, is the league's leading hurler with seven victories and no defeats. Galeria has chalked up another win since the averages were compiled. Joe Radney, of Greenwood, had six triumphs against no defeats in the averages, but Joe lost one to the Monroe White Sox Friday night.

Snark Wins Suburban 'Cap As 'Admiral' Is Scratched

McKenzie, McGuire Pro, Has Had Wide Experience

CLUB PRO

JIM M'KENZIE

Born In Scotland, Cradle Of Golf, Genial Pro Has Had Varied Career

Jim McKenzie, professional at the new McGuire Park Golf club, was born in Scotland, the accepted cradle of golf, and thus should know what it's all about, as far as the ancient game is concerned. Perhaps some of Jim's ancestors sold golf balls (leather casings stuffed with feathers) to King James VI and undoubtedly they had a hand in the development of the game, which first was played in the Land of Heather as far back as late in the 14th century.

Thus Jim was brought up in a golfing atmosphere and he learned the game in his native Scotland.

Coming to this country about 35 years ago, McKenzie has had a wide experience with clubs throughout the south. He formerly was assistant to Stewart Madden, pro in charge of the famous East Lake Country club in Atlanta, the man who developed Bobby Jones and Alexa Sterling.

From East Lake, Jim became associated with the Capital City club at Atlanta. He built that beautiful course and maintained it for eight years.

McKenzie then accepted an invitation to take charge of the Chattanooga Country club, where he remained four years, going from there to Dallas, Tex., where he built the Lakewood Country club course. He remained with the Lakewood club for 12 years.

Jim spent one winter at the Florida Country club, in Jacksonville, Fla., and then went back to Dallas to take charge of the Walnut Hill club.

McKenzie became acquainted with Lutcher Brown, president of the Brown Paper Mill company, sponsor of the McGuire Park club, and at Mr. Brown's invitation, he came to West Monroe. He had full charge of the construction of the McGuire Park course and is responsible for the sporty layout.

He developed such well-known golfers as Mary Rogers, former Southern Women's champion; Jack Toomer, Florida champion, Billy Boyd and Fleming Watkins, crack Chattanooga golfers; Reynolds Smith, of Dallas; Spec Goldman, of Dallas, who went to the finals in the National Amateur tournament one year, and many other city and state champions.

McKenzie has designed and constructed many courses and is nationally known as a teacher. He was chairman of the Board of Control of Teachers for the P. G. A. in Texas. He has been a member of the P. G. A. since its inception and has been actively teaching in the United States for the past 28 years.

LAFFOON, DUDLEY BEST BALL LEADERS

TOLEDO, O., May 28.—(AP)—Bronzed Ky Laffoon, the Chicago Cherokee, and big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, captain of the United States Ryder Cup team, made a run-away of the fourth annual Inverness best ball tourney today as they won two matches and assumed a seven point lead with but two rounds to play.

The two leaders turned in a pair of best-ball 65's today to dispose of Willie Goggin and Frank Walsh by five up, and defeated Horton Smith and "Light-Horse" Harry Cooper one up.

With five of the seven matches out of the way, the cumulative standing was:

Dudley-Laffoon, plus 12; Dick Metz-Gene Sarazen, plus 5; Smith-Cooper, plus 2; Vic Ghezzi-Sam Snead, plus 1; Henry Picard-Johnny Revolta, minus 2; Goggin-Walsh, minus 2; Jimmy Thomson-Tommy Armour, minus 5; Lawson Little-Jimmy Demaret, minus 11.

Eighty-three birdies were fired in today's two rounds, boosting the total to 205 for the five matches.

WINNER SHADES POMPOON TO COP SIX-HORSE RACE

By Orlo Robertson

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Snark, a horse sired by a sprinter, a failure in two previous attempts at shorter distances, changed his racing style and came from behind with the second fastest performance in Suburban Handicap history today to win the classic mile and a quarter at Belmont park.

The five-year-old son of Boojum, ridden by Johnny Longden, was clocked in 2:01 2-5 as he hit the finish line a short nose in front of Jerome H. Louchheim's Pompoon, made the 7 to 10 favorite of the crowd of 22,000 after Samuel D. Riddle unexpectedly scratched War Admiral two hours before the six turf titans paraded postward.

The time was one-fifth of a second faster than that made last year by J. A. Manfuso's Aneroid, which wound up third three lengths back of the two leaders after vieing for the early lead with Mrs. Louise Viau's Rex Flag. The only faster mark on the books is Whisk Broom's time of two minutes flat made in winning the 1913 renewal. That mark has always been questioned however, since it was claimed the track was several yards short of the mile and a quarter.

Snark, sixth in the Dixie Handicap in which Pompoon hung up a new track record and second in the Metropolitan mile, paid 6 to 1 for earning the purse of $17,050. Aneroid was the second choice at 9 to 2 on the basis of his 1937 victory and fine workouts.

No reason was given for the scratching of War Admiral. Trainer George Conway breezed the son of Man O'War a quarter-mile in 24 seconds this morning in preparation for the race. After talking by telephone with Riddle in Philadelphia, however, Conway announced his charge would not run.

Sonny Workman broke Aneroid in front, gave way to Rex Flag at the half mile post, and then took command again rounding the bend leading into the home stretch. Meanwhile Snark and Pompoon were being raced near the rear by Longden and Georgie Woolf, respectively. They were no better than fourth and fifth for the first three quarters.

A quarter of a mile from home both began to close in, but Aneroid still had a half-length on Masked General three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish line with Pompoon and Snark head and head, another two lengths back.

The pair quickly picked up the two leaders and then hooked up in a duel of their own. Stride for stride they came through the last sixteenth with both jockeys using their whips freely. Pompoon held a slight margin up until the last yards when Longden put aside his bat and fairly lifted Snark over the line, the winner by the narrowest of margins.

Aneroid tired but managed to hold third place safe, a half length in front of Masked General. Strabo came up fast to take fifth as Rex Flag dropped back to last.

GOV. CHANDLER WINS

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Gov. Chandler splashed to victory in the $12,000 added Illinois Derby today, finishing a length ahead of Xavier, with Dolly Val third in a field of nine.

The race was witnessed by a drenched crowd of 15,000.

Gov. Chandler, running third most of the way, overtook Dolly Val in the stretch. The winner was ridden by Jockey Willie Garner, and paid $5.40 to win, $4.00 to place and $3.40 to show.

The Greentree stable pair, Gang Plank and Birthday, never was in the running. Birthday was ridden by Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who captured the Kentucky Derby on Lawrin.

Gov. Chandler ran the mile and eighth in 1:58.

FLYING LEE FIRST

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 28.—(AP)—Hal Price Headley's Flying Lee won the Kentucky Oaks today with Janice second, Fantine third and Birdlea fourth. Time for the mile and an eighth was 1:52 4-5. Flying Lee paid $4.80 to win on a $2 ticket.

LUCK DANGLES $4,000,000 AT SWEEPSTAKES HOLDERS

DUBLIN, May 28.—(AP)—Luck dangled about $4,000,000 in sudden wealth tonight before Irish Hospitals Sweepstake ticket holders in the United States.

The final drawings from the spinning drum assured at least $2,054,564 of the fund of $7,290,305 would return to the United States.

Ticket holders in the United States the lottery whose numbers were drawn on probable starters in the English Derby to be run at Epsom Downs Wednesday also have chances of sharing in the big prizes—totaling $2,350,000—on the three winning horses.

American tickets accounted for 57 per cent of all taken out of the drum in the two-day drawing. If the percentage prevails on the running of the race, therefore, Americans should win a total of about $4,000,000 out of an estimated $6,800,000 they paid into the lottery.

GREENVILLE SHORTSTOP TOPS LEAGUE HITTERS

SCHANG LEADING MONROE BATTER WITH .333 MARK

Greenville Best Hitting Club While Helena Leads In Team Fielding

Johnny Cummings, Greenville shortstop, is leading Cotton States league batters, according to unofficial averages released yesterday. Cummings was hitting .375. The averages include games of May 24.

The top-flight Greenville club is leading the league in club batting with .286, while Helena is the best fielding club with a mark of .953. Monroe is second in club fielding, one point behind the Seaporters, and seventh in team batting with .257.

"Chick" Galeria, veteran Greenville southpaw, is the league's leading hurler with seven victories and no defeats. Galeria has chalked up another win since the averages were compiled. Joe Radney, of Greenwood, had six triumphs against no defeats in the averages, but Joe lost one to the Monroe White Sox Friday night.

Snark Wins Suburban 'Cap As 'Admiral' Is Scratched

McKenzie, McGuire Pro, Has Had Wide Experience

CLUB PRO

JIM M'KENZIE

Born In Scotland, Cradle Of Golf, Genial Pro Has Had Varied Career

Jim McKenzie, professional at the new McGuire Park Golf club, was born in Scotland, the accepted cradle of golf, and thus should know what it's all about, as far as the ancient game is concerned. Perhaps some of Jim's ancestors sold golf balls (leather casings stuffed with feathers) to King James VI and undoubtedly they had a hand in the development of the game, which first was played in the Land of Heather as far back as late in the 14th century.

Thus Jim was brought up in a golfing atmosphere and he learned the game in his native Scotland.

Coming to this country about 35 years ago, McKenzie has had a wide experience with clubs throughout the south. He formerly was assistant to Stewart Madden, pro in charge of the famous East Lake Country club in Atlanta, the man who developed Bobby Jones and Alexa Sterling.

From East Lake, Jim became associated with the Capital City club at Atlanta. He built that beautiful course and maintained it for eight years.

McKenzie then accepted an invitation to take charge of the Chattanooga Country club, where he remained four years, going from there to Dallas, Tex., where he built the Lakewood Country club course. He remained with the Lakewood club for 12 years.

Jim spent one winter at the Florida Country club, in Jacksonville, Fla., and then went back to Dallas to take charge of the Walnut Hill club.

McKenzie became acquainted with Lutcher Brown, president of the Brown Paper Mill company, sponsor of the McGuire Park club, and at Mr. Brown's invitation, he came to West Monroe. He had full charge of the construction of the McGuire Park course and is responsible for the sporty layout.

He developed such well-known golfers as Mary Rogers, former Southern Women's champion; Jack Toomer, Florida champion, Billy Boyd and Fleming Watkins, crack Chattanooga golfers; Reynolds Smith, of Dallas; Spec Goldman, of Dallas, who went to the finals in the National Amateur tournament one year, and many other city and state champions.

McKenzie has designed and constructed many courses and is nationally known as a teacher. He was chairman of the Board of Control of Teachers for the P. G. A. in Texas. He has been a member of the P. G. A. since its inception and has been actively teaching in the United States for the past 28 years.

ROSS PICKED TO DEFEAT ARMSTRONG TUESDAY

WELTER CHAMP FIGURES TO WIN HANDY DECISION

Barney Expected To Throw Some Real Punches In Postponed Engagement

By Henry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Unless the hand that so suddenly learned to caress has been dulled, Barney Ross should decisively defeat Henry Armstrong in 15 rounds in the Madison Square Garden Bowl in Queens, Tuesday night.

Eddie Meade says that Armstrong will earn $200,000 and win two more world championships within the next 18 months. Meade figures that the body belting Ross took in his winning effort against Ceferino Garcia in the Carnival of Champions at the Polo Grounds last August didn't do the welterweight champion any good.

The big boy from Hell's Kitchen points to the fact that Ross isn't the type that leans on an opponent, and suggests that Armstrong will flatten anybody who stands up straight. Hammering Henry is bigger than Ross from the waist up. Meade insists that the boy who has knocked out 38 of 40 opponents in 14 months can go thirty-split for 15 rounds.

Meade likes to believe that Ross fights only in flashes . . . that the Chicago kid coasts for two minutes of each round.

While the official contracts state that Ross and Armstrong are boxing at 147 pounds, they have private agreements calling for Ross to do 142 or less and Armstrong 136 or more, and each has posted a $5,000 forfeit.

Ross' natural weight is 142.

Armstrong, a pigeon-chested negro and a freak at making weight, scaled 128 in stopping Eddie Zivic and 133 in disposing of Lew Feldman in his last two starts. The Little Brown Bomber always works several rounds in the dressing room before appointments, although in this case there should be no need of dispensing with any surplus poundage.

His best natural weight right now is 138. They start even on the scales.

If Ross is the Ross that fought Tony Canzoneri, Jimmy McLarnin, and that crowd, it should be no contest.

From what I've seen of Armstrong, he's a one-track fighter who has had a pull in poundage against a field of mediocre feathers.

I want to see how he reacts when he is hit, and if Ross is Ross, Hammering Henry will be tagged, honestly and truly.

Armstrong isn't going to rush Ross off his feet as he did Mike Belloise, Petey Sarron, and other dime-a-dozen featherweights.

Ross will spin Armstrong, tie the St. Louis kid up, and set him up for a solid smacko.

We may find out just how the Dust Cloud behaves on the floor.

I like Ross because he is one of those old-fashioned fighters who hits back. Only fighting men will get the importance of that. Sting Ross, and you've got a fight on your hands, and Henry Armstrong will have one, and I don't care how much ammunition he carries.

Ray Arcel, one of the smartest trainers in the business, says that Ross' right hand uppercut will win for him. That's the defensive prescription for chargers.

Ross knows what he is doing every minute.

Armstrong isn't bull-dozing a skinny-legged featherweight this trip.

He's in there with a healthy lightweight who happens to be defending the world welterweight championship.

And it is my ... that Barney Ross' natural fighting equipment, speed, condition, and intelligence will convince Henry Armstrong of the truth of what his best friends should tell him:

"Don't bite off more than you can chew, kid. Stay in your own league."

FIGHTERS TO CAMPS

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Dusky Henry Armstrong, the featherweight champion and challenger for Barney Ross' welterweight title, returned to his Pompton Lakes, N. J., training camp today to resume preparations for Tuesday's title bout.

Armstrong wound up his camp work early this week but after the bout

PGA Secretary Sends Out Questionnaire That Reveals 'Haig's' Popularity

By Arnold Derlitzki

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Walter Hagen rates as "the greatest tournament golfer" of them all in the hearts of his fellow professionals. Even over "Grand Slam" Bobby Jones himself, it was "The Haig," 2 to 1.

Walter Hagen

So ran the vote in questionnaires sent out recently by Tom Walsh, secretary of the National Professional Golfers association. After Hagen and Jones, the choices ranged from England's famed Harry Vardon to America's Harry Cooper.

In contrast to the general trend toward Hagen, who only last Thursday returned to his favored shores after a world tour, most disagreement among the pros came in naming the country's greatest golf course. More than 100 questionnaires listed 16 links. Pittsburgh's Oakmont and New Jersey's Pine Valley set the pace, neck and neck.

More personal inquiries disclosed two professionals—Neal Harrison of New York and J. A. Patterson of Los Angeles—never have played in a tournament, devoting their time instead to teaching and club duties.

William Horace Fulford, 52-year-old pro at St. Georges club, Stony Brook, N. Y., has made holes in one 10 times.

The questionnaire further disclosed: Better than three out of every four pros have made at least one hole in one; more began playing golf and also entered their first tournament at the age of 12 than at any other year; 50 per cent since have played in countries outside the United States and more than a third of this number on other continents.

Hunting and fishing are the predominant hobbies. The latter ranged from oil paintings of water scenes, favored by Leonard Schmutte of Findlay, O., to plain checkers by Ray Mangrum. Sam Parks is an amateur architect, Bobby Cruickshank likes his English setters, while Ned Everhart of the Miami Biltmore club goes for shirts and neckties with a touch of lavender.

CROSSETT MILLERS TRIM MAGNOLIA TEAM, 16 TO 0

CROSSETT, Ark., May 28.—(Special)—The Crossett Millers walloped the Magnolia, Ark., baseball club, 16 to 0, here tonight behind the two-hit pitching of Jessie Harrison, 17-year-old Crossett High school boy.

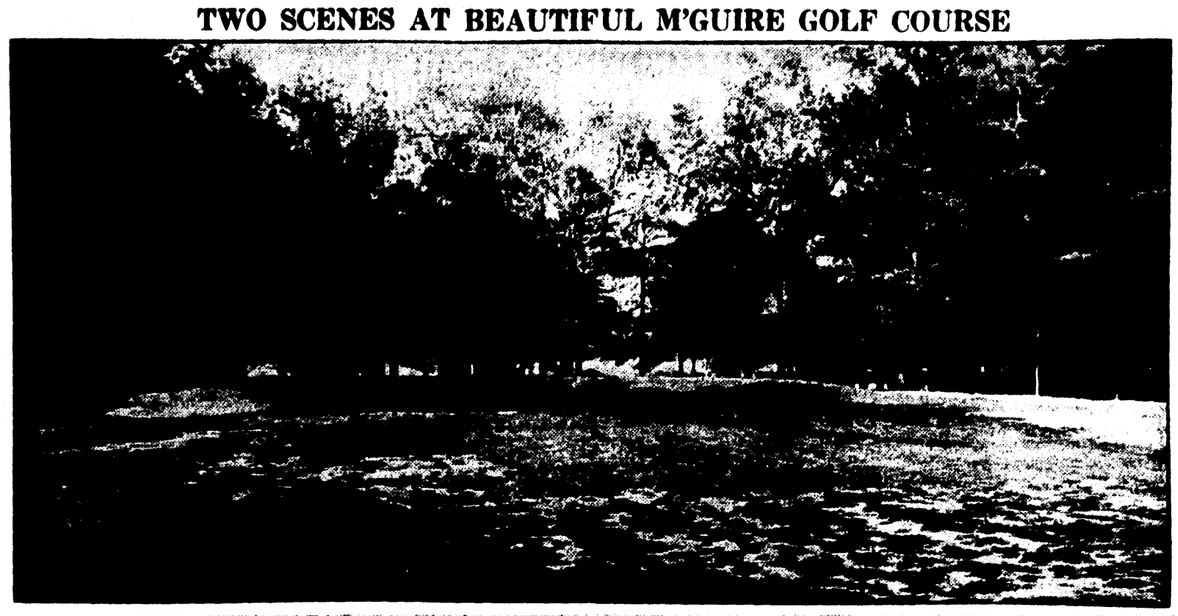

"Mule" Fryer led the Millers attack on two Magnolia hurlers with a home run, a triple, a double and a single.

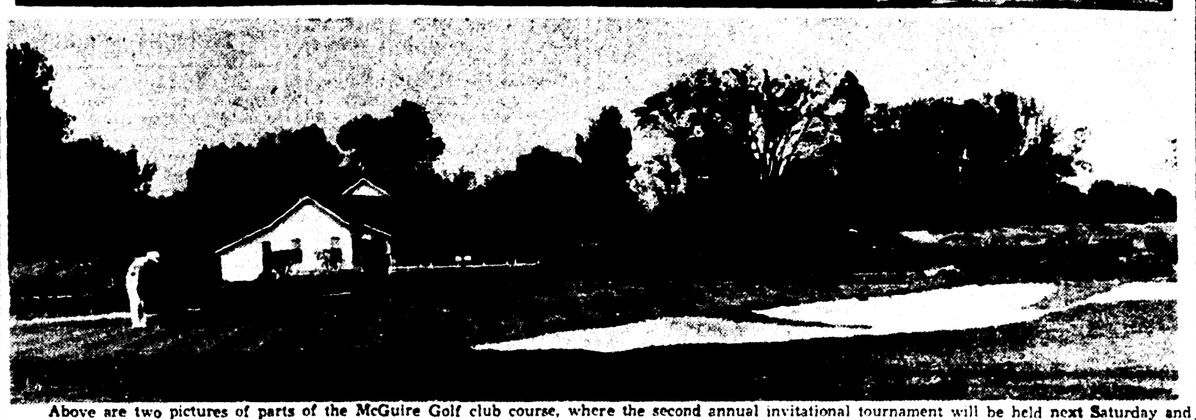

Harrison hurled six innings, allowing only two safeties, and was given relief by McGregor in the sixth frame although the youngster was not in trouble.

The batteries were: Parker, Crawford and Eddington, Magnolia; Harrison, McGregor and Moore, Singletary, Crossett.

DODGER SLUGGER PACES NATIONAL

Lavagetto Maintains Hitting Stride; Medwick Nosedives To Eighth Place

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The pitchers and nine other National league batters caught up with Ducky Medwick during the past week and bounced the Cardinals' clouter out of the loop hitting lead, down to a tie for eighth place in the standings.

While Cookie Lavagetto, the Dodgers' third baseman, and Buck McCormick, Cincinnati rookie, maintained a steady hitting pace to take over first and second place in the batting race, Ducky Wucky managed to collect only three safe hits in 23 chances during the seven-day span ending with Friday's games. As a result, his average nose-dived 66 points down to .337, where he just managed to remain in the league's top-ten hitting list.

Lavagetto, meantime, collected seven hits in 19 trips to the plate to post a .393 average for the season, regain the lead and hold a 20-point margin over his nearest rival. McCormick, getting 10 hits in 27 times up, had a second-place mark of .373.

The Reds' rookie, however, was one of the loop's most dangerous batters. In addition to his second-place in the hitting race, he led the league in hits, with 56 for the season, and in doubles, with 14. His nearest rivals in these departments were Stan Hack of the Cubs, with 48 hits, and Herschel Martin of the Phillies and Dusty Cooke of the Reds, with a dozen doubles each.

In the only other major change in the various offensive departments, Augie Galan of the Cubs broke a tie with Mel Ott of the Giants and took sole possession of the lead in runs batted in. He sent nine tallies across the plate during the week for a season total of 35, compared to 32 for Ott.

The Giants' slugger, however, retained the lead in scoring runs, with 35, to 30 for Billy Herman, Cubs' second sacker, and remained in second place in hitting homers. The home-run leader was Ival Goodman, Reds' fly-chaser, with ten for the year, compared to Ott's half-dozen.

Johnny Rizzo, Pirates' rookie, continued to lead in triples with five, compared to four for Brooklyn's Rosy Rosen and the Cincinnati mates, Goodman and Lew Riggs. Stan Hack and Augie Galan of the Cubs and Ernie Koy of Brooklyn were the base-stealing leaders, each with four.

Based on five decisions or more, the pitching pacemakers were the Giants' southpaw twins, Cliff Melton and King Carl Hubbell. Cliff's record was six victories and one defeat. Hubbell showed one less victory—five—and one setback.

Trailing Lavagetto and McCormick among the league's leading hitters were Hank Leiber of the Giants, third with .352; Tony Lazzeri, Cubs, with .351; Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh, and Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, deadlocked for fifth with .345; Stan Hack, Cubs, .340; Medwick, Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs and Morris Arnovich of the Phillies, each with .337.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The six-game winning streak of the Lake Charles Skippers was snapped tonight when the Rayne Rice Birds downed them, 5 to 4, and hurdled from fifth place to the No. 3 spot in the Evangeline league. The loss put only a slight dent in the standing of the top-flight Skippers.

Outhit, the Birds got to Black for nine safeties while his mates were garnering eleven off Kilgour, but the Rayne boys knew what to do with them in the pinches and put on a rally in the sixth inning that sewed up the contest.

At the same time the Opelousas Indians, who have begun to make losing a habit, dropped their sixth game in a row to Jeanerette. The lowly Blues reached up out of the Evangeline cellar to bowl over the Indians, 5 to 3, and shove them out of third place to a fourth-place tie with Lafayette.

The Blues and the Indians made nine hits apiece but the Red Men helped themselves to defeat with two bobbles in the field. Nevertheless their game was the fastest in the league this year. It went one hour and 35 minutes.

Burkhart pitched New Iberia to a 6 to 0 shutout over Abbeville. He allowed the Athletics six hits but all their men died on the bases while his teammates mangled Goss and Chappuis for eleven safeties that were neatly turned into runs.

But it was a good day for the teams in the league's lower brackets. Alexandria, in seventh place, battled the Lafayette White Sox eleven innings and finally took the contest, 2 to 1. It put Lafayette into a tie with Opelousas for fourth place. Fatheree yielded 10 hits for the Sox while his mates made eight off Flanagan.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—That forlorn-looking bird wandering around the rain-soaked streets here is Norment Quarles, classy southern lightweight. . . . Mr. Quarles, who fights Davey Day in the semi-windup of the Ross-Armstrong fight, blew in from Hendersonville, N. C., wearing navy blue trousers, a white coat, white perforated shoes, a tan straw hat and a blazing cravat. . . . Those cheers he got in Detroit after being roundly booed in St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago must have made Joe DiMaggio think he was back at the Yankee stadium. . . . One of the swellest jobs of umpiring seen here this season was turned in by Branch Rickey of the Cardinals from the right field stands of the Polo Grounds the other day.

Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Braddock and Alan Gould, sports editor of the AP, will be among the celebs who will act as guest columnists for Jack O'Brien, sports editor of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Times-Star when he goes on his vacation next week. . . . Connie Mack Berry, giant mound ace of North Carolina State college, has turned down a $1,000 bonus from the Yankees so he can play pro football with the Chicago Cardinals next fall. . . . White Sox fans to the tune of 6,500 daily are giving Comiskey park a wide berth ever since Zeke Bonura was traded to the Senators, and are pitching dinners for Zeke every time he appears in the vicinity.

One of the smartest of the Southeastern conference football coaches will have an announcement soon. . . . Phil Regan, the screen star, was chief second for his old pal, Pete Scalzo, when Pete fought George Karkella here the other night. . . . Lloyd Lewis, Chicago Daily News; Jimmy Jones, Richmond Times-Dispatch, and Pie Dufour of the New Orleans Item are late arrivals for Tuesday's fisticuffs. . . . Yankee writers telegraph home that Rudy York of the Tigers is an even worse flop in the outfield than he was behind the bat. . . . But Mickey Cochrane asks: "How can you keep a slugger like that out of the lineup?"

TROSKY REGAINS AMERICAN LEAD

Indian Holds Slight Margin Over Steinbacher; DiMaggio In Slump

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Cleveland's consistent Hal Trosky again rode in front of the American league batting parade last week after a fortnight of trailing slugging Joe DiMaggio.

The big first baseman regained first place with a mark of .383, semi-official averages including games of Friday disclosed, when his New York Yankee rival suddenly encountered a slump that sent his average skidding 61 points to .370. DiMaggio was hit hardest in a general decline affecting the four leaders last week. Trosky fell off 28 points, Ben Chapman of Boston 32 and Frank Hayes of Philadelphia nine.

Taking greatest advantage of the faltering pace-setters was Hank Steinbacher of Chicago's White Sox. Steinbacher advanced his total 30 points to .381, two behind Trosky.

Others in the "first ten" included Joe Cronin, Boston, .378; Earl Averill, Cleveland, .376; DiMaggio, .370; Hayes, .361; Chapman, .356; Jimmy Foxx, Boston, .347; Red Rolfe, New York, .342; Cecil Travis, Washington, .331; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, .331. Rolfe and Gehringer were newcomers in the select list.

Washington's Buddy Lewis continued to lead in hits with 51, in runs scored with 32 and in stolen bases with nine.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit broke his home run tie with Foxx by clouting his 11th, but Foxx retained honors in runs batted in with 46. Averill had four triples and Cronin 16 doubles to top these divisions.

Bob Grove of Boston had eight straight victories and Vern Kennedy of Detroit seven in a row without defeat to lead the pitchers.

Cleveland's .285 headed the team batting list and Washington's .976 was high in fielding. Forty-five double plays kept St. Louis ahead in this department.

ROSS PICKED TO DEFEAT ARMSTRONG TUESDAY

WELTER CHAMP FIGURES TO WIN HANDY DECISION

Barney Expected To Throw Some Real Punches In Postponed Engagement

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Unless the hand that so suddenly learned to caress has been dulled, Barney Ross should decisively defeat Henry Armstrong in 15 rounds in the Madison Square Garden Bowl in Queens, Tuesday night.

Eddie Meade says that Armstrong will earn $200,000 and win two more world championships within the next 12 months. Meade figures that the body belting Ross took in his winning effort against Ceferino Garcia in the Carnival of Champions at the Polo Grounds last August didn't do the welterweight champion any good.

The big boy from Hell's Kitchen points to the fact that Ross isn't the type that leans on an opponent, and suspects that Armstrong will flatten anybody who stands up straight. Hammering Henry is bigger than Ross from the waist up. Meade insists that the boy who has knocked out 38 of 40 opponents in 14 months can go lickety-split for 15 rounds.

Meade likes to believe that Ross fights only in flashes . . . that the Chicago kid coasts for two minutes of each round.

While the official contracts state that Ross and Armstrong are boxing at 147 pounds, they have private agreements calling for Ross to do 142 or less and Armstrong 136 or more, and each has posted a $5,000 forfeit.

Ross' natural weight is 142.

Armstrong, a pigeon-chested negro and a freak at making weight, scaled 136 in stopping Eddie Zivic and 133 in disposing of Lew Feldman in his last two starts. The Little Brown Bomber always works several rounds in the dressing room before appointments, although in this case there should be no need of dispensing with any surplus poundage.

His best natural weight right now is 135. They start even on the scales. If Ross is the Ross that fought Tony Canzoneri, Jimmy McLarnin, and that crowd, it should be no contest.

From what I've seen of Armstrong, he's a one-track fighter who has had a pull in poundage against a field of mediocre feathers.

I want to see how he reacts when he is hit, and if Ross is Ross, Hammering Henry will be tagged, honestly and truly.

Armstrong isn't going to rush Ross off his feet as he did Mike Belloise, Petey Sarron, and other dime-a-dozen featherweights.

Ross will spin Armstrong, tie the St. Louis kid up, and set him up for a solid smacko.

We may find out just how the Dust Cloud behaves on the floor.

I like Ross because he is one of those old-fashioned fighters who hits back. Only fighting men will get the importance of that. Sting Ross, and you've got a fight on your hands, and Henry Armstrong will have one, and I don't care how much ammunition he carries.

Ray Arcel, one of the smartest trainers in the business, says that Ross' right hand uppercut will win for him. That's the defensive prescription for chargers.

Ross knows what he is doing every minute.

Armstrong isn't bull-dozing a skinny-legged featherweight this trip.

He's in there with a healthy lightweight who happens to be defending the world welterweight championship.

And it is my ... that Barney Ross' natural fighting equipment, speed, condition, and intelligence will convince Henry Armstrong of the truth of what his best friends should tell him:

"Don't bite off more than you can chew, kid. Stay in your own league."

FIGHTERS TO CAMPS

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—Dusky Henry Armstrong, the featherweight champion and challenger for Barney Ross' welterweight title, returned to his Pompton Lakes, N. J., training camp today to resume preparations for Tuesday's title bout.

Armstrong wound up his camp work early this week but after the bout

Hagen Voted 'Greatest Tournament Golfer' Of U. S.

PGA Secretary Sends Out Questionnaire That Reveals 'Haig's' Popularity

By Arnold Derlitzki

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Walter Hagen rates as "the greatest tournament golfer" of them all in the hearts of his fellow professionals. Even over "Grand Slam" Bobby Jones himself, it was "The Haig," 2 to 1.

Walter Hagen

So ran the vote in questionnaires sent out recently by Tom Walsh, secretary of the National Professional Golfers association. After Hagen and Jones, the choices ranged from England's famed Harry Vardon to America's Harry Cooper.

In contrast to the general trend toward Hagen, who only last Thursday returned to his favored shores after a world tour, most disagreement among the pros came in naming the country's greatest golf course. More than 100 questionnaires listed 16 links. Pittsburgh's Oakmont and New Jersey's Pine Valley set the pace, neck and neck.

More personal inquiries disclosed two professionals—Neal Harrison of New York and J. A. Patterson of Los Angeles—never have played in a tournament, devoting their time instead to teaching and club duties.

William Horace Fulford, 52-year-old pro at St. Georges club, Stony Brook, N. Y., has made holes in one 10 times.

The questionnaire further disclosed: Better than three out of every four pros have made at least one hole in one; more began playing golf and also entered their first tournament at the age of 12 than at any other year; 50 per cent since have played in countries outside the United States and more than a third of this number on other continents.

Hunting and fishing are the predominant hobbies. The latter ranged from oil paintings of water scenes, favored by Leonard Schmutte of Findlay, O., to plain checkers by Ray Mangrum. Sam Parks is an amateur architect, Bobby Cruickshank likes his English setters, while Ned Everhart of the Miami Biltmore club goes for shirts and neckties with a touch of lavender.

DODGER SLUGGER PACES NATIONAL

Lavagetto Maintains Hitting Stride; Medwick Nosedives To Eighth Place

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The pitchers and nine other National league batters caught up with Ducky Medwick during the past week and bounced the Cardinals' clouter out of the loop hitting lead, down to a tie for eighth place in the standings.

While Cookie Lavagetto, the Dodgers' third baseman, and Buck McCormick, Cincinnati rookie, maintained a steady hitting pace to take over first and second place in the batting race, Ducky Wucky managed to collect only three safe hits in 23 chances during the seven-day span ending with Friday's games. As a result, his average nose-dived 66 points down to .337, where he just managed to remain in the league's top-ten hitting list.

Lavagetto, meantime, collected seven hits in 19 trips to the plate to post a .393 average for the season, regain the lead and hold a 20-point margin over his nearest rival. McCormick, getting 10 hits in 27 times up, had a second-place mark of .373.

The Reds' rookie, however, was one of the loop's most dangerous batters. In addition to his second-place in the hitting race, he led the league in hits, with 56 for the season, and in doubles, with 14. His nearest rivals in these departments were Stan Hack of the Cubs, with 48 hits, and Herschel Martin of the Phillies and Dusty Cooke of the Reds, with a dozen doubles each.

In the only other major change in the various offensive departments, Augie Galan of the Cubs broke a tie with Mel Ott of the Giants and took sole possession of the lead in runs batted in. He sent nine tallies across the plate during the week for a season total of 35, compared to 32 for Ott.

The Giants' slugger, however, retained the lead in scoring runs, with 35, to 30 for Billy Herman, Cubs' second sacker, and remained in second place in hitting homers. The home-run leader was Ival Goodman, Reds' fly-chaser, with ten for the year, compared to Ott's half-dozen.

Johnny Rizzo, Pirates' rookie, continued to lead in triples with five, compared to four for Brooklyn's Rosy Rosen and the Cincinnati mates, Goodman and Lew Riggs. Stan Hack and Augie Galan of the Cubs and Ernie Koy of Brooklyn were the base-stealing leaders, each with four.

Based on five decisions or more, the pitching pacemakers were the Giants' southpaw twins, Cliff Melton and King Carl Hubbell. Cliff's record was six victories and one defeat. Hubbell showed one less victory—five—and one setback.

Trailing Lavagetto and McCormick among the league's leading hitters were Hank Leiber of the Giants, third with .352; Tony Lazzeri, Cubs, with .351; Lloyd Waner, Pittsburgh, and Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati, deadlocked for fifth with .345; Stan Hack, Cubs, .340; Medwick, Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs and Morris Arnovich of the Phillies, each with .337.

CROSSETT MILLERS TRIM MAGNOLIA TEAM, 16 TO 0

CROSSETT, Ark., May 28.—(Special)—The Crossett Millers walloped the Magnolia, Ark., baseball club, 16 to 0, here tonight behind the two-hit pitching of Jessie Harrison, 17-year-old Crossett High school boy.

"Mule" Fryer led the Millers attack on two Magnolia hurlers with a home run, a triple, a double and a single.

Harrison hurled six innings, allowing only two safeties, and was given relief by McGregor in the sixth frame although the youngster was not in trouble.

The batteries were: Parker, Crawford and Eddington, Magnolia; Harrison, McGregor and Moore, Singletary, Crossett.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The six-game winning streak of the Lake Charles Skippers was snapped tonight when the Rayne Rice Birds downed them, 5 to 4, and hurdled from fifth place to the No. 3 spot in the Evangeline league. The loss put only a slight dent in the standing of the top-flight Skippers.

Outhit, the Birds got to Black for nine safeties while his mates were garnering eleven off Kilgour, but the Rayne boys knew what to do with them in the pinches and put on a rally in the sixth inning that sewed up the contest.

At the same time the Opelousas Indians, who have begun to make losing a habit, dropped their sixth game in a row to Jeanerette. The lowly Blues reached up out of the Evangeline cellar to bowl over the Indians, 5 to 3, and shove them out of third place to a fourth-place tie with Lafayette.

The Blues and the Indians made nine hits apiece but the Red Men helped themselves to defeat with two bobbles in the field. Nevertheless their game was the fastest in the league this year. It went one hour and 35 minutes.

Burkhart pitched New Iberia to a 6 to 0 shutout over Abbeville. He allowed the Athletics six hits but all their men died on the bases while his teammates mangled Goss and Chappuis for eleven safeties that were neatly turned into runs.

But it was a good day for the teams in the league's lower brackets. Alexandria, in seventh place, battled the Lafayette White Sox eleven innings and finally took the contest, 2 to 1. It put Lafayette into a tie with Opelousas for fourth place. Fatheree yielded 10 hits for the Sox while his mates made eight off Flanagan.

TROSKY REGAINS AMERICAN LEAD

CHICAGO, May 28.—(AP)—Cleveland's consistent Hal Trosky again rode in front of the American league batting parade last week after a fortnight of trailing slugging Joe DiMaggio.

The big first baseman regained first place with a mark of .383, semi-official averages including games of Friday disclosed, when his New York Yankee rival suddenly encountered a slump that sent his average skidding 61 points to .370. DiMaggio was hit hardest in a general decline affecting the four leaders last week. Trosky fell off 28 points, Ben Chapman of Boston 32 and Frank Hayes of Philadelphia nine.

Taking greatest advantage of the faltering pace-setters was Hank Steinbacher of Chicago's White Sox. Steinbacher advanced his total 30 points to .381, two behind Trosky.

Others in the "first ten" included Joe Cronin, Boston, .378; Earl Averill, Cleveland, .376; DiMaggio, .370; Hayes, .361; Chapman, .356; Jimmy Foxx, Boston, .347; Red Rolfe, New York, .342; Cecil Travis, Washington, .331; Charley Gehringer, Detroit, .331. Rolfe and Gehringer were newcomers in the select list.

Washington's Buddy Lewis continued to lead in hits with 51, in runs scored with 32 and in stolen bases with nine.

Hank Greenberg of Detroit broke his home run tie with Foxx by clouting his 11th, but Foxx retained honors in runs batted in with 46. Averill had four triples and Cronin 16 doubles to top these divisions.

Bob Grove of Boston had eight straight victories and Vern Kennedy of Detroit seven in a row without defeat to lead the pitchers.

Cleveland's .285 headed the team batting list and Washington's .976 was high in fielding. Forty-five double plays kept St. Louis ahead in this department.

SPORTY LAYOUT TO BE SCENE OF ANNUAL TOURNEY

Many Golfers Praise Nine-Hole Course Designed By Jim McKenzie

Despite the fact that it's a comparatively new course, as the age of golf courses are measured, the McGuire Park club's layout already has attracted considerable interest throughout the southwest as one of the sportiest nine hole courses in this section.

Designed and constructed by Professional Jim McKenzie, an expert in golf course construction, the links was completed approximately three years ago and formally opened to the public on July 18, 1935. From the very start, the fairways and greens were in excellent condition and under Pro McKenzie's supervision, the course has been kept in top-notch shape through summer and winter.

The course, in a picturesque setting, provides a real test for any golfer, as many top-flight shotmakers have testified after playing it. Freddie Haas, U. S. Walker Cupper who is now campaigning in Scotland, was the latest well known golfer to compliment the layout. Freddie said it was a sporty course that was anything but easy, even for the experts.

A number of improvements have been made at McGuire during the past three years. Chief improvement have been the enlargement of the clubhouse to approximately twice its original size and beautifying of the grounds surrounding the clubhouse.

The McGuire course, as far as is known, has the only fairway sprinkling system in Louisiana. The system was installed at a cost of approximately $2,000.

The No. 1 hole, which is 300 yards long and has a par 5, is an unusually good starting hole. With a slightly dog-leg fairway, the hole offers no difficulties if the player remains in the fairway, but a lake on the left and rough on the right present hazards that may easily spoil one's score.

No. 2 is 355 yards long and par 4. It requires a good drive and a very accurate iron shot. The green is well trapped.

No. 3 is a 457-yard hole and par is 5. It probably is the "softest" hole on It probably is teh "softest" hole on paratively easy to par the hole consistently.

After parring No. 3, however, the average golfer will find No. 4 a harder nut to crack. It's 405 yards long and par is four. The fairway dog-legs to the left and requires a very accurate drive and an even more accurate iron shot. Several hazards around the green don't help matters any.

No. 5 is 195 yards long and has a par three. It takes an accurate iron to avoid difficulties.

No. 6 is another par four hole, being 417 yards long. It dog-legs to the right and again the well-trapped green may make trouble.

Another par four hole is No. 7, which is 335 yards long. It takes a good drive and an accurate pitch to negotiate the hole in par figures.

No. 8 is the shortest hole on the course, 133 yards, but it also is the most interesting. The shot is over a wide water hazard, through the trees It is the most beautiful hole of the entire layout. Par is three.

The ninth hole is 425 yards long and par is four. It not only takes some accurate shooting from the tee, but after the green is reached, the putting skill of any golfer is taxed. The rolling green makes it easy to three-putt and a number of players already have seen their scores soar after shooting the first eight holes in creditable figures.

ATLANTA STAR'S PUTTING ABILITY BEATS IRISHMAN

Crowd Of 7,000 Sees Bobby Jones' Fellow-Townsman Cop Final Match

By Scotty Reston

TROON, Scotland, May 28.—(AP)—Charley Yates, relying on his heart when his putter wouldn't work, won the British amateur golf championship today by defeating Cecil Ewing of Ireland, 3 and 2, in the 36-hole final, and thus re-established Atlanta as the golf capital of the United States.

Bobby Jones' cheerful fellow-townsman won it on the 34th green, and on this green, as indeed on almost every green, both his heart and his putter were in good shape.

Gigantic Baldish Ewing, a stubborn and lion-hearted player, had cut Yates' lead to two and, in a last desperate effort, had exploded out of the sand and dropped his putt for a par 5. Yates, after three picture shots, was on the green in three—eight feet from the pin.

The crowd of 7,000 fought and elbowed for positions around the green When they finally fell silent Yates struck the ball squarely into the cup, and the silence abruptly was broken by a terrific yell.

The crowd rushed for Yates Charley got to the hole in time to rescue the ball, and a moment later was high on the galleryites' shoulders.

In another instant he disappeared but they got him aloft again and there he stayed.

They like this fair-haired lad over here.

Yates decided tonight that his new fast putting stroke was responsible for his success.

Charley said he really wasn't worried out there. Although he paid the highest tribute to Ewing, notably for the Irishman's courageous finish, Charley added:

"They weren't dropping for me but I knew I could go on hitting the ball."

Right down the stretch, when Ewing made his bid after finishing the morning eighteen one down, Yates consistently hit his approaches nearer the hole.

Probably the greatest round he played in the tournament was against Cyril Tolley in yesterday's quarter-finals, when he started by sinking a mashie shot and almost knocked the back out of the cup at every green on the first nine. He was well under 4's for the entire week, a miraculous performance considering the weather and the fact that this was his first tournament in the bitter British winds.

"I decided when I got here I was gonna miss 'em quick," he said, "and the faster I putted the better I did. I'm not one of these guys who's got no nerves. I've got 'em and when I put fast they don't get a chance."

In the moment of his triumph, Yates remembered his Walker Cup teammate, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, whom he beat on a stymie at the 19th in the first round. After Johnny had congratulated him and gone away, Yates said, "Sometimes I think I played the final last Tuesday."

Although Yates didn't go out front until the seventh hole, it never seemed that Ewing could beat him. Ewing, who had a 75 to Charley's 74 in the morning, scrambled most of the afternoon while Yates hit the ball better as the day wore on and played the last nineteen holes in even par.

The United States Walker Cupers will play at Gleneagles tomorrow and will arrive at St. Andrews at night. Yates, however, won't play. He'll rest for a couple of days.

The cards for the final:

3 TEAMS ADVANCE IN DAVIS CUP MATCHES

(By Associated Press)

Germany, one of the favorites, France and India forged to the front in quarter-final matches of the European zone Davis Cup competition yesterday.

The German team, which has regained some of its lost prestige through the addition of the Viennese player, Georg von Metaxa, after Baron Gottfried von Cramm was lost, gained a 2-1 lead over Hungary. France won its first two singles matches from Italy at Paris and India, which hadn't played previously this year, took a 1-0 lead over Belgium at Brussels.

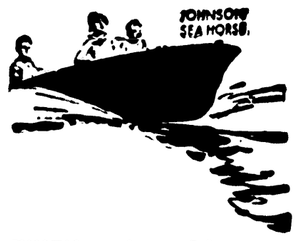

Von Metaxa lost his singles match to Emil Gabory, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 2-6, 7-5, after having held the lead when it was halted by darkness Friday. He paired with Henner Henkel, however, to whip George Dallos and Asboth, 5-7, 6-1, 8-6, 6-3.

For France, Yvon Petra defeated Valentino Taroni of Italy, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3, while Bernard Destremau whipped Vanni Canepele, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 7-5. India's opening victory was scored by Mohammed Ghaus, who turned back Charles Navogrt, 5-7, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1, 9-7.

The fourth pairing in the quarter-finals pits Yugoslavia, which has become a strong favorite because of its victories over Czechoslovakia and Great Britain, against Sweden.

The fact that the coconut will float in salty water for months, without injury to the seed, is thought to be the reason for the wide distribution of the plant.

SPORTY LAYOUT TO BE SCENE OF ANNUAL TOURNEY

Despite the fact that it's a comparatively new course, as the age of golf courses are measured, the McGuire Park club's layout already has attracted considerable interest throughout the southwest as one of the sportiest nine hole courses in this section.

Designed and constructed by Professional Jim McKenzie, an expert in golf course construction, the links was completed approximately three years ago and formally opened to the public on July 18, 1935. From the very start, the fairways and greens were in excellent condition and under Pro McKenzie's supervision, the course has been kept in top-notch shape through summer and winter.

The course, in a picturesque setting, provides a real test for any golfer, as many top-flight shotmakers have testified after playing it. Freddie Haas, U. S. Walker Cupper who is now campaigning in Scotland, was the latest well known golfer to compliment the layout. Freddie said it was a sporty course that was anything but easy, even for the experts.

A number of improvements have been made at McGuire during the past three years. Chief improvement have been the enlargement of the clubhouse to approximately twice its original size and beautifying of the grounds surrounding the clubhouse.

The McGuire course, as far as is known, has the only fairway sprinkling system in Louisiana. The system was installed at a cost of approximately $2,000.

The No. 1 hole, which is 500 yards long and has a par 5, is an unusually good starting hole. With a slightly dog-leg fairway, the hole offers no difficulties if the player remains in the fairway, but a lake on the left and rough on the right present hazards that may easily spoil one's score.

No. 2 is 355 yards long and par 4. It requires a good drive and a very accurate iron shot. The green is well trapped.

No. 3 is a 457-yard hole and par is 5. It probably is the "sofest" hole on It probably is teh "softest" hole on paratively easy to par the hole consistently.

After parring No. 3, however, the average golfer will find No. 4 a harder nut to crack. It's 405 yards long and par is four. The fairway dog-legs to the left and requires a very accurate drive and an even more accurate iron shot. Several hazards around the green don't help matters any.

No. 5 is 195 yards long and has a par three. It takes an accurate iron to avoid difficulties.

No. 6 is another par four hole, being 417 yards long. It dog-legs to the right and again the well-trapped green may make trouble.

Another par four hole is No. 7, which is 335 yards long. It takes a good drive and an accurate pitch to negotiate the hole in par figures.

No. 8 is the shortest hole on the course, 133 yards, but it also is the most interesting. The shot is over a wide water hazard, through the trees. It is the most beautiful hole of the entire layout. Par is three.

The ninth hole is 425 yards long and par is four. It not only takes some accurate shooting from the tee, but after the green is reached, the putting skill of any golfer is taxed. The rolling green makes it easy to three-putt and a number of players already have seen their scores soar after shooting the first eight holes in creditable figures.

WELTER CHAMP FIGURES TO WIN

was twice postponed because of rainy weather Thursday and Friday, he decided to go back to his country retreat and get in a few more licks.

Ross remained in New York but had only a light workout. He did four miles of road work this morning but when the scales showed 140½ pounds after that session, his manager cancelled a scheduled boxing session in Stillman's gym and let him go to the ball game at the Polo Grounds instead. Barney is due to box four rounds tomorrow.

Armstrong shared the training camp and the limelight with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who has just begun training at Pompton Lakes for his June 22 title defense against Max Schmeling.

With no further worries about making the 163-pound weight agreed upon for the official weighing-in last Thursday, Hurricane Hennery went through a spirited five-round session which probably worked off a pound or two.

Ross, who had to get down to 142 under the terms of the match, weighed in at 141¾. When he dropped below that mark today his managers began to worry about over-training.

newcomers. Fullerton and Nugent have demonstrated they can go. Records indicate that Howell and Yelovic also should be able to win in the Cotton States.

When Lee Rock was hurt, a call went out for a first sacker and one was obtained from Springfield. Earlier, when it appeared that Frank Narbut couldn't fill the right field slot satisfactorily, Fred Bennett, a veteran of known hitting ability, was brought in to plug the hole. There have been other instances where Monroe owners have made every effort to strengthen the team.

Messrs. Adler, Bendel and Meredith have full-time duties to perform, yet they've given their time freely in an effort to improve the ball club. They were entirely responsible for saving baseball for Monroe. They put up their own money to buy the franchise and have devoted many hours to the business affairs of the team since they took over the reins.

Mr. Adler operates an automobile agency. Dr. Bendel, a prominent physician, has many civic responsibilities, including the presidency of the Rotary club. Mr. Meredith is auditor of the two newspapers here. Yet each, with his many other duties, has taken time out to attend to baseball affairs in an effort to give baseball fans of this section a winner.

We think all three have done a fine job. And they're still trying.

'PORTERS RALLY TO TAKE OPENER

charged with the loss, although four of the runs were put on the sacks by Yelovic's wildness. Four walks by the new hurler, plus three singles off Nugent tells the tale.

Monroe took an early lead and it looked as if the Sox would coast through to an easy victory. Yelovic gave no evidence that he was getting ready to lose sight of the plate, and it seemed that he would best Pete Raymond in a game that wouldn't be very close. In other words, Yelovic seemed well on his way to a 4-0 shutout victory over the Seaporters.

However, the complexion of the ball game was changed in the eighth, and how!

Catcher Tennant, first up, walked, the first base on balls issued by Yelovic. Raymond skied to Rhea in center and then Vinson forced Tennant at second for the second out, and everybody was happy. Then came the bad news. McNulty, Hicks and Sutherlin walked in succession, the pass to Sutherlin forcing Vinson across the plate. That made four bases on balls for Yelovic, and Manager "Red" Harvel waved him to the showers. Tex Nugent took up the hurling chores. Olson greeted Tex with a single that scored McNulty and Hicks. Weisler also singled, scoring Sutherlin, and the old ball game was tied up. Then Savage singled to score Olson and Weisler, who stole second, and there went Monroe's chances for victory. Nugent intentionally walked Tennant and then forced Raymond to ground out, Conway to Pete Medak, the new first baseman.

The damage was done, however, and Monroe could not overcome the two-run advantage held by the Seaporters.

The Sox scored their first run in the first inning. Rhea singled, was sacrificed to second by Conway, went to third on Schang's infield out and scored when Vinson bobbled Bennett's grounder.

Two runs crossed the plate for the Sox in the third. Yelovic walked to start the inning and Rhea got his second hit, a single to left. Conway skied to Savage at third but Bobby Schang doubled to center to score Yelovic. Bennett was hit but Rhea scored as Hackney's grounder to Vinson forced Bennett at second.

The fourth Monroe run came in the sixth inning. With one out, Bennett walked, stole second, went to third on Hackney's infield out and scored when "Pudge" Webb slapped a single to left. Medak got a scratch single but Taylor struck out to end the rally.

Yelovic pitched a great game until the eighth. He was rarely behind a batter and had allowed only four hits. His control seemed perfect, but he suddenly lost it and that proved his downfall.

Raymond also pitched well. Pete allowed only seven hits, struck out eight and walked three.

Johnny Conway pulled perhaps the greatest play ever seen in the local park in the sixth inning. With two on, McNulty hit a line drive to the left of second base that looked like a sure single. Conway, however, was off with the crack of the bat, made a one-hand stab of the ball and fell. He caught it, then threw to second to complete a most spectacular double play.

Pete Medak, first baseman obtained from Springfield, made his debut with the Sox and wasn't particularly impressive. Pete made an error and got a scratch hit, but club officials were confident that he would show up to better advantage after his "travel legs" had worn off.

Clarksdale's Red Sox pushed El Dorado out of second place in the Cotton States league Saturday night by handing the Lions an 8-to-5 beating in a 10-inning game.

The Lions, fighting to keep from slipping down to the No. 3 spot, called on two hurlers, Hearn and Harrist, but the Sox got to them for 11 hits and rammed over three tallies in the final stanza that blew El Dorado out of the ball game.

Pine Bluff bounced 15 hits around the ears of Beazley, Greenville hurler, and paraded to an 11-to-2 victory over the league-leading Buckshots. The Bucks made their two tallies in the fifth frame but the Judges scored almost at will and took full advantage of some sloppy Buckshot fielding.

Greenwood marched out three hurlers to embarrass the Hot Springs Bathers, and dunked them, 11 to 7. The Bathers made 10 safeties off the impressive talent arrayed against them. Not to be outdone, they too marched out three pitchers. The Dodgers smacked 13 hits off them. But the Bathers gave a lovely exhibition of bad fielding. They made four errors. So they sank further into the league cellar.

Each team got seven hits, with Olson hogging batting honors with three safeties. Rhea and Webb of the Sox got two hits each.

DODGERS SHADE BEES

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—Fine relief pitching by Fred Frankhouse and Tot Pressnell enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to end their five game losing streak today by nosing out the Bees 6 to 5.

The Dodgers did all their scoring, including a two-run homer by Gil Brack in the second, off Milt Shoffner. Ray Mueller hit a homer for Boston.

Rookie Max West, Boston flychaser, was slightly injured in crashing into the left field fence.

CUBS WALLOP PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—(AP)—Chicago's fast stepping Cubs crushed the slipping Pirates today with a nine run rally in the seventh which was good for a 9 to 3 victory, their ninth triumph in ten games and the Pirates' eighth defeat in ten.

Russell Bauers sailed along nicely for Pittsburgh until the fatal seventh. When things cleared, 14 Cubs had batted and Truett Sewell was on the mound.

WELTER CHAMP FIGURES TO WIN

was twice postponed because of rainy weather Thursday and Friday, he decided to go back to his country retreat and get in a few more licks.

Ross remained in New York but had only a light workout. He did four miles of road work this morning but when the scales showed 140½ pounds after that session, his manager cancelled a scheduled boxing session in Stillman's gym and let him go to the ball game at the Polo Grounds instead. Barney is due to box four rounds tomorrow.

Armstrong shared the training camp and the limelight with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, who has just begun training at Pompton Lakes for his June 22 title defense against Max Schmeling.

With no further worries about making the 163-pound weight agreed upon for the official weighing-in last Thursday, Hurricane Hennery went through a spirited five-round session which probably worked off a pound or two.

Ross, who had to get down to 142 under the terms of the match, weighed in at 141¾. When he dropped below that mark today his managers began to worry about over-training.

newcomers. Fullerton and Nugent have demonstrated they can go. Records indicate that Howell and Yelovic also should be able to win in the Cotton States.

When Les Rock was hurt, a call went out for a first sacker and one was obtained from Springfield. Earlier, when it appeared that Frank Narbut couldn't fill the right field slot satisfactorily, Fred Bennett, a veteran of known hitting ability, was brought in to plug the hole. There have been other instances where Monroe owners have made every effort to strengthen the team.

Messrs. Adler, Bendel and Meredith have full-time duties to perform, yet they've given their time freely in an effort to improve the ball club. They were entirely responsible for saving baseball for Monroe. They put up their own money to buy the franchise and have devoted many hours to the business affairs of the team since they took over the reins.

Mr. Adler operates an automobile agency. Dr. Bendel, a prominent physician, has many civic responsibilities, including the presidency of the Rotary club. Mr. Meredith is auditor of the two newspapers here. Yet each, with his many other duties, has taken time out to attend to baseball affairs in an effort to give baseball fans of this section a winner.

We think all three have done a fine job. And they're still trying.

charged with the loss, although four of the runs were put on the sacks by Yelovic's wildness. Four walks by the new hurler, plus three singles off Nugent tells the tale.

Monroe took an early lead and it looked as if the Sox would coast through to an easy victory. Yelovic gave no evidence that he was getting ready to lose sight of the plate, and it seemed that he would best Pete Raymond in a game that wouldn't be very close. In other words, Yelovic seemed well on his way to a 4-0 shutout victory over the Seaporters.

However, the complexion of the ball game was changed in the eighth, and how!

Catcher Tennant, first up, walked, the first base on balls issued by Yelovic. Raymond skied to Rhea in center and then Vinson forced Tennant at second for the second out, and everybody was happy. Then came the bad news. McNulty, Hicks and Sutherlin walked in succession, the pass to Sutherlin forcing Vinson across the plate. That made four bases on balls for Yelovic, and Manager "Red" Harvel waved him to the showers. Tex Nugent took up the hurling chores. Olson greeted Tex with a single that scored McNulty and Hicks. Weisler also singled, scoring Sutherlin, and the old ball game was tied up. Then Savage singled to score Olson and Weisler, who stole second, and there went Monroe's chances for victory. Nugent intentionally walked Tennant and then forced Raymond to ground out, Conway to Pete Medak, the new first baseman.

The damage was done, however, and Monroe could not overcome the two-run advantage held by the Seaporters.

The Sox scored their first run in the first inning. Rhea singled, was sacrificed to second by Conway, went to third on Schang's infield out and scored when Vinson bobbled Bennett's grounder.

Two runs crossed the plate for the Sox in the third. Yelovic walked to start the inning and Rhea got his second hit, a single to left. Conway skied to Savage at third but Bobby Schang doubled to center to score Yelovic. Bennett was hit but Rhea scored as Hackney's grounder to Vinson forced Bennett at second.

The fourth Monroe run came in the sixth inning. With one out, Bennett walked, stole second, went to third on Hackney's infield out and scored when "Pudge" Webb slapped a single to left. Medak got a scratch single but Taylor struck out to end the rally.

Yelovic pitched a great game until the eighth. He was rarely behind a batter and had allowed only four hits. His control seemed perfect, but he suddenly lost it and that proved his downfall.

Raymond also pitched well. Pete allowed only seven hits, struck out eight and walked three.

Johnny Conway pulled perhaps the greatest play ever seen in the local park in the sixth inning. With two on, McNulty hit a line drive to the left of second base that looked like a sure single. Conway, however, was off with the crack of the bat, made a one-hand stab of the ball and fell. He caught it, then threw to second to complete a most spectacular double play.

Pete Medak, first baseman obtained from Springfield, made his debut with the Sox and wasn't particularly impressive. Pete made an error and got a scratch hit, but club officials were confident that he would show up to better advantage after his "travel legs" had worn off.

Clarksdale's Red Sox pushed El Dorado out of second place in the Cotton States league Saturday night by handing the Lions an 8-to-5 beating in a 10-inning game.

The Lions, fighting to keep from slipping down to the No. 3 spot, called on two hurlers, Hearn and Harrist, but the Sox got to them for 11 hits and rammed over three tallies in the final stanza that blew El Dorado out of the ball game.

Pine Bluff bounced 15 hits around the ears of Beazley, Greenville hurler, and paraded to an 11-to-2 victory over the league-leading Buckshots. The Bucks made their two tallies in the fifth frame but the Judges scored almost at will and took full advantage of some sloppy Buckshot fielding.

Greenwood marched out three hurlers to embarrass the Hot Springs Bathers, and dunked them, 11 to 7. The Bathers made 10 safeties off the impressive talent arrayed against them. Not to be outdone, they too marched out three pitchers. The Dodgers smacked 13 hits off them. But the Bathers gave a lovely exhibition of bad fielding. They made four errors. So they sank further into the league cellar.

Each team got seven hits, with Olson hogging batting honors with three safeties. Rhea and Webb of the Sox got two hits each.

Edna Nelson Forrest, negro, charged with disturbing the peace, was a prisoner in the Ouachita parish jail last night. The negro was arrested yesterday by members of the sheriff's department.

'BUDDY POPPY' SALE SUCCESS

The annual "Buddy Poppy" sale of the Veterans of Foreign Wars conducted in Monroe Saturday proved an outstanding success, the sum being raised equalling the goal that had been established in advance of the sale. Nineteen workers were busily engaged in conducting the sale, in which the auxiliary lent assistance to the post. Downtown Monroe was ready in its cooperation and in three hours' time the last of the flowers was sold.

E. H. Miller, commander of the Rodney J. Hobbs post, expressed in behalf of the organization his thanks to the press, radio station and to the public generally for their cooperation.

The money raised will be used to provide necessities of life for local disabled and needy veterans and their families or for widows and orphans of former veterans.

'MODEL HOME' TO BE BUILT HERE

Project To Be Sponsored By Slagle-Johnson And Johns-Manville

Announcement that a "Model Duplex Apartment Home" will be built in Monroe was made Saturday by J. G. Burgess, manager of the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company. The project is sponsored by the local lumber company and the Johns-Manville Roofing company, in cooperation with the Federal Housing administration.

The structure will be the first "model exhibition home" erected in Monroe in the last 12 years.

The house will be located at the corner of North Fifth and K streets, and construction work has already begun. It will be completely furnished through the additional cooperation of a local furniture company, and when completed will be open for public inspection. The public is also invited to inspect the work while it is in progress. The project is being undertaken in connection with a statewide home demonstration program initiated by the Louisiana Retail Lumber Dealers association in cooperation with the Federal Housing administration.

In connection with the project a $10 cash award will be made for the best and most appropriate name for the model duplex apartment home, together with a letter listing the various materials used in the construction and "why these materials are best for use in building." The letters, with the suggested name of the apartment home must be submitted to the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company on or before June 30.

Materials to be used in constructing the home will include Johns-Manville asbestos roofing and shingle siding, rock wool insulation, Celotex, Johns-Manville Flex-board, scored wainscoting and aluminum molding. The lumber will be Frost pine.

The contractor is W. V. Clark, for more than 15 years engaged in the contracting business. J. Y. Hamilton, the supervisor, has been a builder of homes for more than 20 years. Other craftsmen employed to assist in the construction will include W. B. Waldroup, John McKaskle, A. J. Mallard, J. N. LaGrone.

Business firms who will furnish materials and services will include Montgomery Ward and company, plumbing; Jones Electric company, electricians; Luneau, Southall and Bledsoe, interior decorating; Sherwin-Williams company, paints; Zephyr company, attic ventilation; Service Tile company, tile; Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, glass construction brick.

SPEAKER

CHOUDRANT GRADS GIVEN DIPLOMAS

CHOUDRANT, La., May 28.—(Special)—Graduation exercises were held for the seniors of Choudrant High school Thursday in the auditorium of the new high school building. A pageant, "The Open Road," was a feature of the exercises which were witnessed by approximately 1,250 persons.

WEBB'S NIGHT CLUB IS POPULAR PLACE

Lucian Webb's night club, located on the Shreveport highway on the outskirts of West Monroe, is one of the most popular entertainment spots in this section of the state, catering to the college set as well as to a high class clientele who appreciate good catering.

Mr. Webb takes particular pains to see that all customers are courteously served and operates his establishment on the highest plane.

The public is invited to visit Webb's night club, one of Ouachita parish's outstanding establishments of its kind.

Castor, cocoanut, corn, cottonseed, linseed, olive, palm kernel, peanut, and soy bean oils are the most commonly used oils for soap making in the United States.

DRAINAGE PROJECT AT SICILY ISLAND OKAYED

JONESVILLE, La., May 28.—(Special)—According to advices from Washington, D. C., presidential approval has been given to a WPA drainage project at Sicily Island which is to cost $6,477.

The project is for deepening and widening the channel of the Black bayou drainage canal for the purpose of improving drainage of highways, roads and streets, in the vicinity of Leland in Catahoula parish, near Sicily Island, including clearing and grubbing of land, excavating and performing of incidental work necessary to facilitate run-off of surface water.

Upon final clearance by the comptroller, the project becomes eligible for operation at the discretion of the works progress administrator and it is expected that the project will be completed this summer.

RIVERSIDE BUSES TO CHANGE ROUTE

A change in routing of city buses on the Riverside run is contemplated this week, according to an announcement yesterday.

The new routing will call for Riverside buses to run through Forsythe park during the afternoon runs, turning into Forsythe avenue instead of continuing through to Park avenue.

The change in routing is designed for the convenience of users of the new swimming pool and is expected to go into efefct next Wednesday after the black-topping of Forsythe avenue is finished.

CLASS TO GRADUATE

The commencement exercises of the Francis Beauty college will be held at 206 Jackson street, Monday at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

'MODEL HOME' TO BE BUILT HERE

Project To Be Sponsored By Slagle-Johnson And Johns-Manville

Announcement that a "Model Duplex Apartment Home" will be built in Monroe was made Saturday by J. G. Burgess, manager of the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company. The project is sponsored by the local lumber company and the Johns-Manville Roofing company, in cooperation with the Federal Housing administration.

The structure will be the first "model exhibition home" erected in Monroe in the last 12 years.

The house will be located at the corner of North Fifth and K streets, and construction work has already begun. It will be completely furnished through the additional cooperation of a local furniture company, and when completed will be open for public inspection. The public is also invited to inspect the work while it is in progress. The project is being undertaken in connection with a statewide home demonstration program initiated by the Louisiana Retail Lumber Dealers association in cooperation with the Federal Housing administration.

In connection with the project a $10 cash award will be made for the best and most appropriate name for the model duplex apartment home, together with a letter listing the various materials used in the construction and "why these materials are best for use in building." The letters, with the suggested name of the apartment home must be submitted to the Slagle-Johnson Lumber company on or before June 30.

Materials to be used in constructing the home will include Johns-Manville asbestos roofing and shingle siding, rock wool insulation, Celotex, Johns-Manville Flex-board, scored wainscoting and aluminum molding. The lumber will be Frost pine.

The contractor is W. V. Clark, for more than 15 years engaged in the contracting business. J. Y. Hamilton, the supervisor, has been a builder of homes for more than 20 years. Other craftsmen employed to assist in the construction will include W. B. Waldroup, John McKaskle, A. J. Mallard, J. N. LaGrone.

Business firms who will furnish materials and services will include Montgomery Ward and company, plumbing; Jones Electric company, electricians; Luneau, Southall and Bledsoe, interior decorating; Sherwin-Williams company, paints; Zephyr company, attic ventilation; Service Tile company, tile; Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, glass construction brick.

SPEAKER

DRAINAGE PROJECT AT SICILY ISLAND OKAYED

JONESVILLE, La., May 28.—(Special)—According to advices from Washington, D. C., presidential approval has been given to a WPA drainage project at Sicily Island which is to cost $6,477.

The project is for deepening and widening the channel of the Black bayou drainage canal for the purpose of improving drainage of highways, roads and streets, in the vicinity of Leland in Catahoula parish, near Sicily Island, including clearing and grubbing of land, excavating and performing of incidental work necessary to facilitate run-off of surface water.

Upon final clearance by the comptroller, the project becomes eligible for operation at the discretion of the works progress administrator and it is expected that the project will be completed this summer.

RIVERSIDE BUSES TO CHANGE ROUTE

A change in routing of city buses on the Riverside run is contemplated this week, according to an announcement yesterday.

The new routing will call for Riverside buses to run through Forsythe park during the afternoon runs, turning into Forsythe avenue instead of continuing through to Park avenue.

The change in routing is designed for the convenience of users of the new swimming pool and is expected to go into efefct next Wednesday after the black-topping of Forsythe avenue is finished.

CLASS TO GRADUATE

The commencement exercises of the Francis Beauty college will be held at 206 Jackson street, Monday at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

'BUDDY POPPY' SALE SUCCESS

The annual "Buddy Poppy" sale of the Veterans of Foreign Wars conducted in Monroe Saturday proved an outstanding success, the sum being raised equalling the goal that had been established in advance of the sale. Nineteen workers were busily engaged in conducting the sale, in which the auxiliary lent assistance to the post. Downtown Monroe was ready in its cooperation and in three hours' time the last of the flowers was sold.

E. H. Miller, commander of the Rodney J. Hobbs post, expressed in behalf of the organization his thanks to the press, radio station and to the public generally for their cooperation.

The money raised will be used to provide necessities of life for local disabled and needy veterans and their families or for widows and orphans of former veterans.

Local Teachers Plan Interesting Vacations As End Of Year's Labor Arrives

Graduates Center Of Attention Nowadays

Many Instructors Will Attend Summer School; Others Plan Trips To Far Away Places

Every head bows and every knee bends in deference to the graduates of 1938, all of whom are stars in a great drama enacted every year when June advances.

[illegible] that graduates advance across the stage trailing clouds of glory and the young men walk with great assurance and very much the master of the situation. Mothers and fathers, realizing happiness and exceedingly proud of their offspring, cater to their slightest whim and small brothers and sisters discover for the first time the importance of commencement.

While the graduates are being feted, lionized, dined and admired, what of the teachers? These are the days that try their souls. They have toiled and labored, side by side with pupils who are now reaping the benefits of their labors. They have helped the backward student over the rough places, they have given their moral support to the discouraged ones and listened patiently to the trials and tribulations of the class as a whole. With vacation time at hand, the great majority of teachers will enter colleges and universities throughout the country for advanced work which will enable them to meet in more efficient manner the task awaiting them when another school year rolls around.

A large aggregation of teachers will attend summer school at L. P. I. in Ruston. From the Georgia Tucker school there will be Miss Alyce Florence, Miss Gertrude Hart, Mrs. F. D. Lippman, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. L. R. Oglesby, Miss Mary Trousdale, Miss Gladys Miller, Miss Annie Whittle, Mrs. S. Solomon, Mrs. Alex Willcocks, Mrs. Howard Willard. Miss Myrtle Rodgers will attend the National Education association convention in New York City, June 26 and Miss [illegible] will enter Columbia university for special work.

Miss Olive Leigh Myatt will spend the summer in New York City and Miss W. R. Hammond will spend the month of June in Louisville, Ky., with relatives.

Miss Grace Ingledue, instructor in dramatics at Northeast Center L. S. U., will attend the L. S. U. commencement exercises at Baton Rouge where she will receive her degree of doctor of philosophy. On June 25, Miss Ingledue will sail from New York City for a visit in foreign countries including Portugal, north Africa, Italy, Belgium, Greece, France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and England. The trip includes a Mediterranean cruise.

Several members of the Ouachita parish school faculty have planned interesting vacations. Miss Clara Hood will spend the summer in New York City. Miss Wylena Reynolds will spend the summer in Colorado and will attend summer school in Fort Collins. Mrs. Jack Morgan will move into her beautiful new home in Shreveport which has just been completed. Mrs. Mumford Leake, accompanied by Mr. Leake, will leave June 10 on a motor tour through the mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina and will visit in Washington and New York City and interesting points along the Atlantic coast including Cape Cod and Boston.

Miss Chloe Steele will attend the University of Chicago and Miss Ola Pennington will spend the summer in Columbia, Mo., visiting friends and relatives. Miss Carrie Dee Drew will travel extensively through the west. Mrs. T. V. Simmons will spend the summer in Chicago with her daughter, Mrs. Noble Larsen, and Mr. Larsen. Mrs. E. B. Stover will attend summer school at Southern Methodist university in Dallas. She will specialize in Spanish, French and German. Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein will spend a few weeks at Camp Windywood and later in the summer will visit in Washington and other eastern cities.

Miss Frances Wilson will motor with a party of friends through the Great Smoky Mountains National park with a visit in Washington, Philadelphia and New York City, en route. She will later visit her sister in Eaton, Pa., and her brother in Buffalo, N. Y. Mrs. Jack Hayes will spend the summer with her father in Corydon, Ky. Mrs. Henry Littlepage will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Waller, in Morganfield, Ky. Miss Mary Carruth will spend the summer with her parents in Fort Smith, Ark. Mrs. Sara B. Welsh will work on her master's degree at L. S. U. Miss Mildred Sherrod will study at Columbia university, N. Y., following a visit in Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. George Riser will spend the summer in Ruston and New Orleans. Miss Ann Platt will sail June 25 for a summer of travel in foreign countries. Following a Mediterranean cruise she will visit the Azores, Gibraltar, Algiers and make a complete tour of Italy including the famous Lake District. She will travel through western Europe and visit Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Berlin, Paris, Holland and a week in London. Two weeks will be spent touring Scotland and England. She will return home on the Queen Mary September 5.

The Sundial

By Eve C. Bradford

THE DAYS GROW LONGER. May merges into June and our friends roll in by train and motor. It is vacation time and students are arriving daily from universities and colleges to spend the summer in the bosom of their families. Returning students find their own inglenook the best place of all, while others who have grown tired of prosaic surroundings are now knee deep in road maps, railroad schedules and alluring travel catalogs.

Buried deep in ever vacationists heart is the memory of a wonderful summer, the like of which may never come again. Mark Twains first visit to Hawaii was one he never forgot. After twenty years he said, "In my nostrils still lives the breath of flowers that perished twenty years ago." Memories of such vacations are indeed a precious heritage.

Ann Platt's vacation in Europe this summer will no doubt linger in her memory for all time to come. And why not? It seems to be a perfect one from every angle with a Mediterranean cruise the initial step and two weeks in England and Scotland a grand finale. She will sail June 25 on the Italian line steamer Vulcani. Ann will be privileged to view the mighty fortress, Gibraltar, visit Algiers, famous African city, and spend a few hours at Palermo, capital city of Sicily nestling in the shade of Monte Pellegrin. She will sail into the Bay of Naples and then visit the chief seaport of Greece, Patras. Venice, "pearl of the Adriatic" and the city of serenades and gondolas, will be visited as well as Florence and Rome. On to Vienna, Budapest, Berlin, Paris—in fact her itinerary is so wonderful it leaves one quite breathless even to hear about it.

We are wondering if on foreign soil, in some far off place, Ann and Grace Ingledue will cross paths. They have selected practically the same itineraries and will sail on the same day but from different ports and on board different steamers. Not the faintest cloud will mar the serenity of Miss Ingledue's mind this summer. Before sailing she will receive her doctor of philosophy degree from the state university.

Memories of Emma Louise Biedenharn's voice singing "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain Top," before an enraptured congregation at First Church of Christ Scientist last Sunday will linger long after she has set sail for England. She will be back in the atmosphere she loves very soon now after a hurried visit here with her father, Joseph Biedenharn. She left Friday but carries with her the firm avowal that her father will join her later in the summer when she starts on her European concert tour.

There are many who consider the state of Louisiana a "Shangri-La"—a magic land filled to overflowing with beauty and enchantment, where every bend in the highway brings new wonders, where all roads lead to a realistic rainbow's end. In no other land will a short motor trip from Monroe take you through a land famous in song and history and reeking with romance. In the shadowy, mysterious Teche country one forgets the world of today and revels in the past.

If you desire to motor through picturesque mountains you have only to turn your motor toward the Ozarks and in a few hours find yourself looking down from dizzy heights on cool pines silhouetted against clouds and sky. Perhaps you prefer the surf and music of the waves. You can reach the Gulf of Mexico in a few hours. Why seek far off places for vacation when near at hand is a complete change of climate and scenery? The mountains, the water, the picturesque, moss-festooned Evangeline country is ours for the taking.

The impression one gets when traveling in any direction in this southland "Shangri-La" is that when Mother Nature looked at the many things she had done in Louisiana she fell in love with her own handiwork and made her headquarters here, the better to continue work on her greatest masterpiece.

With all the teachers in the city off on summer jaunts or deep in study at colleges and universities, Monroe will settle down to the customary summer lethargy. Making the rounds of the schools last week we discovered that every teacher had completed definite plans for the summer. There will be no stay-at-homes this year—the great American unrest is upon them.

We have in our possession today an autographed copy of Miss Michael Stone's latest novel, "And Tomorrow," just published by Sovereign House, New York City. The book is a gift from the author, who formerly resided in Clarks. It will be a pleasure to loan it to readers of this column when we have finished reading it.

Of course you remember Noelee Currie, the charming, friendly, girl who lived in Monroe for several years before leaving for New Orleans to reside. A note reflecting her vivid personality comes to us with news of her approaching marriage. Bryan Dunbar Wayne of New Orleans is the lucky young man and the wedding will take place June 3.

Yesterday old friends, hundreds of them, paid homage to a wonderful woman—Sarah Shuster, who reached the grand old age of 100. The century mark finds Mrs. Shuster happy, light-hearted and with a keen zest for living. One wonders if after all, people really die of old age. Most of them don't really die of old age but of spiritual starvation and loneliness. False notions about physical breakdown and mental sterility in those past 70 fill the air. When one is surrounded with love, and is as receptive to it as is Mrs. Shuster, what matters the years? The heart stays young and after all it is this organ that keeps life in the body. Mrs. Shuster's gray eyes today seem sure of their vision of faith and continuous vitality. Awakened and regenerated by the manifestation of love on her 100th birthday anniversary she looks forward to even happier days to come.

This birthday party was a promise made ten years ago by Mrs. D. I. Hirsch and Mrs. Abe Arent. At this time a wonderful celebration commemorated her 90th birthday. Another celebration was planned for Mrs. Shuster when she reached the century mark and the promise was fulfilled yesterday. Naturally the celebrant's cup of joy was running over.

Local Clubs Observe National Book Week

Special Luncheon Given At Lotus Club By Members Of Welcome Branch Organization

Books that prick below the surface of the mind, books that leave in the heart a drop of pity, a grain of fortitude, a pinch of humor, books that flash a gleam of beauty on the inner vision, were discussed during the past week by the various literary clubs of the city in observance of National Book week.

Observance of National Book week brings to mind the value of books. They radiate down the ages what Henry Adams calls "the ethereal current of thought—the tonic serenity of Marcus Aurelius—the tolerance and insight of Montaigne — Masefield's truth and rapture of man—Housman's fateful bitter-sweet of human life—the immortal white magic of Alice in Wonderland."

There are books to live with in every field of literature. All the movements of thought and purpose that shape life in new channels today find expression and interpretation in books. We all use books as tools, books as pleasures, books as panaceas. But best of all is the selection of books to cherish and to live with.

National Book week was regarded by members of the Welcome Branch Book club as an opportune time to entertain with a book luncheon at the Lotus club. The main objective was to speed up the work of supplying books for the library at the G. B. Cooley sanatorium which is one of their chief objectives this year. At this time the various committees gave their reports on the number of books collected.

Mrs. J. Norman Coon presided during the luncheon hour and introduced the speakers. Invocation was rendered by Mrs. E. C. Gibson. Mrs. Dudley Stone gave an interesting report on the work done by those serving on the library committee. She also stated that the sanatorium plans to employ a trained librarian.

Two guest speakers, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of fifth district, L. F. W. C., and Mrs. W. D. Cotton of Rayville, state junior club chairman, delighted those present with first hand news from the triennial convention recently held in Kansas City.

In Mrs. Tisdale's report she described the magnificent auditorium in which the convention was held. This auditorium is said to be the finest in the United States.

Mrs. Cotton gave a colorful description of the election at the triennial of the general federation officers and the marvelous voting machines that were used. In closing she urged more southern women to attend these conventions.

Those present to enjoy this delightful hour were Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. W. D. Cotton, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. Lewis Langford, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. George Holland, Mrs. C. H. Dunaway, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. F. F. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Dancing Party Is Held

Miss Byrnie Handy And Betty Jean Hardeman Are Honored

Monroe's younger beau monde attended a dancing party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Handy Friday night complimentary to their daughter, Miss Byrnie Handy and Miss Betty Jean Hardeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Hardeman.

The spacious reception suite, living room, library and sun parlor, en suite, was converted into a ball room for this occasion.

Miss Handy, wearing a delphinium blue evening frock of marquisette with corsage of pink sweetheart roses and Miss Hardeman, wearing canary yellow marquisette with corsage of pastel shaded sweetpeas, stood with Mr. Ben Francis and Mr. Beverly Handy, Jr., and their parents in a flower banked alcove to receive the guests.

Blue electrics were used in the ball room and were lowered when the "moonlight special" was announced. A spotlight revealed a gorgeous moon rising over a blue, star-lit horizon. The orchestra played Moon of Manakoora for this number.

In the dining room, banked with blue hydrangeas and Shasta daisies, iced fruit frappe was served from a crystal bowl gracing one end of the refreshment table. Pink and green embossed cakes were served.

Of interest here is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Cleo Storey, of Valdosta, Ga., and Titusville Fla. to John H. Lewis of Monroe, May 16. The marriage was performed by the bridegroom's uncle, T. E. Lewis, ordinary of Colquitt county, in the presence of members of the families.

The groom is the son of Mr. G. D. Lewis, and the late Mrs. Lewis of Monroe, formerly of Moultrie.

The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Storey of Valdosta, Ga., and is a sister of Mrs. Earl Lewis of Monroe.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on a wedding trip to points of interest in Florida, after which they will make their home in Monroe.

Persis Johns Praised For Recital's Success

Young Musician Wins Much Acclaim As She Plays Difficult Numbers With Ease Of An Artist

Someone has said, "Give your daughter music and yo will have given her a lifelong shield against grief and disillusionment." If this be true, Persis Johns, talented young daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Johns, will wear a shining armor all her life. She has been studying music since infancy and today occupies a most enviable niche in the musical world she has created for herself in this city.

Miss Johns was presented in piano recital by her teacher, Mrs. Florence Zeigler Allbritton, at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Thursday night. She walked across the flower banked stage to the concert grand piano with the charming assurance of one who is familiar with the task at hand and entertains no fear of results. She was a lovely figure in semi-evening model of periwinkle blue mousseline with flowers at her throat.

Discrimination was displayed in the selection of numbers for Miss Johns' recital as each composition seemed particularly congenial to the player's temperament. This fact was evident in the delicately articulated details and contours. Technical brilliance and tonal exuberance were particularly noted in the MacDowell number, "Witches Dance" and the "Spanish Dance" number by Granados.

Extreme vividness marked, "Flight of the Bumblebee," by Rimsky-Korsakov. Here the young musician disclosed the full compass of her technique and an extensive one it proved to be. The performance was a stirring one and worthy of the highest praise.

Poetic interpretation marked Beethoven's Sonata op. 49, and Chopin's "Prelude." Both numbers delighted the audience. The program was concluded with a light airy number, "Country Jig," by Guion, in which the player's hands flew across the keyboard in whirlwind fashion.

Beautiful flowers were sent to Miss Johns by an admiring public endeavoring to express in this manner their pleasure in her music and appreciation of her work.

Allegro di Molto, C. P. E. Bach.

Contra Dance No. 1, Beethoven.

Prelude op. 28 No. 15, Chopin.

Etude op. 25 No. 2, Chopin.

Whims, Schumann.

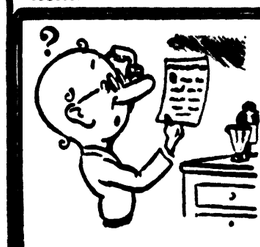

Witches Dance, MacDowell.

Spanish Dance No. 5, Granados.

Flight of the Bumblebee, Rimsky-Korsakov.

Country Jig, Guion.

Local Teachers Plan Interesting Vacations As End Of Year's Labor Arrives

Graduates Center Of Attention Nowadays

Many Instructors Will Attend Summner School; Others Plan Trips To Far Away Places

Every head bows and every knee bends in deference to the graduates of 1938, all of whom are stars in a great drama enacted every year when June advances.

The girl graduates advance across the stage trailing clouds of glory and the young men walk with great assurance and very much the master of the situation. Mothers and fathers, radiating happiness and exceedingly proud of their offspring, cater to their slightest whim and small brothers and sisters discover for the first time the importance of commencement.

While the graduates are being feted, lauded, dined and admired, what of the teachers? These are the days that try their souls. They have toiled and spinned, side by side with pupils who are now reaping the benefits of their labors. They have helped the backward student over the rough places, they have given their moral support to the discouraged ones and listened patiently to the trials and tribulations of the class as a whole. With vacation time at hand, the great majority of teachers will enter colleges and universities throughout the country for advanced work which will enable them to meet in more efficient manner the task awaiting them when another school year rolls around.

A large aggregation of teachers will attend summer school at L. P. I. in Ruston. From the Georgia Tucker school there will be Miss Alyce Florsheim, Miss Gertrude Hart, Mrs. F. D. Lippman, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. L. H. Unglesby, Miss Mary Trousdale, Mrs. Gladys Miller, Miss Annie Windes, Mrs. S. Solomon, Mrs. Alex Wilinzick, Mrs. Howard Willard. Miss Myrtle Rodgers will attend the National Education association convention in New York City, June 26 and later will enter Columbia university for special work.

Miss Olive Leigh Myatt will spend the summer in New York City and Mrs. W. R. Hammond will spend the month of June in Louisville, Ky., with relatives.

Miss Grace Ingledue, instructor in dramatics at Northeast Center L. S. U., will attend the L. S. U. commencement exercises at Baton Rouge where she will receive her degree of doctor of philosophy. On June 25, Miss Ingledue will sail from New York City for a visit in foreign countries including Portugal, north Africa, Italy, Belgium, Greece, France, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and England. The trip includes a Mediterranean cruise.

Several members of the Ouachita parish school faculty have planned interesting vacations. Miss Clara Hood will spend the summer in New York City. Miss Wylena Reynolds will spend the summer in Colorado and will attend summer school in Fort Collins. Mrs. Jack Morgan will move into her beautiful new home in Shreveport which has just been completed. Mrs. Mumford Leake, accompanied by Mr. Leake, will leave June 10 on a motor tour through the mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina and will visit in Washington and New York City and interesting points along the Atlantic coast including Cape Cod and Boston.

Miss Chloe Steele will attend the University of Chicago and Miss Ola Pennington will spend the summer in Columbia, Mo., visiting friends and relatives. Miss Carrie Dee Drew will travel extensively through the west. Mrs. T. V. Simmons will spend the summer in Chicago with her daughter, Mrs. Noble Larsen, and Mr. Larsen. Mrs. E. B. Stover will attend summer school at Southern Methodist university in Dallas. She will specialize in Spanish, French and German. Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein will spend a few weeks at Camp Windywood and later in the summer will visit in Washington and other eastern cities.

Miss Frances Wilson will motor with a party of friends through the Great Smoky Mountains National park with a visit in Washington, Philadelphia and New York City, en route. She will later visit her sister in Eaton, Pa., and her brother in Buffalo, N. Y. Mrs. Jack Hayes will spend the summer with her father in Corydon, Ky. Mrs. Henry Littlepage will spend the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Waller, in Morganfield, Ky. Miss Mary Carruth will spend the summer with her parents in Fort Smith, Ark. Mrs. Sara B. Welsh will work on her master's degree at L. S. U. Miss Mildred Sherrod will study at Columbia university, N. Y., following a visit in Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. George Riser will spend the summer in Ruston and New Orleans. Miss Ann Platt will sail June 25 for a summer of travel in foreign countries. Following a Mediterranean cruise she will visit the Azores, Gibraltar, Algiers and make a complete tour of Italy including the famous Lake District. She will travel through western Europe and visit Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Berlin, Paris, Holland and a week in London. Two weeks will be spent touring Scotland and England. She will return home on the Queen Mary September 5.

Hobbs Auxiliary Holds Last Meeting

The Ladies auxiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, held the last meeting of the month Thursday night with 20 members present. Delegates to the Department Encampment were elected.

Following the post's memorial services at the V. F. W. lot in Riverside cemetery this afternoon at 4 o'clock the auxiliary will hold memorial services for Mrs. George Hobbs and Mrs. Minnie Gossett, deceased members. All auxiliary members are urged to be present at these services.

The Sundial

By Eve C. Bradford

THE DAYS GROW LONGER. May merges into June and our friends roll in by train and motor. It is vacation time and students are arriving daily from universities and colleges to spend the summer in the bosom of their families. Returning students find their own inglenook the best place of all, while others who have grown tired of prosaic surroundings are now knee deep in road maps, railroad schedules and alluring travel catalogs.

Buried deep in ever vacationists heart is the memory of a wonderful summer, the like of which may never come again. Mark Twains first visit to Hawaii was one he never forgot. After twenty years he said, "In my nostrils still lives the breath of flowers that perished twenty years ago." Memories of such vacations are indeed a precious heritage.

Ann Platt's vacation in Europe this summer will no doubt linger in her memory for all time to come. And why not? It seems to be a perfect one from every angle with a Mediterranean cruise the initial step and two weeks in England and Scotland a grand finale. She will sail June 25 on the Italian line steamer Vulcani. Ann will be privileged to view the mighty fortress, Gibraltar, visit Algiers, famous African city, and spend a few hours at Palermo, capital city of Sicily nestling in the shade of Monte Pellegrin. She will sail into the Bay of Naples and then visit the chief seaport of Greece, Patras. Venice, "pearl of the Adriatic" and the city of serenades and gondolas, will be visited as well as Florence and Rome. On to Vienna, Budapest, Berlin, Paris—in fact her itinerary is so wonderful it leaves one quite breathless even to hear about it.

We are wondering if on foreign soil, in some far off place, Ann and Grace Ingledue will cross paths. They have selected practically the same itineraries and will sail on the same day but from different ports and on board different steamers. Not the faintest cloud will mar the serenity of Miss Ingledue's mind this summer. Before sailing she will receive her doctor of philosophy degree from the state university.

Memories of Emma Louise Biedenharn's voice singing "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain Top," before an enraptured congregation at First Church of Christ Scientist last Sunday will linger long after she has set sail for England. She will be back in the atmosphere she loves very soon now after a hurried visit here with her father, Joseph Biedenharn. She left Friday but carries with her the firm avowal that her father will join her later in the summer when she starts on her European concert tour.

There are many who consider the state of Louisiana a "Shangri-La"—a magic land filled to overflowing with beauty and enchantment, where every bend in the highway brings new wonders, where all roads lead to a realistic rainbow's end. In no other land will a short motor trip from Monroe take you through a land famous in song and history and reeking with romance. In the shadowy, mysterious Teche country one forgets the world of today and revels in the past.

If you desire to motor through picturesque mountains you have only to turn your motor toward the Ozarks and in a few hours find yourself looking down from dizzy heights on cool pines silhouetted against clouds and sky. Perhaps you prefer the surf and music of the waves. You can reach the Gulf of Mexico in a few hours. Why seek far off places for vacation when near at hand is a complete change of climate and scenery? The mountains, the water, the picturesque, moss-festooned Evangeline country is ours for the taking.

The impression one gets when traveling in any direction in this southland "Shangri-La" is that when Mother Nature looked at the many things she had done in Louisiana she fell in love with her own handiwork and made her headquarters here, the better to continue work on her greatest masterpiece.

With all the teachers in the city off on summer jaunts or deep in study at colleges and universities, Monroe will settle down to the customary summer lethargy. Making the rounds of the schools last week we discovered that every teacher had completed definite plans for the summer. There will be no stay-at-homes this year—the great American unrest is upon them.

We have in our possession today an autographed copy of Miss Michael Stone's latest novel, "And Tomorrow," just published by Sovereign House, New York City. The book is a gift from the author, who formerly resided in Clarks. It will be a pleasure to loan it to readers of this column when we have finished reading it.

Of course you remember Noelee Currie, the charming, friendly, girl who lived in Monroe for several years before leaving for New Orleans to reside. A note reflecting her vivid personality comes to us with news of her approaching marriage. Bryan Dunbar Wayne of New Orleans is the lucky young man and the wedding will take place June 3.

Yesterday old friends, hundreds of them, paid homage to a wonderful woman—Sarah Shuster, who reached the grand old age of 100. The century mark finds Mrs. Shuster happy, light-hearted and with a keen zest for living. One wonders if after all, people really die of old age. Most of them don't really die of old age but of spiritual starvation and loneliness. False notions about physical breakdown and mental sterility in those past 70 fill the air. When one is surrounded with love, and is as receptive to it as is Mrs. Shuster, what matters the years? The heart stays young and after all it is this organ that keeps life in the body. Mrs. Shuster's gray eyes today seem sure of their vision of faith and continuous vitality. Awakened and regenerated by the manifestation of love on her 100th birthday anniversary she looks forward to even happier days to come.

This birthday party was a promise made ten years ago by Mrs. D. I. Hirsch and Mrs. Abe Arent. At this time a wonderful celebration commemorated her 90th birthday. Another celebration was planned for Mrs. Shuster when she reached the century mark and the promise was fulfilled yesterday. Naturally the celebrant's cup of joy was running over.

Local Clubs Observe National Book Week

Special Luncheon Given At Lotus Club By Members Of Welcome Branch Organization

Books that prick below the surface of the mind, books that leave in the heart a drop of pity, a grain of fortitude, a pinch of humor, books that flash a gleam of beauty on the inner vision, were discussed during the past week by the various literary clubs of the city in observance of National Book week.

Observance of National Book week brings to mind the value of books. They radiate down the ages what Henry Adams calls "the ethereal current of thought—the tonic serenity of Marcus Aurelius—the tolerance and insight of Montaigne — Masefield's truth and rapture of man—Housman's fateful bitter-sweet of human life—the immortal white magic of Alice in Wonderland."

There are books to live with in every field of literature. All the movements of thought and purpose that shape life in new channels today find expression and interpretation in books. We all use books as tools, books as pleasures, books as panaceas. But best of all is the selection of books to cherish and to live with.

National Book week was regarded by members of the Welcome Branch Book club as an opportune time to entertain with a book luncheon at the Lotus club. University Women Hold Garden Fete To Honor Northeast Center Graduates

Hunters' Plantation Home Scene Of Event

Clever Entertainment Provided As Senior Girls Enjoy Hospitality At Ante-Bellum Residence

Waves of sunlight filtered through the branches of the towering trees in the gardens of Dr. and Mrs. Melville Hunter's plantation home where a garden fete was arranged by members of the American Association of University Women who entertained complimentary to the feminine members of the graduating class of Northeast Center of L. S. U.

The setting was idyllic. Magnolia trees studded with fragrant, waxen blossoms were mirrored in the sleepy waters of the bayou flowing through one section of the garden. A cool breeze stirred the old oak trees that have stood as sentinels since this plantation home, one of the oldest in this section, was built.

The colorful setting was augmented by the summery frocks worn by the hostesses who stood at vantage points to extend courtesies.

Mrs. Hunter, one of Monroe's most versatile hostesses, welcomed the guests in the high ceilinged living room banked with flowers from her gardens. Some of her prized possessions including valuable volumes, antiques and heirlooms, were viewed at this time.

A delightful hour was spent in the gardens where the slanting sun cast long shadows on the grass. Miss Carruth, a dramatist of pronounced ability, entertained with dramatic readings. Miss Mildred Johnson, clever impersonator, also entertained with a group of stories.

Friendship Program Featured By O. E. S.

A special friendship program was held by Dixie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, at the Masonic temple May 23. The evening's entertainment was arranged by Mrs. Eddie Carkuff and officers of other chapters were invited as guests of honor. They represented chapters at Columbia, Bastrop, Mer Rouge, Collinston, Jonesboro, Ruston, West Monroe, Rayville, Delhi, Mangham, Winnsboro, Choudrant and Chatham.

Mrs. Nelson of Chicago was a special guest of honor and other guests were Mrs. Iva Adams, Mrs. Lovie Gregory, and Mrs. Fordie Mulhern, all of the grand chapter.

The chapter room was decorated with seasonal flowers and the friendship scheme was carried out in the arrangements. Each guest as introduced stepped forth from behind a small ship. Miss Barbara Sackett sang "My Dream Ship."

Refreshments were served.

Claiming the affectionate interest of friends is the announcement made by Mrs. Clyde H. Warner of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Gladys Warner, to Mr. Joseph W. Black of Oakdale, La., March 16.

The wedding was kept a secret until school closed at Oakdale where the bride is a member of the high school faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Black will make their future home in Jennings, La., where Mr. Black is a prominent young business man.

Mrs. Warner is anticipating the arrival of her daughter this week for a short visit.

Delegates Back From Federated Convention

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale Gives Glowing Account Of Happenings At Kansas City Meeting

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the fifth district of Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, has just returned from Kansas City, where she and Mrs. C. E. Hester of Tallulah, state president, and Mrs. W. D. Cotton of Rayville, state chairman of junior clubs, attended the triennial convention.

Mrs. Tisdale gives a glowing account of the convention as follows:

"The highlight of the convention was the club women's election. The 1,142 voting delegates formed ing lines at the six voting machines, starting at 6:30 o'clock in the morning with the Maryland and Illinois delegations on hand in behalf of their candidates for the biggest contest—for first vice-president. Supporters of Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore and Mrs. Walter W. Seymour of Chicago were eager to put their candidates in the position which often leads to the presidency of the federation. Mrs. John L. Whitehurst was the winner in the election.

"The president of the general federation is Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar of Portland, Ore., a native Missourian, born in a log cabin in Scotland county. She was elected without opposition.

"Mrs. J. L. B. Buck of Richmond, Va., was elected treasurer.

"After Mrs. Horace Bonar Ritchie of Athens, Ga., distributed 2,000 imitation peaches she was elected recording secretary of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"This second triennial convention proved to be outstanding in every manner. There were guest speakers from every section of the country. Mrs. Walter W. Seymour left this thought with the women in the federation, 'A glance into federation windows is like this: if you stand too close to the window, you will see only yourself. The true clubwoman stands afar and looks at the whole. She asks herself these questions—Is it worth while? Is it useful? Can I be a friend to someone? Can I find courage? Can I keep an open mind and a loving heart? Does the club of which I am a member enrich my life? If so, then I need it and it needs me.'

"Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, in closing her three-year term of office as president of general federation, said, 'The theme, "Education for Living," has been carried forward beautifully by each of the nine departments and especially so by the department of education. And truly the fine arts have been carried into our daily living, and the poetry clinics have already borne fruit; and of course no program is complete without music. The splendid slogan, 'Education for Spiritual Living,' has also been emphasized throughout this administration. Club institutes and journalistic training have helped to open the door of public understanding in regard to this great organization. The public welfare department has stepped well into the foreground in many of the major activities embodied in this program. The women's field army is decidedly an outgrowth of the public health work of our organization, and our club women are to be commended throughout the country. As we visit the various states and see the enthusiastic work of the junior club women, we realize that this organization did not just happen to be, but it has its place in the great plan and scheme of things. Each generation has left its imprint and today we hail those who not only follow, but work side by side with their seniors, blazing the trail to greater activities in social, economic and spiritual progress. 'What are the juniors doing?' you may be asked. They are working right down into the hearts and lives of those around them."

In closing, Mrs. Lawson said, "If every governmental agency, every national and local organization, every citizen in our country would really try out the Golden Rule, life would reach that higher plane of spiritual existence. We have tried other things and failed. Why not try this? . . . Thank you, club women, for giving me this opportunity to serve in this great work. I shall continue my interest in the work. Please know I shall always be your friend, and I hope that I may claim as true through the remainder of life what my little boy, now grown tall, said many years ago, 'The club vimmens are your friends.'"

Milwaukee has asked for the next triennial convention.

A garden party Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Reynolds of West Monroe was planned complimentary to members of the T. E. L. Sunday school class of the First Baptist church. The event was a colorful one with guests in summery attire and the hostesses extending gracious courtesies.

Mrs. Shuster Honored On Her 100th Birthday

Relatives And Numerous Friends Attend Event To Fete District's Oldest Resident

Relatives and an army of friends gathered all day Saturday to pay tribute to the eventful life of Mrs. Sarah Shuster, the oldest resident so far known, of Monroe, and perhaps of all north Louisiana, the event being the observance of her 100th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Bracy, 516 Hudson lane.

Three of Mrs. Shuster's five surviving daughters, Mrs. Bracy, Mrs. Tom Atkinson and Mrs. Nettie Wise, of Chicago, held open house for the large number who thronged the residence throughout the day. The living room was banked with the choicest of gladioli, roses, Shasta daisies, hydrangeas, and other floral offerings many of which were gifts of friends. On a screened porch an enormous birthday cake was displayed, the table on which it was placed being appropriately arranged.

Guests were served with ice cream and cake, an interesting feature being the napkins which bore in gold lettering the years "1838-1938."

Mrs. Shuster, alert of mind and possessed of all her faculties with the exception that her eyesight is somewhat affected, received her guests in her bed chamber as she has been bed-ridden for nearly two years as the result of a fall.

Each guest presented to the honoree was received with a ready smile and more often than not accompanied with words of repartee, revealing an intellect that has not become to any degree inactive with the passage of time.

Mrs. Shuster was born in a little Bavarian village in 1838 and when eight years old came to America. It was no Queen Mary on which she took passage, but a slow-sailing vessel which required 63 days to sail from Antwerp to New Orleans. Until the age of 15, she resided in Columbia and three years later, in Cincinnati, O., she became the bride of Isaac Shuster. In course of time the young couple settled in Shreveport, which was a struggling little village. During the War Between the States, she made Memphis, Tenn., her home as her husband was in the Confederate army. After the war, the Shusters made their home in Farmerville where for 37 years, Mr. Shuster was postmaster, but immediately preceding this they resided for some time in Monroe which was the smallest of villages then.

With acute mind, Mrs. Shuster recalls many early experiences in Monroe.

After her husband died, she removed here to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Bracy. Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Shuster of whom five now survive. They are besides Mrs. Bracy, Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs Wise, Mrs. Eugene Stern, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Gilbert Rose of Asheville, N. C. Neither of the last two named was able to attend their mother's birthday party yesterday, but sent birthday messages. Many other telegrams from friends and relatives were received, all bearing words of good cheer.

Tallulah Scene Of Brilliant Marriage

A wedding of widespread interest throughout this section of Louisiana and west Mississippi took place Thursday night when Miss Barbara Fern Harrington, daughter of Mrs. Clara Clementine Porch of Tallulah, became the bride of Mr. John Wade Landrum, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Landrum, of Clinton, Miss.

The ceremony was performed in Tallulah at the Baptist church at 7:30 in the evening, with Rev. Landrum, father of the groom, officiating. Rev. Clarence Crow, pastor of the local church, gave the closing prayer and benediction. Tall baskets of long stemmed gladioli, Queen Anne's lace and clusters of pink and blue hydrangeas and ferns formed a background of green in the rear of the chancel. Gleaming white tapers in floor candelabra formed a lovely setting for the impressive double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. J. O. Horn, who played as an introductory number, "Chanson Triste," by Tschaikowsky, followed by "At Dawning," beautifully sung by Mrs. Lamar T. Loe and Mrs. Frank Montgomery. Lohengrin's wedding march was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional.

The only attendant was Miss Marguerite Boswell, who wore a pink lace floor length model and carried Talisman roses. The bride, who entered with her brother, Mr. Allen Harrington, of Vicksburg, was radiantly lovely in white mousseline de soi fashioned with high waist line, short puffed sleeves with tiny covered buttons extending below the waist and a bolero. She wore a short veil arranged in a coronet and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley surrounding a single orchid. Mr. Landrum had as his best man Mr. Claude Grimes of Little Rock. The ushers were Burney and Ray Jones, of Taliulah.

Mrs. E. G. Courtney, President; Others Are Mrs. Moseley, Mrs. Gunter And Miss Eleona Brinsmade

Officers for the ensuing year were installed at the meeting of the Central Grammar school P.-T. A. held in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon as follows: Mrs. E. G. Courtney, president; Mrs. W. R. Moseley, vice-president; Mrs. L. M. Gunter, secretary, and Miss Eleona M. Brinsmade, treasurer.

Mrs. J. D. Calhoun, members of the P.-T. A. of the Sherrouse school, was guest speaker, giving an inspiring talk on the principles of the P.-T. A. activity.

"We acquire by learning and doing and inspiration comes in this way," the speaker declared.

"We must put our whole souls and hearts into the work and then we shall find that we will receive rich reward," she said. "When you realize what P.-T. A. has done, then you will love it and the work involved. Mothers must be a part of the P.-T. A. and unless they take active interest, your P.-T. A. will fall short of reaching its goal. The teachers are important, but parents have a special part to play.

"Programs should be given that are of inspiring nature. Outline the work for the year and follow a definite schedule. Have at least two outstanding programs.

"P.-T. A. is banded together two million strong, and wonderful results should be achieved. Some of the aims should be the securing of better buses for transportation of pupils, the seeking of laws to eliminate child labor, regulation of harmful firearms, development of peace programs, efforts to stamp out venereal disease—these are some of the matters that should be considered by P.-T. A. workers. The child's character and future must be shaped aright and the P.-T. A. can play an important role therein."

Mrs. Carl Couch, director of the fifth district of P.-T. A., urged cooperative working between teachers and parents and the making of the organization more efficient than ever. Membership is making gains, she said.

Chairmen of committees for the coming year were named as follows: Finance, Mrs. A. E. Johnson; membership, Mrs. Knight; publicity, Miss Rose Taylor; publications, Mrs. Mayo; hospitality, Mrs. Thompson; program, Mrs. Robinson.

Appreciation for the fine work of the P.-T. A. was given by Rev. B. F. Wallace, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home. Children of the home are in attendance at Central Grammar school and have made a good showing the past year, to the delight of all concerned.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The last meeting of the year of the Current Literature club was held in the new home of Mrs. Louis Peters on Forsythe avenue Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, retiring president, was presented with a current book from the club as an expression of appreciation of work well done.

During the meeting the historian, Mrs. J. M. Menefee presented the club scrapbook which represented the artistic merit and originality of those who endeavored to make it a sample of the profitable work carried on throughout the first year.

Mrs. R. L. Conway, Jr., reviewed with ability and charm "The Yearling" by Marjorie Rawlings. The author of this book writes of the inland Florida country where she migrated some 10 years ago. It is amazing how Marjorie Rawlings having lived most of her life in other parts of the country, was able to saturate herself with the color, atmosphere, and personality of a new environment. The author found the wild beautiful "scrub" of inland Florida to be in itself a challenge to the imagination of any writer.

"The Yearling" is a simple story of simple people—the Baxter family—poor white living in the scrub region near the St. John river in Florida, but not degraded poor whites for their country is still a frontier region of mighty giants. The period is the decade after the Civil war. "The Yearling" is a rambling narrative in a love ballad rich in character but without point or concentration, as are most regional novels, but with a theme as distinct from its plot [illegible].

Through the Shops with Irene

IT IS INDEED a treat to walk into the many new homes and buildings that are being built in this area at this time and note the exquisite beauty being created in them by the Service Tile company with tile . . . There were in other ages, certain colors in tile which every home possessed, but that is not true today . . . Any color goes . . . The new colors are so gorgeously blended that most any idea you hit upon can be worked out in this permanent beauty . . . That very genial gentleman "Slim" Carter, the has practically built Monroe in tile . . . has more clever ideas in "Tile Uses in the Home" than any woman ever had about dress designing and colors . . . Let's talk remodeling or new construction over with Mr. Carter . . . He is ready to suggest and cooperate with home builders without the least obligation. A good thing to remember when building is the money you pay for a tile installation includes not only a surfacing material but also provides a substantial cement structure which is fireproof, leakproof and verminproof . . . Oh, yes, just one more thing . . . Service Tile company, 104 DeSiard street, is the only place in this section where the beautiful Columbia wood mantels can be purchased. You've seen them advertised in all the first class home magazines . . . I also noted the new modern "Edge Light Medicine Cabinets" that provide sliding lights on each side to give light wherever you wish it . . . No, no . . . Positively not expensive . . . Investigate—before you invest.

ARE YOU among those who are scheduled to do a lot of entertaining for the girls in your "set" that are about to be married? . . . Of course you must keep up your dainty fresh appearance throughout the entire party regardless of the details that come under your own capable supervision . . . so I have here a most helpful hint as to the refreshment hour. The Jitney Jungle bakery on North Fourth street makes a specialty of preparing those dainty cakes, breads, pies that no guest will guess that they are not "home made" . . . because they actually are! . . . Also, this grocery store has on hand the most unusual treats for party refreshments that you will find in Monroe. Even though you are not entertaining just yet . . . it is good to know when and what you can get and where you can get it.

Clarks

Miss Joyce Jackson, who is a senior student of the Clarks High school, was complimented by her sister, Miss Gladys Jackson, who entertained an intimate group at an ice cream party in her honor. The party included Miss Joyce Jackson, Miss Julia Perkins, Miss Nellie Simmons, Miss Carmon Gerlach, Miss Marjorie Lewis, Miss Elaine Ferguson, W. E. Antley, Jr., John Edward Nethery, Miss Elmer Smith and Miss Gladys Jackson. Miss Joyce Jackson was elected the most popular girl student in the local school, in a popularity contest held by the students.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Antley entertained at a coffee party in honor of their son, W. E. Antley, Jr., who is valedictorian of the senior class in the local school. Present were W. E. Antley, Jr., Miss Louise Stringer, Miss Carmon Gerlach, Miss Marjorie Lewis, Miss Julia Perkins, Miss Nellie Simmons, Miss Joyce Jackson, Miss Elaine Ferguson, John Edward, Nethery, Bobbie Corbin, Ronald Sellers, Miss Alice Lineback, school principal, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Antley. Those included in this party were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jarrell at a picture show party at Columbia given in honor of the senior classes of the high schools in Caldwell parish.

The members of the White Lily chapter of the O. E. S. who attended the school of instruction in Monroe were: Mrs. S. H. Allbritton, Mrs. Paul Jones, Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Mrs. W. P. Banks, Mrs. Robert Busch, Mrs. John Sills, Mrs. W. W. Beasley, Mrs. E. T. Hobson, Mrs. W. A. Coates, Mrs. Alex Busch, Miss Dora Cooksey, the Misses Thalia and Iona Ferree, Clarks, Mack Elliot of Grayson and Mrs. Henry McGhee, Mrs. Scott Humphries, Mrs. Willard Nethery, Miss Johnie Duke and Mrs. Ray Phillips of Kelly.

Choudrant

The Woman's Missionary society of the Baptist church met recently at the church with Miss Doris McCorkle, president, presiding. The gathering was marked by routine business. Mrs. L. D. Allen distributed quilt patterns.

The seventh graders of Choudrant High school, accompanied by their teacher, Miss Olive Trussel, and some of their parents, enjoyed a picnic near here. Swimming and fishing were the principal diversions.

Mrs. W. R. Rinehart gave a birthday party recently for her two-year-old son, George Stewart Rinehart. Games and contests were enjoyed. Refreshments were served. Present were: Janet Madden, Pat and Harrel Penny Willis, Jr., Mary Ann and Margaret Whitman, Ann Colvin and Paul Kidd.

IF YOU are overweight . . . go on the Butter-Krust bread diet! . . . Go on this interesting bread diet with enthusiasm and with faith. The Butter-Krust bread diet is not a hard diet because bread is satisfying to the appetite and is not designed to strip off pounds too quickly at the expense of nerves and vitality. You will reduce on Butter-Krust bread diet . . . and be splendidly energetic while you reduce, not weak, tired or irritable. Butter-Krust is surely a delicious bread and is the only air-conditioned bread in this section of the country. Butter-Krust is for sale at all grocery stores, cafes and sandwich shops.

BEAUTY IS only skin deep . . . so it's keeping the skin that Dorothy Gray creams get. . . . A specialist of nearly a half century of experience, she has the "know how" of a better skin down pat. Cures acne and other blemishes working with her own creams and banishes wrinkles, too! The new muscle exercise facial that Dorothy Gray teaches for wrinkles really does the work. Because loose and flabby skin, sagging skin and double chins are the results of weak muscles, lack of skin elasticity and dryness. . . . It's right at the source! Her special creams are used to correct the particular faults. Dorothy Gray cosmetics are a wonderful insurance for the skin . . . not only to eradicate but to guard against those first signs of age. At Walgreen's exclusively, of course.

SINCE KNIGHTHOOD was in flower . . . a graduation gift stemmed in the romance of the ages! In the romantic days of chivalry and knighthood a girl's hope chest was built by the most skilled cabinetmaker the family purse could afford. Weeks sometimes months were taken by this gifted artist, designer, carver and finisher to build the chest . . . But no more . . . Today LANE, the glorified modern hope chest brings the hope chest to its utmost significance. More beautiful than those of other ages . . . and what sweet girl graduate isn't looking and expecting a rare gift like this for her best gift? . . . Durrett Hardware & Furniture company has a dazzling display ready for your selection and the time to have it delivered is . . . tomorrow. Priced at $17.50 up.

THINK OF IT! More than 1,500 people attended the opening of the R. D. Swayze natatorium on last Sunday! . . . If you did not attend . . . by all means enjoy this treat today. Of course the City of Monroe is continually working on the grounds around the pool in order to make it more attractive on the outside . . . but after you've seen the inside you will say . . . "This is the most beautiful swimming pool in Louisiana" . . . and believe me you will mean this very thing . . . Can we ever find words to express our appreciation to our city officials for such a grand and glorious monument . . . as the R. D. Swayze natatorium?

WHEN YOU go on that uptown shopping tour this week, drop by R. & A. Jewelry company and note the interesting clock in the window . . . The face carries the name of every graduate in Monroe. The tick-tock is slowly, but surely, "unwinding" its way to two graduates' names which are printed on the face of the clock and when it does . . . a handsome Gruen watch will be awarded to the winners' . . . This is lots of fun just to watch the progress of the names . . . and much more fun, if you win the watch!

VISITED GRIFFIN'S Studio last week and found lots of new lighting equipment which accounts for the lovely work you see in their windows now. This same sort of electric light is used in Hollywood for best results in photographing the famous actresses. Griffin's Studio is forever abreast of the times . . . giving north Louisiana equipment seldom found in cities the size of Monroe. Isn't it grand to jump in your car or on the bus and run downtown where some of the finest photography in the country can be purchased for a lot less money than you would pay in larger cities.

Well bye-bye—I'll be seeing you again next Sunday.

Sincerely,
Irene.

Tallulah Scene Of Brilliant Marriage

A wedding of widespread interest throughout this section of Louisiana and west Mississippi took place Thursday night when Miss Barbara Fern Harrington, daughter of Mrs. Clara Clementine Porch of Tallulah, became the bride of Mr. John Wade Landrum, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Landrum, of Clinton, Miss.

The ceremony was performed in Tallulah at the Baptist church at 7:30 in the evening, with Rev. Landrum, father of the groom, officiating. Rev. Clarence Crow, pastor of the local church, gave the closing prayer and benediction. Tall baskets of long stemmed gladioli, Queen Anne's lace and clusters of pink and blue hydrangeas and ferns formed a background of green in the rear of the chancel Gleaming white tapers in floor candelabra formed a lovely setting for the impressive double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. J. O. Horn, who played as an introductory number, "Chanson Triste," by Tschaikowsky, followed by "At Dawning," beautifully sung by Mrs. Lamar T. Loe and Mrs. Frank Montgomery. Lohengrin's wedding march was played for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional.

The only attendant was Miss Marguerite Boswell, who wore a pink lace floor length model and carried Talisman roses. The bride, who entered with her brother, Mr. Allen Harrington, of Vicksburg, was radiantly lovely in white mousseline de soi fashioned with high waist line, short puffed sleeves with tiny covered buttons extending below the waist and a bolero. She wore a short veil arranged in a coronet and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley surrounding a single orchid. Mr. Landrum had as his best man Mr. Claude Grimes of Little Rock. The ushers were Burney and Ray Jones, of Tallulah.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception for the bridal party and relatives was held at the home of the bride. Mrs. Landrum changed her wedding raiment for a suit of beige and luggage tan with hat and accessories to match.

The bride is a graduate of the Tallulah High school and attended the Louisiana State Normal at Natchitoches. She is a young woman of much charm and was active in church and social circles in Tallulah. The bridegroom is a graduate of Mississippi college, Clinton, and is employed at the United States government engineers' office in Vicksburg.

Mrs. Albert Sevier was hostess to the members of circle three of the Baptist Missionary society at the home of Mrs. C. A. Sparling. Prayers were offered by Mrs. Watson McDonald and Mrs. H. B. Officers Installed By Central P.-T. A.

Mrs. E. G. Courtney, President; Others Are Mrs. Moseley, Mrs. Gunter And Miss Eleona Brinsmade

Officers for the ensuing year were installed at the meeting of the Central Grammar school P.-T. A. held in the school auditorium Wednesday afternoon as follows: Mrs. E. G. Courtney, president; Mrs. W. R. Moseley, vice-president; Mrs. L. M. Gunter, secretary, and Miss Eleona M. Brinsmade, treasurer.

Mrs. J. D. Callaun, members of the P.-T. A. of the Sherrouse school, was guest speaker, giving an inspiring talk on the principles of the P.-T. A. activity.

"We acquire by learning and doing and inspiration comes in this way," the speaker declared.

"We must put our whole souls and hearts into the work and then we shall find that we will receive rich reward," she said. "When you realize what P.-T. A. has done, then you will love it and the work involved. Mothers must be a part of the P.-T. A. and unless they take active interest, your P.-T. A. will fall short of reaching its goal. The teachers are important, but parents have a special part to play.

"Programs should be given that are of inspiring nature. Outline the work for the year and follow a definite schedule. Have at least two outstanding programs.

"P.-T. A. is banded together, two million strong, and wonderful results should be achieved. Some of the aims should be the securing of better buses for transportation of pupils, the seeking of laws to eliminate child labor, regulation of harmful firearms, development of peace programs, efforts to stamp out venereal disease—these are some of the matters that should be considered by P.-T. A. workers. The child's character and future must be shaped aright and the P.-T. A. can play an important role therein."

Mrs. Carl Couch, director of the fifth district of P.-T. A., urged cooperative working between teachers and parents and the making of the organization more efficient than ever. Membership is making gains, she said.

Chairmen of committees for the coming year were named as follows: Finance, Mrs. A. E. Johnson; membership, Mrs. Knight; publicity, Miss Rose Taylor; publications, Mrs. Mayo; hospitality, Mrs. Thompson; program, Mrs. Robinson.

Appreciation for the fine work of the P.-T. A. was given by Rev. B. F. Wallace, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home. Children of the home are in attendance at Central Grammar school and have made a good showing the past year, to the delight of all concerned.

Mrs. J. H. Hammons, hospitality; Mrs. C. H. Young, budget and finance.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The last meeting of the year of the Current Literature club was held in the new home of Mrs. Louis Peters on Forsythe avenue Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, retiring president, was presented with a current book from the club as an expression of appreciation of work well done.

During the meeting the historian, Mrs. J. M. Menefee, presented the club scrapbook which represented the artistic merit and originality of those who endeavored to make it a sample of the profitable work carried on throughout the first year.

Mrs. R. L. Conway, Jr., reviewed with ability and charm "The Yearling," by Marjorie Rawlings. The author of this book writes of the inland Florida country where she migrated some 10 years ago. It is amazing how Marjorie Rawlings having lived most of her life in other parts of the country, was able to saturate herself with the color, atmosphere, and personality of a new environment. The author found the wild beautiful "scrub" of inland Florida to be in itself a challenge to the imagination of any writer.

"The Yearling" is a simple story of simple people—the Baxtor family—poor whites living in the scrub regions near the St. John river in Florida, but not degraded poor whites for their country is still a frontier region of mighty hunts. The period is the decade after the Civil war. "The Yearling" is a rambling narrative in a racy dialect, rich in character but without point or concentration, as are most regional novels, but with a theme as distinct from its plot."

Two Guests Feted During Coffee Hour

Fifty guests enjoyed the charming courtesies extended by Mrs. H. P. Durrett in her home Thursday morning when she entertained during the coffee hour complimentary to her sisters, Miss Mildred Thompson and Mrs. Frank Downs, Jr., of Birmingham, Ala.

Blue hydrangeas, pink Radiance roses and Queen Ann's lace formed the decorative background in the living room and dining room.

The coffee table, overlaid with handsome Madeira and lace, had for central ornamentation a plaque of pink roses and Queen Ann's lace reflected in an oval mirror. Mrs. Arthur Lockwood and Mrs. Norman Coon presided over the handsome silver coffee services. Delicious confections were served.

Mrs. Durrett was assisted in the courtesies by Mrs. W. J. Veasey, Mrs. Frederick Seaman, Mrs. Ned Leigh, Mrs. E. R. Norton, Mrs. Ward Sykes and Mrs. W. R. Hatchell.

Mrs. W. R. Rinehart gave a birthday party recently for her two-year-old son, George Stewart Rinehart. Games and contests were enjoyed. Refreshments were served. Present were: Janet Madden, Pat and Harrel Penny Willis, Jr., Mary Ann and Margaret Whitman, Ann Colvin and Paul Kidd.

Through the Shops with Irene

IT IS INDEED a treat to walk into the many new homes and buildings that are being built in this area at this time and note the exquisite beauty being created in them by the Service Tile company with tile . . . There were in other ages, certain colors in tile which every home possessed, but that is not true today . . . Any color goes . . . The new colors are so gorgeously blended that most any idea you hit upon can be worked out in this permanent beauty . . . That very genial gentleman "Slim" Carter (he has practically built Monroe in tile) . . . has more clever ideas in "Tile Uses in the Home" than any woman ever had about dress designing and colors . . . Let's talk remodeling or new construction over with Mr. Carter . . . He is ready to suggest and cooperate with home builders without the least obligation. A good thing to remember when building is: the money you pay for a tile installation includes not only a surfacing material but also provides a substantial cement structure which is fireproof, leakproof and verminproof. . . . Oh, yes, just one more thing . . . Service Tile company, 104 DeSiard street, is the only place in this section where the beautiful Columbia wood mantels can be purchased. You've seen them advertised in all the first class home magazines . . . I also noted the new modern "Edge Light Medicine Cabinets" that provide sliding lights on each side to give light wherever you wish it. . . . No, no . . . Positively not expensive. . . . Investigate—before you invest.

ARE YOU among those who are scheduled to do a lot of entertaining for the girls in your "set" that are about to be married? . . . Of course, you must keep up your dainty fresh appearance throughout the entire party, regardless of the details that come under your own capable supervision . . . so I have here a most helpful hint as to the refreshment hour. The Jitney Jungle bakery on North Fourth street makes a specialty of preparing those dainty cakes, breads, pies that no guest will guess that they are not "home made" . . . because they actually are! . . . Also, this grocery store has on hand the most unusual treats for party refreshments that you will find in Monroe. Even though you are not entertaining just yet . . . it is good to know when and what you can get and where you can get it.

IF YOU are overweight . . . go on the Butter-Krust bread diet! . . . Go on this interesting bread diet with enthusiasm and with faith. The Butter-Krust bread diet is not a hard diet because bread is satisfying to the appetite and is not designed to strip off pounds too quickly at the expense of nerves and vitality. You will reduce on Butter-Krust bread diet . . . and be splendidly energetic while you reduce, not weak, tired or irritable. Butter-Krust is surely a delicious bread and is the only air-conditioned bread in this section of the country. Butter-Krust is for sale at all grocery stores, cafes and sandwich shops.

BEAUTY IS only skin deep . . . so its deep into the skin that Dorothy Gray creams get. . . . A consultant of nearly a half century of experience, she has the "ins" and "outs" of a better skin down pat. Cures acne and other blemishes working with her own creams and banishes wrinkles, too! The new muscle exercise facial that Dorothy Gray teaches for wrinkles really does the work. Because loose and flabby skin, sagging skin and double chins are the results of weak muscles, lack of skin elasticity and dryness . . . It hits right at the source! Her special creams are used to correct the particular faults. Dorothy Gray cosmetics are a wonderful insurance for the skin . . . not only to eradicate but to guard against those first signs of "age." At Walgreen's exclusively, of course.

SINCE KNIGHTHOOD was in flower . . . a graduation gift steeped in the romance of the ages! In the heroic days of chivalry and knight-errantry, a girl's hope chest was built by the most skilled cabinetmaker the family purse could afford. Weeks, sometime months were taken by this combined artist, designer, carver and finisher to build the chest. . . . But no more . . . Today LANE, the glorified modern hope chest brings the hope chest to its richest significance. More beautiful than those of other ages . . . and what sweet girl graduate isn't looking and expecting a rare gift like this for her best gift? . . . Durrett Hardware & Furniture company has a dazzling display ready for your selection and the time to have it delivered is . . . tomorrow. Priced at $17.50 up.

THINK OF IT, folks . . . more than 1,700 people attended the opening of the R. D. Swayze natatorium on last Sunday! . . . If you did not attend . . . by all means enjoy this treat today. Of course, the City of Monroe is continually working on the grounds around the pool in order to make it more attractive on the outside . . . but after you've seen the inside, you will say . . . "This is the most beautiful swimming pool in Louisiana" . . . and believe me you will mean this very thing . . . Can we ever find words to express our appreciation to our city officials for such a grand and glorious necessity . . . as the R. D. Swayze natatorium?

WHEN YOU go on that uptown shopping tour this week, drop by R. & A. Jewelry company and note the interesting clock in the window . . . The face carries the name of every graduate in Monroe. The tick-tock is slowly, but surely, "unwinding" its way to two graduates' names which are printed on the face of the clock and when it does . . . a handsome Gruen watch will be awarded to the winners! . . . This is lots of fun just to watch the progress of the names . . . and much more fun, if you win the watch!

VISITED GRIFFIN'S Studio last week and found lots of new lighting equipment which accounts for the lovely work you see in their windows now. This same sort of electric light is used in Hollywood for best results in photographing the famous actresses. Griffin's Studio is forever abreast of the times . . . giving north Louisiana equipment seldom found in cities the size of Monroe. Isn't it grand to jump in your car or on the bus and run downtown where some of the finest photography in the country can be purchased for a lot less money than you would pay in larger cities.

Well bye-bye—I'll be seeing you again next Sunday.

Sincerely,
Irene.

New Shirley Temple Picture To Open Here Monday

'Rebecca' To Show 4 Days At Paramount

Stellar Cast Supports Young Star in Her Latest Musical Film

YOUD never know the old farm now—it's a streamlined radio center, with Shirley Temple on a long-term hook-up in the title role of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," her best-of-all musical. The first star of the screen is supported by her smartest cast, sunniest songs, swingiest dances and a hey-hey load of laughter in this new 20th Century-Fox wonder-comedy hit opening Monday at the Paramount Theater.

When radio appears down by the old mill stream it raises a bumper crop of song and fun, with Randolph Scott and Gloria Stuart united in glorious romance, Jack Haley and Slim Summerville making merry, and tap-king Bill Robinson and Shirley at top-speed. Phyllis Brooks, Helen Westley, The Raymond Scott quintet, Alan Dinehart and J. Edward Bromberg also are featured, and when all is said and sung, could you ask for anything more?

To the roster of romancing stars, dancing stars, comedy stars and singing stars are added six sunny new song hits, in addition to a medley of Shirley's famous hits of the past which she sings again. The new songs are "An Old Straw Hat," by Gordon and Revel; "Alone With You" "Happy Feeling," and "Crackly Grain Flakes," by Pollack and Mitchell; "Come and Get Your Happiness," by Pokrass and Tobias; and "Toy Trumpet," with music by Raymond Scott and lyrics by Pollack and Mitchell.

Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of production, selected Allen Dwan to direct Karl Tunberg's and Don Ettlinger's screen-play which was suggested by the Kate Douglas Wiggin story. Raymond Griffith was associate producer.

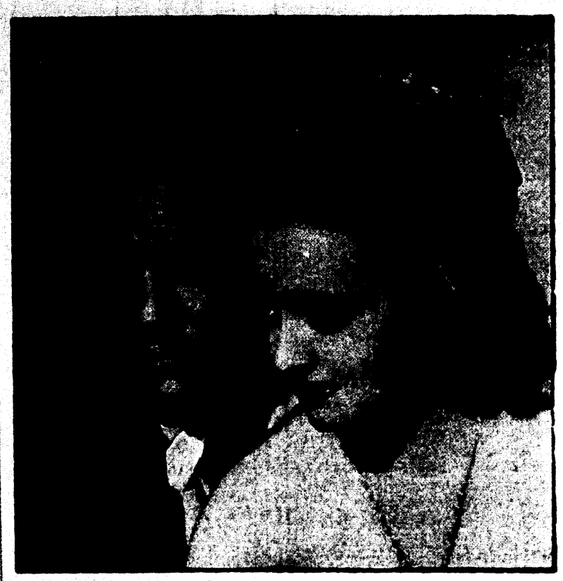

HOMER CCC CAMP WINS AWARDS FOR EXCELLENCE

HOMER, La., May 28.—(Special)—Homer CCC camp No. 469 has been honored for the past three months by receiving an award as the best camp in this district. The award, a loving cup, now becomes the property of the camp.

In recognition for best religious attendance, Chaplain Lonnie Knight presented the camp with a loving cup.

Captain E. C. Slye has been appointed to the vacancy created by the departure of Captain James W. McNees as sub-district inspector and instructor.

In Louisiana alone, 5,000,000 pounds of muskrat meat are available annually for food consumption.

Woo-woo! I'm lucky—but this time the chorus cuties are doing the wooing while Hugh (Woo-Woo) Herbert is simply flabbergasted! It's all part of the fun in the new musical, "Hollywood Hotel," with Dick Powell, Rosemary Lane, Glenda Farrell and Benny Goodman and his swing band coming to the Capitol theater Friday.

Darryl F. Zanuck's masterpiece, "In Old Chicago," is the mightiest spectacle-thrill any picture ever gave you, yet you'll long remember it for its tender, human story! Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche enact the heart-kindling drama as tempestuous as old Chicago itself. It plays at the Paramount theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

'Gold Where You Find It' At Capitol

Spectacular Setting Provided For New Warner Brothers' Outdoor Hit

WITH George Brent and Olivia de Havilland as its stars, "Gold Is Where You Find It," a thrilling melodrama of California in the 1870's, has its local premiere today at the Capitol.

It is a Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan production in Technicolor and according to reports of previewers is one of the really best pictures of the season.

"Gold Is Where You Find It" deals with a phase of gold-seeking that has hitherto been untouched by the movies—the hydraulic mining whereby tremendously powerful streams of water ripped away hillsides, from the debris of which the miners sifted their metal.

But this debris overflowed upon the lands of the wheat-growers and orchardists, and warfare resulted—a conflict that was prolonged and deadly. The fight extended over a number of years, nearly split the state of California in two, and was not settled until a court decision declared in favor of the agriculturists and made the hydraulic interests quit.

Supporting Brent and Miss de Havilland are Claude Rains, Margaret Lindsay, John Litel, Marcia Ralston, Barton MacLane, Tim Holt (young son of the famous Jack), Sidney Toler, Henry O'Neill, Willie Best, Robert McWade, Harry Davenport, a score of others, plus thousands of extras.

"Gold Is Where You Find It" was made on the actual locale of the ancient war and was directed by Michael Curtiz, maker of such successful action dramas as "Captain Blood" and "Charge of the Light Brigade." It is based upon Clements Ripley's novel.

SANTA ANITA BACKGROUND FOR MANY RACING THRILLS

Racing hoofs and beating hearts mingle to provide dramatic thrills in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents Ronald Sinclair, new discovery in English boy actors, teamed with Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney and Sophie Tucker. The new picture comes today to the Rialto theater.

The play is a drama of childhood friendship and loyalty, based on heart interest, but told against the sensational background of the race track, spectacular races and turf intrigue. Alfred E. Green directed from an original story by Eleanore Griffin and J. Walter Ruben. Much of the action was filmed at the Santa Anita race track, with many famous jockeys and horses and hundreds of people. Harry Rapf produced the picture.

The major thrill is the winning of a race by Ronald Sinclair, despite an injured leg. One of the dramatic highlights is Mickey Rooney's exposure of a band of race track crooks in which he, as a young jockey, faces ruin himself to save his friends.

The peculiar cassowary produces an unearthly croaking sound that lasts for several minutes. When excited, the bird snorts, but the call to the young sounds like the lowing of a cow.

STAR HONORED FOR FIRE PREVENTION ACTIVITIES

The chief's badge, in recognition of his "splendid cooperation in fire prevention activities," was presented to Baxter on the set of "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," Twentieth Century-Fox's witty, penetrating drama in which he is starred with Loretta Young and Virginia Bruce, now playing at the Strand theater.

Baxter has been active in fire prevention work throughout the state of California for several years. His interest in this work began when he observed much waste and carelessness during his numerous big game hunting and fishing expeditions into the wilds.

The film star was presented with a fire siren for his automobile, but inasmuch as the red spotlight offered with it could not be placed under the hood with the siren, Baxter declined this extra accessory because it would make his car too conspicuous.

New Shirley Temple Picture To Open Here Monday

Stellar Cast Supports Young Star In Her Latest Musical Film

YOU'D never know the old farm now—it's a streamlined radio center, with Shirley Temple on a happiness hook-up in the title role of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," her best-of-all musical. The first star of the screen is supported by her starriest cast, sunniest songs, swingiest dances and a hey-hey load of laughter in this new 20th Century-Fox musicomedy hit opening Monday at the Paramount Theater.

When radio appears down by the old mill stream it raises a bumper crop of song and fun, with Randolph Scott and Gloria Stuart united in glorious romance, Jack Haley and Slim Summerville making merry, and tap-king Bill Robinson and Shirley at tap-speed. Phyllis Brooks, Helen Westley, The Raymond Scott quintet, Alan Dinehart and J. Edward Bromberg also are featured, and when all is said and sung, could you ask for anything more?

To the roster of romancing stars, dancing stars, comedy stars and singing stars are added six sunny new song hits, in addition to a medley of Shirley's famous hits of the past which she sings again. The new songs are "An Old Straw Hat," by Gordon and Revel; "Alone With You" "Happy Ending," and "Crackly Grain Flakes," by Pollack and Mitchell; "Come and Get Your Happiness,' by Pokrass and Yellen; and "Toy Trumpet," with music by Raymond Scott and lyrics by Pollack and Mitchell.

Darryl F. Zanuck, in charge of production, selected Allen Dwan to direct Karl Tumberg's and Don Ettlinger's screen-play which was suggested by the Kate Douglas Wiggin story. Raymond Griffith was associate producer.

She's meanest when she's lovin' most—Bette Davis as "Jezebel" and Henry Fonda as her hapless lover in the romantic drama of old New Orleans, playing today for the last times at the Paramount theater.

Woo-woo! I'm lucky—but this time the chorus cuties are doing the wooing while Hugh (Woo-Woo) Herbert is simply flabbergasted! It's all part of the fun in the new musical, "Hollywood Hotel," with Dick Powell, Rosemary Lane, Glenda Farrell and Benny Goodman and his swing band coming to the Capitol theater Friday.

Darryl F. Zanuck's masterpiece, "In Old Chicago," is the mightiest spectacle-thrill any picture ever gave you, yet you'll long remember it for its tender, human story! Tyrone Power, Alice Faye and Don Ameche enact the heart-kindling drama as tempestuous as old Chicago itself. It plays at the Paramount theater next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

'Gold Where You Find It' At Capitol

Spectacular Setting Provided For New Warner Brothers' Outdoor Hit

WITH George Brent and Olivia de Havilland as its stars, "Gold Is Where You Find It," a thrilling melodrama of California in the 1870's, has its local premiere today at the Capitol.

It is a Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan production in Technicolor and according to reports of previewers is one of the really best pictures of the season.

"Gold Is Where You Find It" deals with a phase of gold-seeking that has hitherto been untouched by the movies—the hydraulic mining whereby tremendously powerful streams of water ripped away hillsides, from the debris of which the miners sifted their metal.

But this debris overflowed upon the lands of the wheat-growers and orchardists, and warfare resulted—a conflict that was prolonged and deadly. The fight extended over a number of years, nearly split the state of California in two, and was not settled until a court decision declared in favor of the agriculturists and made the hydraulic interests quit.

Supporting Brent and Miss de Havilland are Claude Rains, Margaret Lindsay, John Litel, Marcia Ralston, Barton MacLane, Tim Holt (young son of the famous Jack), Sidney Toler, Henry O'Neill, Willie Best, Robert McWade, Harry Davenport, a score of others, plus thousands of extras.

"Gold Is Where You Find It" was made on the actual locale of the ancient war and was directed by Michael Curtiz, maker of such successful action dramas as "Captain Blood" and "Charge of the Light Brigade." It is based upon Clements Ripley's novel.

SANTA ANITA BACKGROUND FOR MANY RACING THRILLS

Racing hoofs and beating hearts mingle to provide dramatic thrills in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents Ronald Sinclair, new discovery in English boy actors, teamed with Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney and Sophie Tucker. The new picture comes today to the Rialto theater.

The play is a drama of childhood friendship and loyalty, based on heart interest, but told against the sensational background of the race track, spectacular races and turf intrigue. Alfred E. Green directed from an original story by Eleanore Griffin and J. Walter Ruben. Much of the action was filmed at the Santa Anita race track, with many famous jockeys and horses and hundreds of people, Harry Rapf produced the picture.

The major thrill is the winning of a race by Ronald Sinclair, despite an injured leg. One of the dramatic highlights is Mickey Rooney's exposure of a band of race track crooks in which he, as a young jockey, faces ruin himself to save his friends.

The peculiar cassowary produces an unearthly croaking sound that lasts for several minutes. When excited, the bird snorts, but the call to the young sounds like the lowing of a cow.

ST. MATTHEW'S PLANS EXERCISES

Commencement To Be Ushered In This Morning; To Give Diplomas Tonight

Commencement day at St. Matthew's Parochial High school will be ushered in today by attendance at the 8 a.m. mass, robed in caps and gowns. Immediately following the mass, a breakfast will be served the seniors with the junior mothers as hostesses. The junior class will be guests on this occasion. The seniors will also attend the 10 a.m. high mass.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered at 8 p.m. tonight by Father John Vandegaer, pastor at Tallulah, and preceding the solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, the seniors will receive their diplomas.

Class night was held by the seniors Friday at 8 p.m. The school auditorium was pleasingly decorated for the occasion, and the stage was banked in flowers and ferns.

The chief speaker of the evening was S. E. Burgoyne, local attorney, who lauded the class for its achievements. Father N. F. Vandegaer awarded the following medals:

Christian doctrine medal, from the C. D. A., to Claudia Ann Cage; essay medal award from the Knights of Columbus to Mary Ann Wilds; scholarship for highest scholastic average, Evelyn Geiger, to St. Vincent's college, Shreveport; school activity medals donated by the American Legion post were awarded by Charles Mitchell to Margie Zagone and Mike Devereaux; D. A. R. medal for highest average in American history was presented to Claudia Ann Cage.

MANY ENROLL FOR SUMMER SESSION

State Normal Expects Largest Registration In Its History

NATCHITOCHES, La., May 28.—(Special)—With the heaviest advance reservations for rooms in the college dormitories during the last several years, the nine weeks' summer session which opens Monday at the Louisiana State Normal college here is expected to be one of the largest in the history of the summer term at the State Teachers' college, authorities announced today.

Registration and classification of students will be held on Monday with classroom work beginning Tuesday. Teachers and high school graduates whose schools are late in closing will be permitted to enroll late without being charged an extra fee, officials announced.

Special folders featuring photographs of buildings and activities at the college as well as an outline of classes for the short term have been mailed to 4,000 teachers and 8,000 secondary school graduates throughout the state. Printed schedules of 171 courses to be offered during the session are being distributed to faculty members and students for use in arranging classes Monday.

In addition to the regular work offered, the college will also present two special five weeks' schools of music beginning on June 1. One school will include the second annual band and school clinic, the other a vocal school and clinic. Music teachers, supervisors and high school musicians will be admitted to the special schools, Professor Paul Thornton, head of the college school of music, stated.

BURNETTE-DOWNS POST PLEDGES COOPERATION

The members also agreed to attend in a body the Memorial day services to be held this morning at the West Monroe Baptist church. After 1 p.m. Sunday the members will visit and decorate the graves of all veterans, and at 5 p.m. they plan to attend memorial services to be held in Monroe at Riverview Burial park.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

JONESVILLE, La., May 28.—(Special)—Under the direction of Dr. L. C. Spencer, health unit director for Catahoula parish, the negro section of Jonesville observed clean-up week. Dr. Spencer had crews with transportation facilities busy all week moving debris and litter from the lower section of the town. The section presents a more pleasing view to the passerby.

TECH SERMON TO BE HEARD TODAY

Rev. William Wallace Of Orleans To Hold Baccalaureate Service Today

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—Opening with a faculty reception for the seniors and their parents and a dance in the women's gymnasium Saturday night, Louisiana Tech's 43rd annual commencement activities will continue with the baccalaureate services at 8 p.m. Sunday. Rev. William H. Wallace, pastor of the First Methodist church of New Orleans, will preach the sermon. This program, as well as all of the other senior events, will be conducted on the terrace in front of the college administration building, and not at the stadium, as previously arranged.

Monday's program will include the annual senior class exercises, with James Price, senior president, of Logansport, presiding. Francis Sessums of Ruston will give the salutatory talk. Don Wiley of Birmingham, Ala., will make the official announcement of the senior class gift, which will be Neon signs erected on the campus water tank, and the college president, Dr. E. S. Richardson, will accept the gift. The class history will be read by Larkin Breed of Ruston, and the valedictory will be given by Charles Hooper Smith of Winnfield. Recognition of honor students and the presentation of awards by President Richardson will be a feature of the class exercises.

Events Tuesday will include the president's breakfast for the seniors at 8:30 a.m.; the alumni business meeting at 3:30 p.m.; a basket dinner at 5:30 p.m.; a student play at 6:30 p.m., and the commencement exercises at 8 p.m. The graduation address will be delivered by Dr. C. C. Henson of New Orleans, a member of the state board of education. The list of candidates for degrees totals 198 seniors.

BAPTIST GAVEL CHANGES HANDS

REV. HICKS TO ADDRESS MARION HIGH SENIORS

MARION, La., May 28.—(Special)—Rev. Guy Hicks, pastor of the Ruston Methodist church, will make the commencement address at the commencement exercises of Marion High school Thursday night.

The senior class is composed of 24 students. They are: Maxie Lee Arrant, Carrie Lou Buckley, Doyle Crow, Jamie Ruth Crow, Maggie Dollar, Lauree Edwards, Quinnie Faye Hale, Agnes Lee Holloway, Rex. C. Houser, Ruby Lee Johnston, Celestine Jones, Miles B. Medlin, Clinton Murry, Bardin Nelson, James Newsom, Cecil Oliver, Eileen Gelynn Platt, Edgar Powell, Margie Parker, Ruby Ray, John Tom Savage, Dennis Towns, Dollie Taunton and Jim Allen Wheelis.

FIRE RAZES HOME OF PARISH AGENT

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—Fire believed to have originated from a stove while all occupants of the house were away completely destroyed the home of J. A. Shealy, Lincoln parish agricultural agent, about 9:45 a.m. Friday. Only a radio in a front room was saved, it is reported.

The Shealy home was located in the Cooktown community, about three miles from Ruston. The Ruston fire department rushed to the scene but the fire was beyond control when the firemen arrived, according to Chief O. K. Davis.

A negro cook had been at the house earlier in the morning and had gone to a neighboring house. Upon returning to the Shealy home she found the house in flames.

Mr. Shealy was attending to the duties of his office here at the time of the fire, while Mrs. Shealy and their children were in school at Louisiana Tech.

The house was but partly covered by insurance and none of the contents were insured, it is said.

OPPOSED FOR REELECTION

JONESVILLE, La., May 28.—(Special)—The municipal election to be held in Jonesville June 24 finds only the mayor, W. P. Foster, opposed for reelection. To date only one alderman has filed as a candidate. In the race for town marshal Ben Neal, incumbent, is unopposed. Dewey Parrish, local merchant, is opposing W. P. Foster, who has served two terms as mayor.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 29, 1938. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Therefore thus saith the Lord God. Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen lies, therefore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God." (Ezek. 13). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind." (p. 103).

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district, filled the pulpit here Sunday evening, bringing a great message on the history and progress of the Methodist church during the past two centuries of its existence. He also gave some of the high points of the general conference at Birmingham, of which he was a member, being a delegate from the Louisiana conference. It was the occasion of the second quarterly conference for the year and the reports of the pastor and from the various departments of the church showed progress since the last annual conference. The usual program of work will be observed this Sunday, with Sunday school opening at 9:45 a.m. and the worship service at 11 a.m. The pastor's subject will be: "A Fighting Chance." The two Epworth leagues will hold services at 7 o'clock in the evening and at 7:45 p.m., the young people of the church will have charge of the public service. It is understood that a special program of music and songs, as well as addresses, is being prepared. Two of our choice young men who feel a call to enter the ministry, will bring messages. A record attendance at this service is expected. Miss Arline Crockett will have charge of the music. Mrs. R. G. Luckett will preside at the piano at the morning service. The zone meeting of the Women's Missionary society, of which Mrs. J. M. Alford is leader, will present a program at Mer Rouge next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A special program of the Aldersgate commemoration was presented last Tuesday night. It was said to be one of the most interesting services ever held in Gordon Avenue Methodist church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school and Bible class at 9:45 a.m. Church service at 10:45 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in the morning service. All of the communicants are urged to partake, as this will be the last opportunity before the summer vacations. Everyone is cordially invited to worship with us.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"Unashamed and Unafraid" and "The Grace of Forbearance" are the subjects about which we are to think today. The first is based upon the experiences of Jesus of Nazareth and Paul, the apostle to the Gentiles; the second, upon the earnest exhortation of a famous Christian. Will you worship with us that we may consider these timely topics? An effort is under way to enlist as many as the Lord may give by July 1, the Sabbath when the Communion of the Lord's Supper is observed. Hence, if this is the faith of your conviction, will you meet with the elders that you may be officially received into our congregation? The session gathers each Sabbath at 10:45 a.m., 12:01 p.m., and 8:45 p.m. The attendance at the Sabbath school is good. With your interest it will increase. Will you join us in the study of the Word today? The Frank P. Stubbs Memorial class holds its meeting in the Paramount theater; the other groups in the church buildings.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

"Keep holding on, just one more hour,
May bring to thee the promised power
Keep holding on, thy Lord doth care,
He'll not forget to answer prayer.
"Keep holding on, unto the end,
For near at hand is Christ thy friend.
Keep holding on, 'till heaven's light,
Shall take the place of earthly night.
"Keep holding on, keep holding on,
The victory will soon be won;
The longest day will soon be gone,
Keep holding on, keep holding on."

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 7 p.m. Mrs. Gene Williamson will be in charge of the program. Evangelistic service at 7:45 p.m. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45, Mr. A. A. Perkins, leader.

Mid-week meeting Wednesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Choir practice Friday at 7:30 p.m. Children's day program next Sunday.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor
Dale Cobb, Director

Superintendent E. L. Boies will call the Sunday school to order at 9:45 a.m. All teachers and officers are expected earlier. We have a splendid program of interest to all and we anticipate a large attendance at all services. The Brotherhood and the B. T. U. will meet jointly promptly at 6:45 p.m. The pastor's subjects for the day are: "Glorifying God in Fruit Bearing" and "How to Keep What You Have Already Layed Up." The church needs all the membership to be present at the services this Lord's day and equally so all our people need to be in attendance at these worship services. Come and let's fulfill the admonition of the Lord's word (Hebrews 10:25): "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is."

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

There are four great certainties with which we all have to deal: The uncertainty of life; the certainty of death; the fact that we have all sinned and come short of the glory of God; and the scheme of redemption for all mankind. You are invited to worship with the Church of the Nazarene at the following services: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., Mr. S. P. Quigley, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. by the pastor. Young people's meetings at 6:45 p.m. The W. M. S. Tuesday at 2 p.m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edw. Farren Hayward, Rector

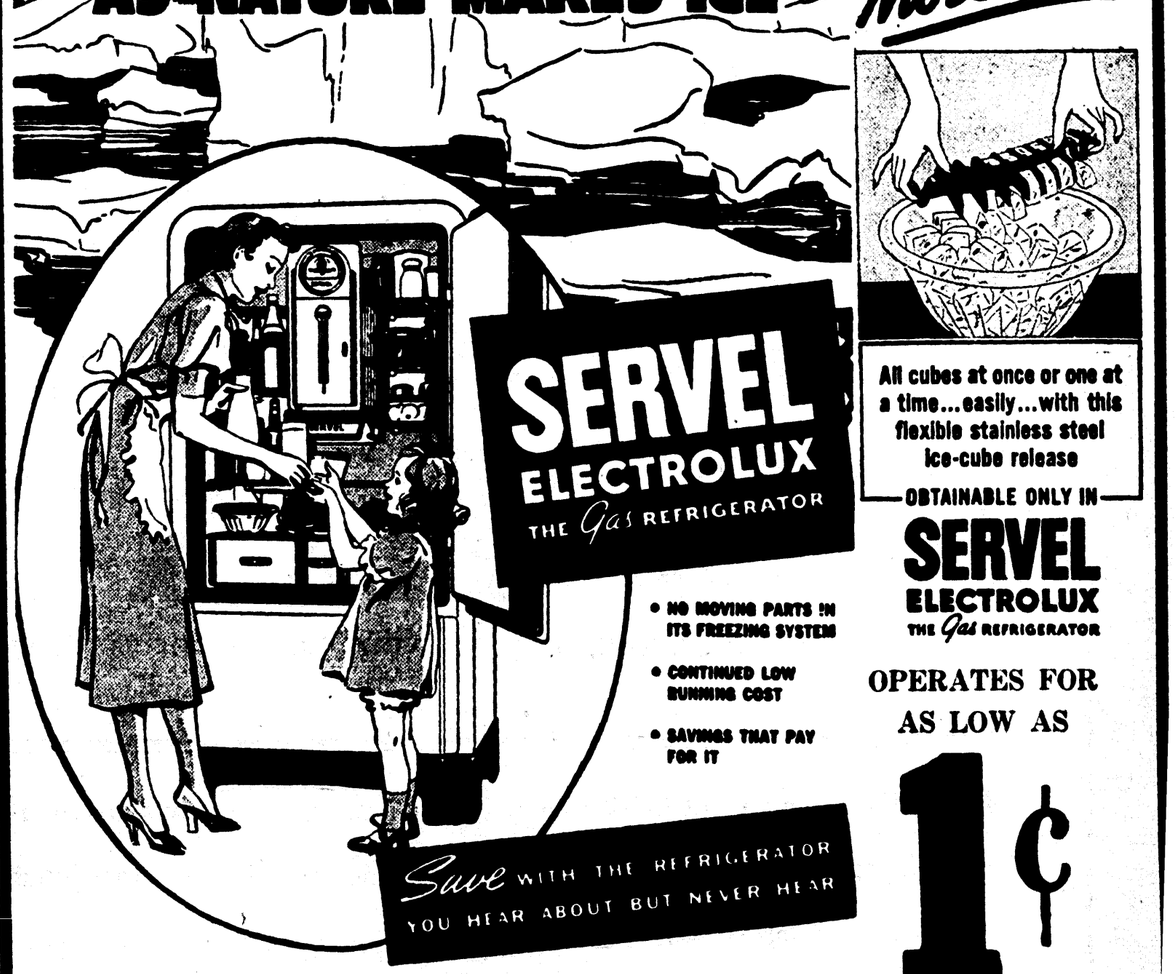

Perhaps the darkest Sunday that was ever hallowed by the church was that which followed our Lord's Ascension. The little band of faithful was only 120 in number; and in a narrow room in Jerusalem—that contains the whole Catholic church. Christ had promised them the Holy Ghost, The Comforter; but on this Sunday the Holy Comforter had not come. Therefore this Sunday is called "Expectation Sunday," because as in the early church, so we today are waiting for and expecting the coming of the Holy Ghost to comfort us in our pilgrimage and "to exalt us unto the same place whither our Saviour Christ has gone before. Services on this Sunday are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m., church school will assemble at 9:30 a.m., and at the 10:45 service the reverend rector of Holy Trinity church, Rev. Dr. Estornelle, will take the service and preach the sermon. The rector of Grace church, Monroe, will journey to Vicksburg and take the 11 o'clock service for Dr. Estornelle, who is rector of Holy Trinity church. A goodly number of people are desired for both services on Sunday; the early Eucharist and the late service at which time the guest preacher is, as announced above, Rev. Dr. Estornelle.

The veterans of all wars and their auxiliaries will be our guests. They are to assemble at 10:45 and will occupy a special reserved section. We are happy to have as our guest these fine organizations and extend a most cordial invitation to the public to be with us for this service. G. A.'s will meet at the church Monday at 4 p.m. Choir rehearsal will be Monday at 8 p.m. The deacons will meet Tuesday night in the pastor's study at 7:30. The W. M. S. will have a garden party at Mrs. Huntsberry's at 3 p.m. Tuesday. The Helen Bagby Y. W. A. will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the home of Miss Edith Adams. Workers' council will meet in regular monthly session in the basement of the church at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The church will meet in regular monthly business session Wednesday at 8 p.m.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue And North Second Street

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 709 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sundays and holidays, 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, May 29, 1938. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen lies, therefore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God." (Ezek. 13). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind." (p. 103).

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district, filled the pulpit here Sunday evening, bringing a great message on the history and progress of the Methodist church during the past two centuries of its existence. He also gave some of the high points of the general conference at Birmingham, of which he was a member, being a delegate from the Louisiana conference. It was the occasion of the second quarterly conference for the year and the reports of the pastor and from the various departments of the church showed progress since the last annual conference. The usual program of work will be observed this Sunday, with Sunday school opening at 9:45 a.m. and the worship service at 11 a.m. The pastor's subject will be: "A Fighting Chance." The two Epworth leagues will hold services at 7 o'clock in the evening and at 7:45 p.m., the young people of the church will have charge of the public service. It is understood that a special program of music and songs, as well as addresses, is being prepared. Two of our choice young men who feel a call to enter the ministry, will bring messages. A record attendance at this service is expected. Miss Arline Crockett will have charge of the music. Mrs. R. G. Luckett will preside at the piano at the morning service. The zone meeting of the Women's Missionary society, of which Mrs. J. M. Alford is leader, will present a program at Mer Rouge next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A special program of the Aldersgate commemoration was presented last Tuesday night. It was said to be one of the most interesting services ever held in Gordon Avenue Methodist church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

Special services will be held at 11 a.m., at which time the pastor will preach the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class of Crosley school. With a class of almost three hundred we are looking for a great congregation of students and parents. The subject for the sermon will be: "Preparing for Life's Work." A special musical program under the direction of Mr. G. C. Williams has been arranged for this service. At 9:45 a.m. our Sunday school will meet for the study period and all our people are invited to be present for this service. Come and bring the whole family. At 8 p.m. the evening worship program will be held and the pastor will use as a subject: "Luggage and Life." The public invited to attend every service.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With The Lighted Steeple"
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

"If Youth But Knew" will be the theme of the sermon planned especially for the graduates of Neville High school, who will be our guests this morning for their baccalaureate. The public is invited. A cordial welcome awaits you at all our services, which begin at 11 in the morning and 7:45 in the evening. Church school begins at 9:30 a.m. in the children's division and 9:45 in all other departments. There will be no meeting of the women's missionary society on Tuesday as this is the fifth Tuesday of the month. The Monroe district conference will be held in Wisner, La., Thursday, June 2, with the district pastor, Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding. The minister and several delegates from this church will be in attendance. On Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. Q. Graves, the young people of the church will entertain our Methodist graduates from Neville High, Ouachita Parish and Northeast Center of L. S. U. The Parker Memorial class will hold its monthly business and social meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. W. C. Scott, 702 Jackson street.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison And D'Arbonne
Sherrouse Addition
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school and Bible class at 9:45 a.m. Church service at 10:45 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in the morning service. All of the communicants are urged to partake, as this will be the last opportunity before the summer vacations. Everyone is cordially invited to worship with us.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"Unashamed and Unafraid" and "The Grace of Forbearance" are the subjects about which we are to think today. The first is based upon the experiences of Jesus of Nazareth and Paul, the apostle to the Gentiles; the second, upon the earnest exhortation of a famous Christian. Will you worship with us that we may consider these timely topics? An effort is under way to enlist as many as the Lord may give by July 3, the Sabbath when the Communion of the Lord's Supper is observed. Hence, if this is the faith of your conviction, will you meet with the elders that you may be officially received into our congregation? The session gathers each Sabbath at 10:45 a.m., 12:01 p.m., and 8:45 p.m. The attendance at the Sabbath school is good. With your interest it will increase. Will you join us in the study of the Word today? The Frank P. Stubbs Memorial class holds its meeting in the Paramount theater; the other groups in the church buildings.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third Street
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

"Keep holding on, just one more hour,
May bring to thee the promised power
Keep holding on, thy Lord doth care,
He'll not forget to answer prayer,
"Keep holding on, unto the end,
For near at hand is Christ thy friend,
Keep holding on, 'till heaven's light,
Shall take the place of earthly night.
"Keep holding on, keep holding on,
The victory will soon be won;
The longest day will soon be gone,
Keep holding on, keep holding on."

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 7 p.m. Mrs. Gene Williamson will be in charge of the program. Evangelistic service at 7:45 p.m. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:45, Mr. A. A. Perkins, leader.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
St. John And Oak
R. T. Watson, Minister
M. G. Moore, Church School Superintendent
Mrs. P. J. Newman, Choir Director

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship service at 10:50 a.m. Sermon, "The Kingdom of God." Senior C. E. at 6:45 p.m. Intermediate C. E. at 7 p.m. Evening worship service at 7:45 p.m. Sermon, "The Wave-Man, the Rock-Man." Mid-week meeting Wednesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Choir practice Friday at 7:30 p.m. Children's day program next Sunday.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor
Dale Cobb, Director

Superintendent E. L. Boies will call the Sunday school to order at 9:45 a.m. All teachers and officers are expected earlier. We have a splendid program of interest to all and we anticipate a large attendance at all services. The Brotherhood and the B. T. U. will meet jointly promptly at 6:45 p.m. The pastor's subjects for the day are: "Glorifying God in Fruit Bearing" and "How to Keep What You Have Already Layed Up." The church needs all the membership to be present at the services this Lord's day and equally so all our people need to be in attendance at these worship services. Come and let's fulfill the admonition of the Lord's word (Hebrews 10:25): "Not forsaking the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is."

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

There are four great certainties with which we all have to deal: The uncertainty of life; the certainty of death; the fact that we have all sinned and come short of the glory of God; and the scheme of redemption for all mankind. You are invited to worship with the Church of the Nazarene at the following services: Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., Mr. S. P. Quigley, superintendent. Preaching at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. by the pastor. Young people's meetings at 6:45 p.m. The W. M. S. Tuesday at 2 p.m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edw. Farren Hayward, Rector

Perhaps the darkest Sunday that was ever hallowed by the church was that which followed our Lord's Ascension. The little band of faithful was only 120 in number; and in a narrow room in Jerusalem—that contains the whole Catholic church. Christ had promised them the Holy Ghost, The Comforter; but on this Sunday the Holy Comforter had not come. Therefore this Sunday is called "Expectation Sunday," because as in the early church, so we today are waiting for and expecting the coming of the Holy Ghost to comfort us in our pilgrimage and "to exalt us unto the same place whither our Saviour Christ has gone before. Services on this Sunday are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m., church school will assemble at 9:30 a.m., and at the 10:45 service the reverend rector of Holy Trinity church, Rev. Dr. Estornelle, will take the service and preach the sermon. The rector of Grace church, Monroe, will journey to Vicksburg and take the 11 o'clock service for Dr. Estornelle, who is rector of Holy Trinity church. A goodly number of people are desired for both services on Sunday; the early Eucharist and the late service at which time the guest preacher is, as announced above, Rev. Dr. Estornelle.

TECH SERMON TO BE HEARD TODAY

Rev. William Wallace Of Orleans To Hold Baccalaureate Service Today

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—Opening with a faculty reception for the seniors and their parents and a dance in the women's gymnasium Saturday night, Louisiana Tech's 43rd annual commencement activities will continue with the baccalaureate services at 8 p.m. Sunday. Rev. William H. Wallace, pastor of the First Methodist church of New Orleans, will preach the sermon. This program, as well as all of the other senior events, will be conducted on the terrace in front of the college administration building, and not at the stadium, as previously arranged.

Monday's program will include the annual senior class exercises, with James Price, senior president, of Logansport, presiding. Francis Sessums of Ruston will give the salutatory talk. Don Wiley of Birmingham, Ala., will make the official announcement of the senior class gift, which will be Neon signs erected on the campus water tank, and the college president, Dr. E. S. Richardson, will accept the gift. The class history will be read by Larkin Breed of Ruston, and the valedictory will be given by Charles Hooper Smith of Winnfield. Recognition of honor students and the presentation of awards by President Richardson will be a feature of the class exercises.

Events Tuesday will include the president's breakfast for the seniors at 8:30 a.m.; the alumni business meeting at 3:30 p.m.; a basket dinner at 5:30 p.m.; a student play at 6:30 p.m., and the commencement exercises at 8 p.m. The graduation address will be delivered by Dr. C. C. Henson of New Orleans, a member of the state board of education. The list of candidates for degrees totals 198 seniors.

REV. HICKS TO ADDRESS MARION HIGH SENIORS

MARION, La., May 28.—(Special)—Rev. Guy Hicks, pastor of the Ruston Methodist church, will make the commencement address at the commencement exercises of Marion High school Thursday night.

The senior class is composed of 24 students. They are: Maxie Lee Arrant, Carrie Lou Buckley, Doyle Crow, Jamie Ruth Crow, Maggie Dollar, Lauree Edwards, Quinnie Faye Hale, Agnes Lee Holloway, Rex. C. Houser, Ruby Lee Johnston, Celestine Jones, Miles B. Medlin, Clinton Murry, Bardin Nelson, James Newsom, Cecil Oliver, Eileen Gelynn Platt, Edgar Powell, Margie Parker, Ruby Ray, John Tom Savage, Dennis Towns, Dollie Taunton and Jim Allen Wheelis.

FIRE RAZES HOME OF PARISH AGENT

RUSTON, La., May 28.—(Special)—Fire believed to have originated from a stove while all occupants of the house were away completely destroyed the home of J. A. Shealy, Lincoln parish agricultural agent, about 9:45 a.m. Friday. Only a radio in a front room was saved, it is reported.

The Shealy home was located in the Cooktown community, about three miles from Ruston. The Ruston fire department rushed to the scene but the fire was beyond control when the firemen arrived, according to Chief O. K. Davis.

A negro cook had been at the house earlier in the morning and had gone to a neighboring house. Upon returning to the Shealy home she found the house in flames.

Mr. Shealy was attending to the duties of his office here at the time of the fire, while Mrs. Shealy and their children were in school at Louisiana Tech.

The house was but partly covered by insurance and none of the contents were insured, it is said.

OPPOSED FOR REELECTION

JONESVILLE, La., May 28.—(Special)—The municipal election to be held in Jonesville June 24 finds only the mayor, W. P. Foster, opposed for reelection. To date only one alderman has filed as a candidate. In the race for town marshal Ben Neal, incumbent, is unopposed. Dewey Parrish, local merchant, is opposing W. P. Foster, who has served two terms as mayor.

OH I'M OKAY. JUST DELAYED HERE A BIT.

WHAT DID YOU LOSE, GEORGE? CAN I HELP..?

NO THANKS, HERMAN. YOU JUST RUN ON. TELL JO I'LL BE RIGHT HOME.

WELL, OKAY.

HEY HERMAN, WHAT DID YOU PICK UP?

OH I JUST FASTENED MY SHOE LACE.

THAT ROLL.

GONE. GONE. THE MORE I THINK OF THAT GYP REACHING DOWN.

I SHOULD HAVE FRISKED HIM...WELL I CAN CATCH HIM.

HE BEAT ME HOME. MORE PROOF THAT HE'S GUILTY. THAT LOW..

YES, HERMAN IS IN BED. ASLEEP.

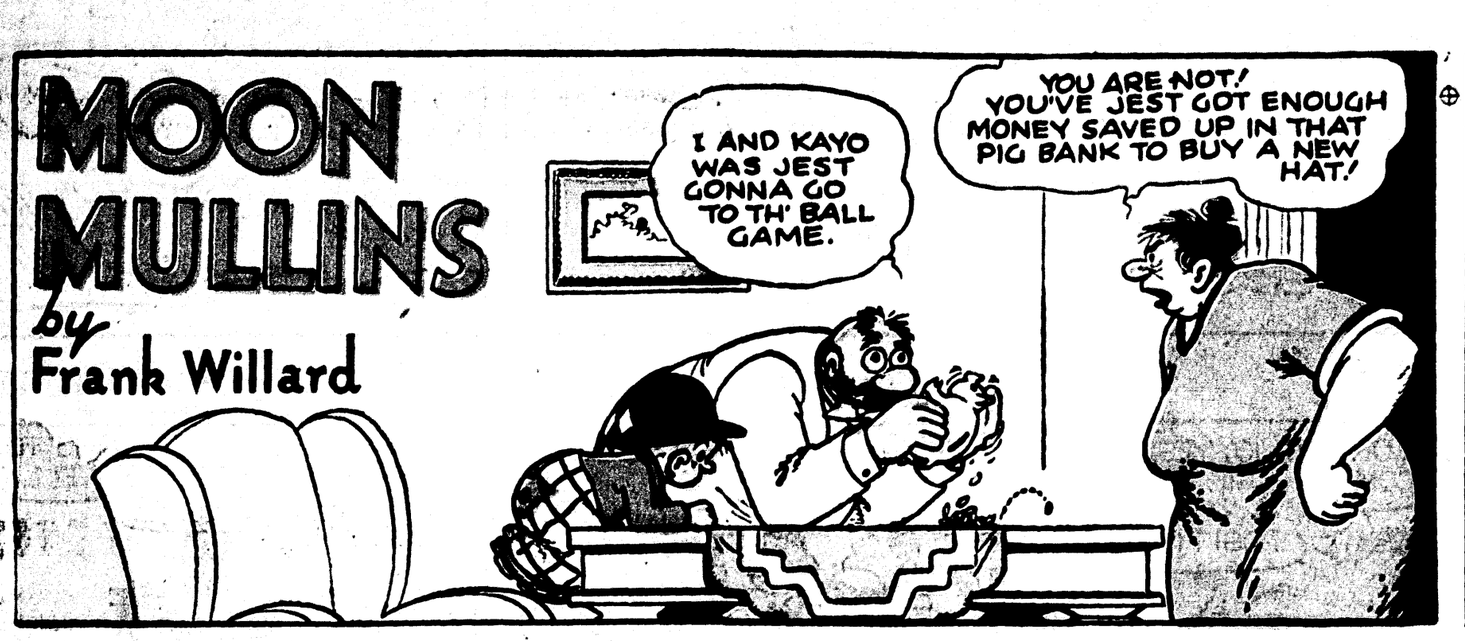

THE IDEA. THREE HOURS AGO YOU SAID YOU'D BE RIGHT HOME, AND..

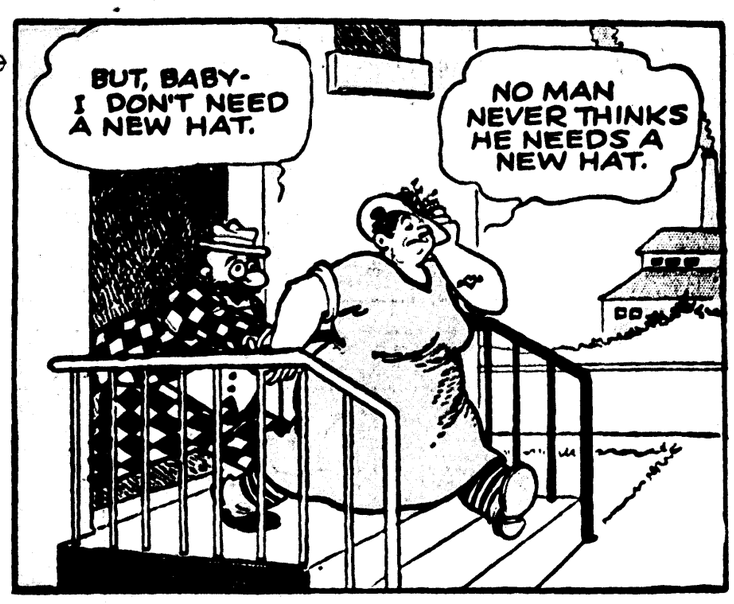

LISTEN JO, I'M WARNING YOU. AFTER WHAT I'VE BEEN THROUGH, ANYBODY CAN GET AN ARGUMENT OUT OF ME! ANYBODY!

CAPTAIN EASY BY ROY CRANE

THOSE CAGES ARE SLIDING AROUND TOO MUCH.

IF ONE EVER BUSTS OPEN, GOOD NIGHT!

POOF! BE UNAFRAID, MY LITTLE ONES, FOR I AM HERE TO PROTECT YOU.

WILD BEASTS ARE LIKE KITTENS TO ME. I CAPTURE THEM ALIVE. HA HA! THEY DO NOT CALL ME THE MASTER OF BEASTS FOR NOTHING. NO INDEED!

BEHOLD! I SNAP MY FINGERS, AND THE TIGER CRINGES IN A CORNER.

I MAKE FACES AND THE APE— BOO!

CRASH!

HA! DID YOU SEE WHAT A FRIGHT I GAVE HIM? THE BEAST WAS SO TERRIFIED THAT HE SEIZED THE ROPE WHICH HOLDS UP THE SAIL.

TH' DERN SAIL ALMOST FELL ON MY HEAD, TOO.

LUCKILY IT HIT THE TIGER'S CAGE.

HOLY SMOKE!

WHY DIN'T YOU SNAP YOUR FINGERS AT 'IM?

PLEASE, EXCELLENCIES! DO NOT JEST AT A TIME LIKE THIS. OUR BOAT IS GONE! WE SHALL DROWN!

SURE. JUST MAKE FUNNY FACES AT 'EM, BUDDIE. SHOW US HOW YOU MAKE 'EM CRINGE!

$3.00 SERVING SET yours for 50¢ and SNOWDRIFT strip

THESE PIECES GUARANTEED

Wm. Rogers Mfg. Co. (International Silver Co.,) guarantees this is Original Rogers Silverplate. The Spoon and Fork are plated with pure silver on the highest quality nickel silver metal. These pieces are guaranteed to give satisfaction in family use and will be replaced by them, without charge, at any time they do not conform to this guarantee.

YOU WILL ENJOY USING—OR GIVING —THIS BEAUTIFUL SERVING SET IN ORIGINAL

Wm. Rogers Silverplate

Here is the newest, smartest idea in fine silverware—THE SERVING SET—offered you by Snowdrift at an unprecedented low price. You cannot afford to miss it. You will enjoy serving salads with this set, or using the handsome fork for cold meats or the deep-bowl spoon for berries. No matter how much silverware you now have, you will still want this serving set in its exclusive Louisiane pattern.

It makes a perfect bridge prize, birthday or wedding gift—every woman will want at least one set.

HERE IS HOW YOU GET THIS SERVING SET. Just ask your grocer for Snowdrift. Unwind the strip that locks in Snowdrift's freshness and goodness and cut the word, "Goodness," from the strip. Mail this—together with 50c (in coin, carefully wrapped)—and your name and address to Louisiane Silver Service, P. O. Box 239, Wallingford, Conn., (or to the Wesson Oil & Snowdrift People, New Orleans, La.). Your serving set will be mailed at once, postpaid.

AND YOUR FAMILY WILL ENJOY FOODS MADE WITH SNOWDRIFT

Snowdrift is the fresh, wholesome shortening that is already creamed for you.

The moment you start blending Snowdrift with the sugar, you'll see how much time and trouble Snowdrift's extra creaminess saves you in mixing. Snowdrift makes cakes light and lovely—biscuits light and tender—its fine, delicate flavor means extra good taste in everything you bake.

Try frying with Snowdrift, too. There's no smoking or burning, for Snowdrift gives you a wide margin of safety at frying temperatures. Foods fried in Snowdrift are so good tasting and so easy to digest. Ask your grocer for Snowdrift. Enjoy its locked-in goodness.

You Can Get Complete Set in Same Pattern. Send for this gleaming serving set, and get full details for the complete Louisiane silverware service that only Snowdrift offers you. With your serving set you get a folder describing the knives, forks, spoons, salad forks—and all the other beautiful Louisiane pieces—all obtainable under the same amazing money-saving offer. Use the coupon at right.
